Roosevelt Issues Plea For Private Charities

Still Needed, He Says Names 'Lower Third' Cites U.S.'Generosity' Sees No Conflict

Despite the great increase in social security activities by Federal, State, and local government, there is still great need for volunteer relief and welfare agencies, President Roosevelt declared last night in a coast-to-coast broadcast from the White House.

The President's talk marked the opening of the Nation's twenty-fifth Community Mobilization for Human Needs.

[Washington's eleventh annual Community Chest drive gets under way November 9.]

"It is true that our Government has assumed increased responsibilities for social welfare," the President said.

But the need for community action is just as great as before, he added, "because Government help was intended, and is intended, to improve the old conditions, and if local help and private help decrease today, we will nullify the improvement and return to where we were before."

Points to Harmony

There has been no conflict between Government and private agencies, Mr. Roosevelt pointed out.

"There is more than enough work for both in our national effort to lift up the lower one-third of our Nation to a standard of living which will conform with decency and comfort and self-respect," he said.

"Very definitely we need the effort of the pioneer agencies, the local volunteer agencies, because it is expended on concrete problems which must be met if our whole program is to go forward with the coordination that is its basic aim."

Mr. Roosevelt pointed out that despite the Government's relief of 3,000,000 unemployed, and the assistance given to the underprivileged and physically handicapped through Federal programs, "the private agencies of America still have much to do before any of us can rest on our oars or on our laurels."

Not "Making Speech"

The President declared he was not "making a speech or an appeal" for the 1938 Mobilization for Human Needs, but rather was "calling attention to the past and present generosity of the people of America."

"That generosity never has failed, and please God it never will fail," he said. He saluted leaders in the Community Chest drives as "shock troops of the social conscience."

Following the talk by the President, Charles P. Taft, national mobilization chairman, made a special appeal in behalf of the New England flood and hurricane victims. He spoke from Providence, R. I., where a relief conference was in session. Also on the program was the Cincinnati Symphony, conducted by Jose Iturbi.

Nine million persons contributed to last year's Nation-wide funds campaign, which benefited 8,500 agencies in some 500 cities and towns. In Washington last year 136,278 contributions were made, aiding 50 welfare units.

Gem Thief Given Sentence Six Days After Crime Here

What was believed to be the speediest criminal case in District history, ended yesterday after Louis Franklin, colored, 29, was sentenced six days after the theft of $770 worth of jewelry from the home of Rear Admiral Edward J. Marquardt last Saturday.

Arrested Saturday, Franklin's case came before the grand jury Tuesday, he was indicted Wednesday and tried and sentenced Friday.

Pleading guilty in District Court, he was sentenced yesterday to serve 12 to 30 months in the penitentiary.

This streamlined train of justice was started by Franklin's arrest, which occurred less than one hour after the theft was discovered by Mrs. Marquardt. The jewelry was recovered from a furnace in a house in the 3700 block of Upton street northwest.

The theft was discovered when Admiral and Mrs. Marquardt returned to their home at 2945 Newark street northwest from a football game late Saturday. Mrs. Marquardt told detectives she had hidden the gems in a trunk in the attic Saturday morning and furnished Franklin's name, explaining he had been washing windows when the family left the house.

Franklin was trailed to his home and was arrested after the jewelry was recovered.

Women Work Only to Aid Families, U. S. Officials Say

Would Stop if They Could, Miss Lenroot Adds Mrs. Woodward, WPA, Backs Findings Alarm Over Figures Is Discounted

Women work outside the home only because they must support themselves and their families and would leave their jobs if they could, two women at the head of Government bureaus said yesterday.

Women who find jobs with the WPA are certified for work because they are the sole support of themselves and their families, and for no other reason, said Mrs. Ellen S. Woodward, assistant administrator in charge of womens and professional projects.

Women who have to work to support themselves and their families would stop if there were other wage earners on whom they could depend, declared Miss Katherine Lenroot, director of the Children's Bureau of the Labor Department. She added her bureau long has considered it axiomatic that women work from necessity and not from choice.

Thus they supported the contention of Earlene White, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, that women work because they are the wage earners for their families. They discounted alarm over figures in the 1937 unemployment census showing there were 2,740,000 more employed women than the 1930 census gave reason to expect.

Though an increase in women workers, especially mothers, undoubtedly creates problems, an arbitrary act limiting employment opportunities would intensify rather than diminish these problems, Miss Lenroot said.

The solution, she declared, lies in improvement of economic condi-

Pennsylvania Shopmen Turn Down A. F. L.

Favor Industrial Union U. S. Supervises Voting D. C. Workers Included

By the United Press.

Pennsylvania railroad shopmen were disclosed yesterday to have chosen industrial unionism in preference to seven craft unions in the largest collective bargaining election ever conducted by the national mediation board.

The unaffiliated Brotherhood of Shop Crafts of America, formed after the railroad shop strike of 1922, defeated seven crafts represented by the American Federation of Labor's railway employes department by a vote of 17,068 to 10,934 in an election supervised by the board.

The unaffiliated union, attacked as a "company" union by federation leaders, won in every craft as shopmen in 13 States and the District of Columbia balloted.

D. C. Employes Included

Maintenance department employes in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia, Missouri and the District balloted in the election between September 6 and October 5. Votes were counted in Philadelphia but results were announced here.

The B. of R. S. C. was opposed by the A. F. of L.'s machinists, boilermakers, blacksmiths, sheet metal workers, railway carmen, electrical workers and roundhouse and shopworkers unions.

The mediation board now will be called upon to certify the unaffiliated union as sole bargaining agency

Carlin, Owner Of Alexandria Gazette, Dies

Practiced Law Here Served in Congress Led Virginia Politics

Charles Creighton Carlin, Washington attorney and former member of Congress and political leader of the Eighth Virginia District, died yesterday at his home, 2008 Sixteenth street northwest. He was 73.

He was also owner of the Alexandria Gazette, the oldest newspaper in the United States. Educated in law, he began his political career early and served the Democratic Party almost half a century.

Mr. Carlin was born in Alexandria, Va., April 8, 1865, to a family impoverished by the Civil War, and he grew to young manhood in the dark days of reconstruction and readjustment. After preparatory training in the public schools of Alexandria and the Alexandria Academy, he was graduated from the National University Law School here and was admitted to the bar in 1891, beginning practice in Alexandria.

Elector in 1904

His first public service was as postmaster at Alexandria, 1893-97. In 1904 he was Presidential elector on the Democratic ticket of Parker and Davis. He was a delegate to the Democratic national conventions for 40 years and was a member of the District of Columbia delegation to the Chicago convention in 1932, which nominated Franklin D. Roosevelt for President.

Upon the death of Representative John F. Rixey in 1907, Mr. Carlin was elected to fill his term and served continuously until his resignation in 1919 to form the law firm

Wheeler, With 'Honor Enough,' 'Probably Won't' Run in 1940

By Sidney Olson.

Senator Wheeler (Democrat), of Montana, announced yesterday he may not and "probably won't" run for re-election to the Senate in 1940.

Predicting the next session would be "full of major battles," Wheeler scoffed at stories the conservatives would oust Senator Barkley (Democrat), of Kentucky, from his post as majority leader. He said bluntly:

"We've got the votes. We could do it, all right. But what would be the point?

"Let Barkley go on as leader. Whom will he lead? Schwellenbach and Minton?

"The next Senate will be every man for himself."

(Barkley, the President's choice for the leadership, won by one vote over Senator Harrison, of Mississippi. Schwellenbach, of Washington, and Minton, of Indiana, are both 100 per cent New Dealers.)

Wheeler, one of the President's most effective opponents on Capitol Hill—whose leadership has often been termed by conservatives as "absolutely essential" to defeat of the President on a major issue, made his statement about not running again the basis for outlining a sort of rough program for his own conduct in the next session.

He pledged himself once again to the "broad objectives" of President Roosevelt, reiterating his belief in the essentials of the New Deal, but again asserted his disagreement with the "lack of practicality" in administration and in legislation. He said:

"How can you quarrel with the

WLW Attack May Widen FCC Purge

Power May Be Cut Decision Tentative Tied to Gary Ouster Wisner May Be Next

By James D. Secrest.

A preliminary decision to put an end to the superpower broadcasts of Station WLW, Cincinnati, the Nation's most powerful radio station, yesterday "leaked" out of the Federal Communications Commission and threatened to widen the current purge and the breach within the commission itself.

While officially unconfirmed, the report was widespread in radio circles that a three-man committee of the FCC had voted to deny an extension of WLW's experimental license to operate with 500 kilowatts as it has since 1934.

The committee's decision is subject to approval of the full commission and reports were current that pressure was being brought to reverse the action.

Linked to Gary "Purge"

Station WLW is owned by Powel Crosley, Jr., who a year ago startled political and broadcasting circles by hiring Charles Michelson, Democratic publicity chief, as public relations adviser at $15,000 a year. At that time Commissioner George Henry Payne had made his first move to end Crosley's profitable "experiment."

The committee's decision, even if sustained, however, would not put WLW off the air as it has a "regular" license to operate with 50 kw., which is the present maximum broadcasting power authorized under FCC rules.

The WLW case is the most important that has come before the commission since Chairman Frank R. McNinch took office with orders to "clean house," and it recently has been linked by rumor with the current purge of Hampson Gary, ousted FCC counsel, and other expected dismissals.

McNinch Denies Report

McNinch, who was the only commissioner who could be reached last night, said he knew nothing of the reported decision except that he understood it was being mimeographed. He denied that the WLW case, however, had had any connection with the purge.

Members of the committee are Commissioners Norman Case, chairman, who is ill; George Henry Payne and T. A. M. Craven.

The WLW case has been one of the greatest causes of friction within the commission since it was abruptly set for public hearing late last spring. The action was taken by Payne, who had previously had a row with Crosley, while acting on routine broadcasting applications under the rotation system inaugurated by McNinch.

One authoritative report, denied by McNinch, is that the FCC chairman reprimanded Gary for his failure to find a legal reason for reversing Payne's action.

Until that time WLW's seniam-

A. F. L. Charters Seafarers' Rival To C. I. O. Union

Houston, Tex., Oct. 14 (U.P.).—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, announced tonight that a charter had been granted to the Seafarers International Union of North America, as a rival to the Committee for Industrial Organization's National Maritime Union.

Green said the federation's executive council granted the charter as the first international move to organize 125,000 maritime firemen, enginemen, stewards, fishermen and all unlicensed ship personnel.

The temporary presidency was handed to Harry Lundberg, head of the federation's Sailors Union of the Pacific, whose jurisdiction will include the Atlantic, Pacific, Gulf and Canadian coasts and the Great Lakes.

Strachey Awaits Hearing on Island

New York, Oct. 14 (AP).—John Strachey, British writer and lecturer, will have to remain on Ellis Island until the United States Immigration Board of Reviews hears an appeal from the order which barred him last Monday from the United States because of his interest in communism.

At the office of Arthur Garfield Hayes, counsel for the American Civil Liberties Union, it was announced the Labor Department in Washington had denied bail for Strachey's release. The announcement said Hayes would appear before the board of review on Monday to argue his appeal.

Hierarchy Finds War Still Possible

Meeting Here Ends Austrian Plight Told Labor Strife Deplored Pope's Words Cited

By Edward T. Folliard

Catholic archbishops and bishops of the United States, ending a three-day meeting here, said in a statement last night that, while they rejoiced that war had been averted "for a time" at Munich, they could not close their eyes to the fact that the threat of war remained.

Turning to the domestic situation, the spiritual leaders of 21,000,000 American Catholics said they were "grieved" over the warfare between "labor and labor"—the A. F. L. and the C. I. O. They expressed hope that America would realize industrial and social peace at home, and thus contribute to peace among all nations.

The heirarchy, earlier in the day, had been told by the Committee for Catholic Refugees that, since "Anschluss," Nazi persecution of the church in Austria had been much more ruthless than it had been in Germany early in Hitler's rule.

Destruction Seen as Goal

The archbishops and bishops were told by the same committee that the aim of Nazis inimical to the Catholic Church was its "complete destruction" within the Reich. The committee quoted the German bishops to this effect.

The American prelates, after consideration of the recent outbreaks in Vienna, authorized the administrative board of the National Catholic Welfare Conference to draft a letter expressing sympathy for the Austrian bishops and embodying a protest against the treatment of Cardinal Innitzer.

On the questions of threatened war abroad and internecine labor war at home, the hierarchy said:

"While we rejoice that war between the nations of Europe seems, for a time at least, averted, we cannot close our eyes to the fact that hatred still smolder beneath the hatred still smoulder beneath the surface ready to break into a world-wide conflagration at the touch of the tinder.

Lament Labor Strife

"And while we give thanks that, in our own beloved country, warfare between capital and labor seem in some measure to have abated, we grieve to see that it has but given way to warfare between labor and labor."

They said that it was an historical truth that greed and selfishness, engendering hatreds among nations and individuals, "have been the major, perhaps the basic, cause of the political, the social, and the economic evils that distress the world and that stand now as a baneful threat to world peace."

"And it is equally true," the statement continued," that no lasting remedy can be found for this deplorable condition short of the universal application of perfect law of liberty prescribed by Our Divine Savior; that we know and love God

Netherlands Minister Here Shifted to Berlin

Washington's Diplomatic Corps, which has had more changes in the last month than in the previous six, was confronted with another yesterday.

Jonkheer H. M. van Haersma de With, Minister from the Netherlands since 1934, announced he is being transferred to Berlin in the same capacity. His announcement came shortly after receipt of a cablegram from The Hague notifying him of his acceptability to the Nazi regime.

Skeleton May Be R. S. McCoin's

Henderson, N. C., Oct. 14 (U.P.).—Police Chief J. H. Langston prepared tonight to leave for Hagerstown, Md., in an attempt to determine whether a skeleton found near there is that of Rufus S. McCoin, prominent North Carolinian who disappeared six years ago.

McCoin was a former State senator and member of North Carolina's State budget commission and was prominent in social activities. He was about 46 when he left here December 22, 1932, to motor to Richmond, Va. He never reached the Virginia city and his relatives never heard from him.

Within a month after his disappearance, a purported explanation arrived in a letter to North Carolina's chief justice. The anonymous message, scrawled in poor English, said its writer was a youth who unwillingly took part in McCoin's hold-up slaying.

Worried Over Palestine, Brandeis Sees Roosevelt

Talks Over an Hour Refuses to Comment Once Zionist Head

The Holy Land Crisis

PROSPECT OF United States intervention in the Palestine crisis drew expressions of concern from British officials there.

White House Conference

Deeply concerned over reports the British government may close the doors of Palestine to Jewish refugees, Justice Louis D. Brandeis of the United States Supreme Court last night conferred with President Roosevelt for an hour and 15 minutes.

He called by special appointment at the White House proper after the President had left the executive offices for the day.

Although Justice Brandeis refused to comment on the purpose of his visit, it is understood he discussed with the President the possibility of abrogation of the American-British Mandate Convention of 1924—in consequence of a change by the British in immigration policy—as well as the whole question of how Jewish refugees from continental Europe may be cared for.

Won't Say A Word

Leaving the White House, the Supreme Court Justice, who will be 82 years old next month, strode to his waiting automobile with quickened step, nimbly evading reporters and refusing to answer questions.

Asked to make some statement regarding reports he would resign from the Supreme Court to head a group to be organized to undertake solution of the refugee problem, he replied:

"Not a word on any subject."

He then waved his hand to his chauffeur, urging him to drive on, and pointed to the White House, indicating that any comment would have to come from the President himself.

JUSTICE BRANDEIS

A touch of the exceptional was added to the White House visit by the fact that, during the 22 years that he has been on the Supreme bench, Justice Brandies has made it

Vatican Press Denounces Nazi 'Liars'

Second Protest Made Berlin Nuncio Acts Compensation Asked

By the Associated Press.

Vatican City, Oct. 14.—A second vigorous editorial of denunciation appearing in L'Osservatore Romano, Vatican newspaper, today again reflected Catholic indignation over the riot in Vienna last Saturday in which Theodore Cardinal Innitzer was injured.

L'Osservatore Romano asserted German authorities had added to "brutal aggression the lying denunciation of its victims" by blaming Catholics themselves for the violence. The paper had first protested immediately after the Vienna riots.

Avvenire D'Italia, unofficial Catholic newspaper, reported in a Berlin dispatch that Papal Nuncio Cesare Orsenigo was believed to have presented to the foreign office a written demand "for energetic measures to respect the rights of the church and for compensation for damage done to the archbishopric."

Nazis Say Trouble Is Over

Vienna, Oct. 14 (AP).—Government officials said tonight Nazi differences with the Catholic Church "probably are over for some time to come."

They said the party considered that Cardinal Innitzer had been "morally executed" by the speech last night of Austrian Nazi Commissioner Joseph Buerckel and by a rising tide of what they called "public indignation over the clergy that dabbles in politics."

Windows of several Vienna synagogues were smashed tonight by a mob of anti-Jewish demonstrators who went from building to building hurling missiles.

Japanese Reach Key City to Canton

Waichow in Flames Second Army Landed Planes Drop Leaflets

By the United Press.

Hongkong (Saturday), Oct. 15.—Mechanized Japanese units drove to the walls of flaming Waichow today while a second Japanese army, landed under cover of a heavy naval barrage, started a new drive on the great South China metropolis of Canton.

Japanese bombing planes roared all over Kwangtung Province and a pursuit squadron dropped leaflets on Canton stating the teeming city would be subjected to unrestricted aerial bombing beginning at dawn today.

An estimated 75,000 Japanese soldiers landed this week at Hachung and other points on Bias Bay just north of this British Crown colony, fought through the Chinese lines all last night and at 3 a. m. reached Waichow, which Japanese planes had been bombing for 24 hours.

So desperate was the Chinese outlook, it was reported from Hankow, that Gen. Chiang dispatched his chief-of-staff from the central front to take charge of Canton's defenses.

War Minister Ho Ying-Ching was reported to have flown to Canton to reassure hysterical leaders who were demanding the bulk of Chiang's air force and other reinforcements be rushed south from the Hankow area at once.

On the Hankow front the Japanese reported they were "accelerating" their drive on the Chinese provisional national capital "after inflicting 100,000 casualties on the Chinese defenders in a single week."

U. S. Army Deserter Pleads Guilty as Spy for Germany

By the Associated Press.

New York, Oct. 14.—An unexpected plea of guilty by a former United States Army sergeant accused of espionage provided the Federal Government with a new and important witness today as it opened its trial of two other men and a woman, charged with selling military secrets to a foreign power.

Two minutes after Federal Judge John C. Knox mounted the bench to direct selection of a jury, Guenther Gustav Rumrich, 32, Chicago-born son of Austrian parents, announced through his attorney, Paul G. Reilly, that he wished to change his previous plea of innocent to guilty.

Reilly said Rumich, whose blundering attempt to obtain passport blanks originally led to discovery of the spy ring, would testify for the Government. Each defendant faces a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison.

Within an hour and a half after Rumrich's plea was entered, a jury of 10 men and two women was picked to hear the testimony, which the Government will begin presenting Monday. After the jury was chosen court was adjourned until Monday.

Rumrich's change of plea momentarily diverted attention from the lone woman defendant, Johanna (Jenni) Hoke, 26, pretty former beauty shop [illegible] defendant on the North German Lloyd liner Europa, and her two co[illegible] ndants.

ITALIAN DIPLOMATIC circles at Rome declared Czechoslovakia would make new offers to Hungary and negotiations would be resumed.

Reserves Under Arms

By the United Press.

Budapest, Oct. 14.—Hungary tonight ordered the mobilization of five military classes, bringing about 300,000 reservists under arms, as heavy fighting and bloodshed spread just across the Czechoslovak frontier in areas which Hungary demands.

The mobilization order, calling about 120,000 reservists to the colors Monday and the others in successive stages, was issued after the government was said to have informed Europe's big powers of possible "extreme measures" to bring the Czechs to terms.

Simultaneously, Czech army units and gendarmes using tanks and fighting planes fought with Hungarian terrorists in Ruthenia province to the east, part of which is claimed by Hungary, and were reported to have captured 304 of them.

Troops Line Border

Both nations had large military forces along the border, as result of the collapse of territorial negotiations in the frontier town of Komarom on the Danube.

Czechoslovakia asserted the Magyar terrorists were directed by officers of the Hungarian general staff, seeking an excuse for invasion by the Hungarian army or for a plebiscite in Ruthenia.

Hungarian soldiers were said by the Czech police to have invaded Czech soil before dawn, killing a Czech frontier guard near Perbenik, in the Kralovsky-Chlumec district of Ruthenia. The Hungarian troops also were alleged to have kidnaped three soldiers and three railroad workers, the workers later escaping.

304 Are Captured

Among the 304 Hungarian terrorists said to have been captured by Czech troops in the forests around Helmec Hill near Sevljus, Ruthenia, was a man identified as a son of Dr. Szalany, leader of the Magyar Fascist organization known as the "Arrowed Cross."

The Czechs used tanks and airplanes to pursue the band, it was said.

The official announcement of Hungary's partial mobilization said the move was compelled by "the necessity of increasing the country's security," and that the classes of 1908 and 1911 would join the colors Monday in the first stage of the mobilization.

Czechs Blamed

"The situation created by the breaking off of the Komarom negotiations, characterized by Czech threats and violence and by military measures taken on the Czech side of the frontier, necessitate appropriate Hungarian counter-measures," the the government communique said.

"Accordingly, the minister of defense has ordered the class of 1909 and 1911 to join the colors Monday."

Excitement ran high in Budapest streets, with shouts of "Kill the Czechs!" after rumors spread that Ruthenian authorities had resorted to terrorism to suppress uprisings among the Hungarian population.

Tonight's mobilization order was issued under Premier Bela Imredy's September 4 announcement that

Wheeler Sees 'Crisis' Needed To Cure Rail Ills

Blames Executives
Calls Waste Deplorable
Hits Pay Cut Plan

There will be no realistic solution of the vast railroad problem until a wholesale crisis "brings railroad management to its knees," said Senator Wheeler (Democrat), of Montana, in an interview last night.

Wheeler, asserting that no actual solution could be worked out until railroad presidents were willing to sacrifice their highly-paid jobs and join labor and Congress in a "sensible" job of re-establishing the carriers more soundly, declared he saw at this time no immediate prospects of general rail legislation at the next session of Congress.

The veteran chairman of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee admitted that "we might jack them up a bit here and there, "but stated his belief that only "patchwork" legislation could be foreseen at this time.

Bankers Blamed

Earlier he had testified before the President's Emergency Fact-Finding Board that the railroads are losing a million dollars a day through "indefensible waste." He contrasted this effectively with the demand of the railroads that their workers take a wage-cut which would amount to about two-thirds of a million dollars a day, or about $250,000,000 a year.

He described the wage cut proposal as "a blow to our present recovery," and said bluntly

"Banker management ought not to be allowed to sacrifice railroad labor for their inability to control a situation of their own creation."

Truman Hits Slash

Wheeler testified that as far back as 1910-12, Louis D. Brandeis, now an associate justice of the Supreme Court, had used the million-dollar-a-day loss figure in opposing an application for increased freight rates before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Senator H. S. Truman (Democrat), Missouri, colleague of Senator Wheeler on the railroad investigation, also testified, and asserted:

"In my opinion, a wage cut will not save the situation. Railroad labor is the most efficient in the country, and I do not believe the men are overpaid."

He was questioned by James M. Landis, board member and dean of the Harvard Law School, on the authority of the I. C. C. to prevent questionable railroad financing practices. Trumna answered that he believed the I. C. C. should be reorganized. He said:

"When a bureau gets to be 50 years old, it has a lot of dry rot."

Causes Outlined

Wheeler declared that the carriers' "unnecessary losses' in recent years had come from: Wasteful under-maintenance of roads in prereceivership; milking of railroads by holding companies; bankers' monopoly of railroad financing; purchase of equipment at monopoly prices; "scratching the backs" of large shippers by purchasing materials from them and by heavy losses in purchasing terminal properties.

Wheeler said the railroad industry had gross revenues of more than $30,000,000,000 in the eight-year period from 1930 to 1937, a term that included severe depression and "moderate years."

He estimated that profits of the railway system as a whole, in this period amounted to about $5,275,000,000 or "about 19 cents out of every dollar taken in."

Even this year, he said, "the industry as a whole made a profit in every month except February."

Dr. J. H. Parmelee, railroad management economist, testified that salaries of railway executives earning $10,000 a year or more had been reduced an aggregate of 25.7 per cent between 1929 and 1937. Railroad presidents, he said, had submitted to a 47 per cent reduction during the same period.

Regulation Revision Urged

Chicago, Oct. 14 (AP).—Frew W. Sargent, president o the Chicago & North Western Railway, declared tonight the "entire plan of regulation will have to be revised" if the problems of the Nation's railroads are to be solved.

In an address before the American Railway Magazine Editors Association, he contended:

"Railroads must be given a full and free hand to compete for any and all kinds of traffic, and to enter the field of all kinds of transportation. They must be given a freer hand to make and apply their tariffs. . . . They must be released from many of the other restrictive regulations and requirements that now surround them and hem in their initiative and their activities."

tions so no woman would be called on to support herself and her family.

Children Chief Problem

A principal and pressing problem, she said, is delinquency of children mothers must leave at home uncared for when they work outside. She called attention to a section of the child welfare survey in Washington which carried this paragraph:

"Records of chidren who come before the Juvenile Court are in general a monotonous recital of the same story with variations—low standards of family life . . . Neighborhoods without opportunity for recreation . . . mothers working away from home and providing inadequate subsistence for the family; children left to their own devices, getting into trouble with gangs."

Mrs. Woodward cited two recent studies of women WPA workers. Of 2,000 women workers in Philadelphia, 90 per cent were married but only 15 per cent had husbands in the home and of these only 2 per cent of the husbands had private employment. 11 of the women were responsible for from one to five additional people.

Half Lack Husbands

Another study of 553 rural women in 12 Missouri counties showed more than half of the women without husbands. Forty per cent were living with husbands; 12 per cent were single; 25 per cent were widowed and the remainder were divorced, separated, or deserted.

"The significance of this marital status lies in the fact that nearly half of the women are reported from broken families," she commented.

"Foryt-nine per cent of the husbands were permanently sick or disabled; 17 per cent, temporarily disabled; 13 per cent too old to work and the remainder unemployed, mentally unbalanced or otherwise handicapped.

"The significance of these data lies in the fact that they represent actual circumstances in which married women are working because of the necessity of providing subsistence for their families," she said. "Unemployment of employable husbands played a very small part. These data strikingly indicate permanence of the necessity for assistance for these women."

Victory for the independent union was announced only a few hours after President Roosevelt had declined to answer questions whether he plans to take definite action to and the war between the Committee for Industrial Organization and the A. F. of L.

President Not to Act

Mr. Roosevelt said he had not read an editorial in Justice, official publication of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, which urged him to mediate the dispute. He added he had no plans to summon A. F. of L. and C. I. O. leaders to see him in the near future.

On another labor front, Wage-Hour Administrator Elmer F. Andrews issued regulations governing employment of learners, apprentices, handicapped persons and messengers at less than 25 cents an hour after the fair labor standards act becomes effective October 24.

Hearings will be required in most instances before exemptions will be granted for these classes of employes.

Andrews said that applications for learners' allowances "will be considered upon the basis of the needs of the employes and employers in the industry as a whole, rather than on the basis of needs of individual employes or employers."

Wallace Says New Farm Act Halted Slump

Income to Drop 12%
Factory Loss Is Greater Buying Power Steady

By the Associated Press.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 14.—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace credited the new farm act today with having played a major part in ending an incipient depression and putting the country back on the road to recovery.

Before 5,000 corn belt farm leaders and AAA committeemen cited figures to bear out his contention. Farm cash income this year, he predicted, will be only 12 per cent under last year as compared with a drop of over 30 per cent in factory employment and pay rolls. Farm buying power, he said, will be only 9 per cent under that of last year.

Wallace warned farmers to beware of substitutes for the present program and asserted most of them are being advocated for the purpose of destroying the "best program agriculture ever had."

Referring to price-fixing as a method of insuring farm income, Wallace said he was not opposed to it, "provided it is done in a workable way that will result in good rather than harm to agriculture." He insisted, however, it would not work unless provision was made for rigid production control.

Wallace cautioned the farmers against high tariffs as a substitute and declared the Smoot-Hawley tariff act in 1930 started an international trade war and was a major factor in the farm depression. He said it caused European nations to retaliate and forced export trade downward until in 1932 it was at the lowest point in 42 years.

Virginian Survives Eight-Story Plunge

By the Associated Press.

Philadelphia, Oct. 14.—Whitewell Wentworth Coxe, 26-year-old chemical engineer, of Roanoke, Va., survived today a fall from an eighth-story window of his Y. M. C. A. room.

He landed on a metal screen over a skylight four floors below and was taken, still conscious, to a hospital. Physicians said he might have a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Coxe said he "couldn't remember" falling from the window.

Roosevelt to Make Campaign Talk
Rep. Cox, of Georgia, Attacks New Deal

By the Associated Press.

President Roosevelt probably will broadcast a campaign address the evening of November 4 from his home at Hyde Park, N. Y.

In making the announcement yesterday, the White House said:

"While the President's remarks primarily will concern the voters of New York State they will be sufficiently extensive in range to interest the Nation as a whole."

The announcement said the President would make the speech "as a voter of the State of New York," his home State.

The President will leave Sunday for Hyde Park and spend about a week there. He is expected to return to Washington before traveling northward to make the address four days before election day, November 8.

The President already has praised the Democratic State ticket in New York, headed by Herbert H. Lehman, who seeks a fourth term as Governor.

Moultrie, Ga., Oct. 14. (AP).—Representative Cox (Democrat) Georgia, accepted renomination at the Second District convention today with an anti-New Deal speech, centering his fire on the farm and wage-hour acts.

Cox described the 1938 farm bill as "no solution of the farm problem" because of "too many restrictions" and said it "does not work with fairness to all affected." Industry cannt live under it, he said.

He declared the wage-hour bill gives industry in regions already developed a monopoly on business and would help the South's population "an agrarian people forever."

"The twin program of recovery and reform must be separated," he asserted. "Recovery has been purposely held back as an aid to reform for too long."

Joseph P. Tumulty, war-time secretary to President Wilson, yesterday was elected president of the New Jersey Democratic Voters' League of the District of Columbia. The league is seeking to encourage the estimated 10,000 registered New Jersey Democrats here to go home and vote.

A rally has been arranged for Thursday, when Tumulty, John B. Colpoys, chairman of the local Democratic State Central Committee; J. P. Kelly, president of the New Jersey State Society, and Edward M. Curran, judge of the Police Court, will speak.

Other officers elected are James O'Byrne and J. P. Kelly, vice presidents; Carl Berger, secretary; Charles E. Ford, treasurer; W. J. McQuire, executive secretary; Joseph H. Burko, chairman of the University Club and First Voters, and Mrs. H. D. Spragg, executive assistant.

The league has offices on the sixth floor of 1317 F street northwest.

President Roosevelt, at his press conference yesterday, smilingly revealed why the device of "the White House spokesman" at Hyde Park had been resorted to ten days ago. He explained that the White House did not desire direct atribution because of the situation in Europe. He assured his listeners yesterday that this ghostly figure—often made use of by former President Coolidge—now had been abandoned.

The "spokesman" referred to issued an appeal for peace and an end of "saber rattling" between warring labor factions and between busines sand Government. He foresaw prospects of a fairly good economic year ahead.

John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican National Committee, charged the President had resurrected the "White House spokesman" as a means of disclaiming responsibility for New Deal failures.

Representative J. Parnell Thomas (Republican), New Jersey, member of the Dies Committee investigating un-American activities, charged last night in a radio talk over Station FMCA that Communism has made its greatest progress in America since the advent of the New Deal.

"Knowingly or otherwise," declared Thomas, "the New Deal master minds have pawned themselves out to the Communist strategists and now they find it impossible to reverse their course."

Thomas said the Dies Committee has in its possession a complete list of the Nazi Bund in the United States, including the Storm Troopers. The list will be made public when the committee sees fit, he said.

Armistice Day Discussed

Blimp Hangar Here Called Menace; Hearing Deferred

Richmond, Oct. 14 (AP).—A hearing on an order for the National Airport Corporation to show cause why it should not remove a blimp hangar from the Washington-Hoover Airport was continued until December 1 today by the State Corporation Commission.

The continuance was ordered to allow time to obtain more testimony. The corporation leased the hangar to the Goodyear Tire Co.

R. E. Steele, director of the aviation division of the State Corporation Commission, testified briefly today he would not recommend that the hangar be left on the field. G. M. McCabe, chief pilot of the American Airlines, described the hangar as both a physical and a mental hazard.

K. L. Lange, pilot of the blimp, testified he did not believe the hangar created any serious disturbances in wind interference.

A. B. C. Limits on Beer Drinking Ruled Illegal

Roanoke, Va., Oct. 14 (AP).—Judge J. L. Almond ruled in Hustings Court today that the Virginia Alcoholic Beverage Control Board has no power under the ABC act to limit the consumption of beer even though the board may have the right to make regulations concerning the sale of the beverage.

Subsequently, Nick Harris, proprietor of a restaurant here was found not guilty of selling beer in violation of an ABC regulation forbidding the sale of beer or consumption of the beverage on the premises of an ABC licensee between the hours of 1 and 5 a. m.

Ruppert serves the Public Taste and the Public Interest!

VISITING BREWMASTERS often tell us that the Jacob Ruppert Brewery is the finest in the world.

"Clean as a Dutch girl's kitchen, and modern as the World's Fair," said a recent visitor. But Ruppert's is more than that. Ruppert's is big . . . so big and vast in resources and storage capacity that there is never any need to rush or skimp the brew.

Even at the peak of the thirsty season, there is always enough richly matured beer in storage to quench this city's thirst.

But we are proud not alone of Ruppert's Beer as it leaves the brewery, but of the beer as it reaches your lips!

The Ruppert's you get in bottles or cans is aged extra long to seal in the flavor. Pasteurized for purity. Protected from the elements by air-tight and light-proof containers.

The Ruppert Brewery believes that in brewing a beer so mellow, so pure, so good, it is serving the public taste—and serving it well.

And Ruppert's is proud of the part it is playing in serving the public interest as well. For the Ruppert Brewery and its dealers believe that beer, as the gentlest and friendliest of all fermented beverages, can and does play a vital part in encouraging moderation.

Montgomery Democrats Gain 900 New Voters

Increase Over G. O. P.
Editor Will Speak
3 Candidates Talk

Montgomery County Democrats added approximately 900 votes to their already top-heavy majority this week when they registered 1,551 new voters as compared to 652 Republicans, according to unofficial returns from the county board of election supervisors.

This week's registration, the last to be held before the November 8 election, raised the total number of Democratic registrants during the year to approximately 4,000. Republicans registered about 1,500 during the same period. As a result of this year's registration, there now are about 25,000 registered Democrats in the county compared to approximately 11,000 Republicans.

Rockville Rally Tomorrow

A drive against proposal to liberalize State laws prohibiting the conduct of lotteries will be launched by the Montgomery County Youth Council tomorrow at a countywide rally in Rockville at 2:45 p. m.

The council also plans to favor the proposed amendment requiring a 48-hour wait after the issuance of a marriage license before the marriage ceremony can be performed.

Speakers at the rally will include Everett Jones, Damascus, whose subject will be "Christian Citizenship;" Earl Miller, Bethesda, speaking on the proposed lottery amendment; L. E. Bridgewater, Seneca, who will discuss the proposed marriage law amendment, and Wilton Boswell, Brookeville, who will review past amendments to the State constitution.

The rally also will be featured by a musical program led by the Rev. Raymond Hunter Brown, of Damascus.

Zoning Change Action Delayed At Arlington

Set Over Until Nov. 14
Clinic Opens Monday
Music Group Elects

Arlington County Bureau of The Post, Clarendon, Va. Tel. OXford 0809.

The county board unanimously voted yesterday to defer action on amendments to the zoning ordinance affecting construction of row houses until November 14.

This action was due to the fact that an amendment proposed by Freeland F. Chew, board member, which would prohibit construction of row houses, is required to lay over until November 14. Other amendments to be considered would permit construction of row houses in units of three.

Despite the appeal of Attorney Frank L. Ball, representing residents of Woodlawn Village, the board denied their application for improvement to streets in that area. Assurance was given that his request that the board surface treat Buchanan and Seventeenth streets and Sixteenth road will be considered when next year's budget is prepared.

A request that storm sewers in Woodlawn Village be taken over by the county was referred to the county manager. C. L. Kinnier said after the meeting that the county is preparing to take over the system as soon as necessary easements can be obtained. He said the county will make necessary improvements.

Total expenditures for the first half of the month were $40,352.20, of which $16,139.53 represented the semimonthly payroll.

Light Installed

To assure the proper handling of traffic at the Lee boulevard and North Arlington Ridge road with opening of the boulevard to Memorial Bridge, the county has installed a traffic light.

Sponsoring Book Drive

The Soroptimist Club of Arlington County, meeting last night, voted to sponsor a county-wide book drive for the County Library Association. Mrs. Pearl W. Sharpe, chairman of the project committee in charge of the drive, will be assisted by Dr. Verlin E. Miles.

Gifts of money may be mailed to club headquarters at the Little Tea House, Arlington Ridge road. Books may be left at the courthouse or the Little Tea House. All books will be apportioned among the libraries.

This drive will be one of the main objectives of the club for the year.

Clinic Opens Monday

An orthopedic clinic will be conducted in the Clarendon Health Center Monday, beginning at 10 a. m. The clinic will be in charge of Dr. D. M. Faulkner, of Richmond.

Dr. Beachley, county health officer, said these clinics are conducted four times a year, and give parents of crippled children an opportunity to have them examined by a specialist in this branch of surgery, without cost. Only children under 16 years of age will be admitted.

Antique Exhibit Today

Thomas Nelson Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, is sponsoring an antique and treasure exhibit today at the home of Mrs. F. G. Tranbarger, 908 North Kansas street, from 3 to 10 p. m. Veteran Judge Sees Dreams For Upper Marlboro Come True

Van Clagett Says He Is 'Fortunate' . . . .
Town to Get Sewage and Water System
New Potomac Bridge Also to Benefit

This is a "red letter" year for the town of Upper Marlboro, Md., Prince Georges County seat, and for Judge T. Van Clagett, venerable president of the board of commissioners, who is seeing his "dreams come true."

VAN CLAGETT

Several months ago the PWA agreed to help finance a water system for the town and the WPA promised to furnish relief laborers for construction of a sewage system. In addition, applications are pending with the PWA for funds for new courthouse additions and for a municipal parking lot.

The town's latest good fortune was the announcement by Secretary of Interior Ickes that a bridge would be constructed with PWA funds across the Potomac River from Morgantown to Dalghren, Va.

Located on the direct route from Baltimore to Morgantown via the Crain highway, Upper Marlboro will derive great benefits from the bridge construction in the opinion of Judge Van Clagett.

"In the 20 years I have been president of the board of commissioners," Judge Van Clagett said, "I have seen lots of my dreams come true. I think I have been fortunate."

Judge Van Clagett said work on the water system is supposed to be started by October 28. The town advertised for bids yesterday on the estimated $34,000 project.

The system will include storage tank with a 100,000 gallon capacity, capable of serving 2,000 persons.

Judge Van Clagett said construction of the sewage system would probably start soon, although no definite date has been set.

Police to Keep Informers On Pay Roll

Bribe Charge Lost Cast
Pine and Brown Confer
Pay From Secret Fund

Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, said last night that the police would keep on using their $3-a-day informers despite the arrest of one Thursday for taking a $50 bribe to change his testimony.

District Attorney Pine and his staff conferred for an hour and a half with Maj. Brown and several police officers.

Afterward, this statement was issued from the grand jury room where they met:

"The discussion this afternoon was primarily for the purpose of exchanging ideas and for the devising of ways and means to prevent a recurrence of the incident of yesterday. This question of the use of informers is an old one and has been perplexing law enforcement officers for years. It is hoped that this conference and future conferences which will be held from time to time will be of material assistance in at least a partial solution of this old problem."

Maj. Brown said:

"We have never discussed discontinuing the use of informers."

Maj. Brown said he believed that the men were paid $3 a day and that the money came out of a secret fund appropriated by Congress for confidential police work.

The money could not be used to hire more policemen, Maj. Brown said, because it was earmarked for confidential purposes.

Meanwhile, James Fallin, 23, of 700 block Irving street northwest, who has been bearing tales to the police about a year, remained under a charge of bribery. Attorney J. Lewis O'Connor, accused Fallin of having accepted from him $50 in marked money to change his testimony against a client of O'Connor's.

Also charged with bribery was Wallace Martin, 24, colored, who was named as a go-between between O'Connor and Fallin. Martin was accused also of carrying a concealed weapon.

Pine announced after Fallin's arrest that seven cases in which Fallin figured would be postponed until an investigation was made. Assistant Corporation Counsel Milton Korman said at least seven Police Court cases in which informers figured would be nolle prossed . . . .

Maj. Brown was assisted at the conference by Inspector L. I. H. Edwards and Capt. G. M. Little and Detective Sergt. George C. Deyoe, of the vice squad.

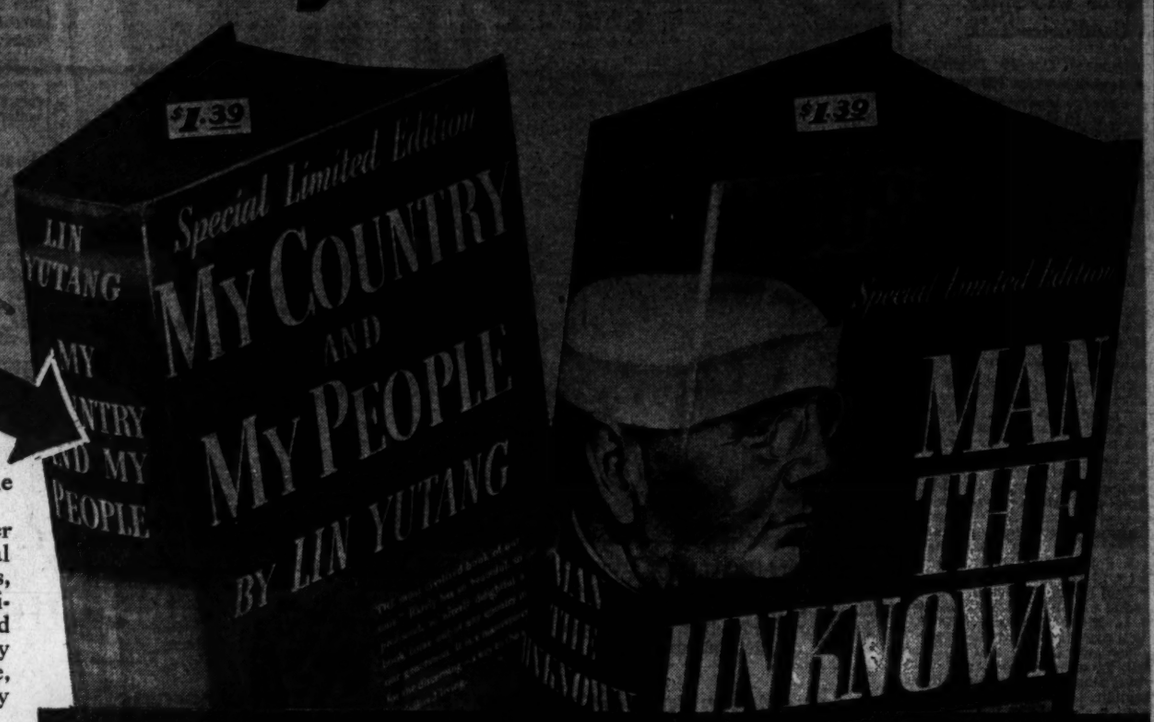
Very Low Prices on Very Good Books

Facts and Fiction Beautifully Bound and Printed. Scientific, Historic, and Romantic Books for Inexpensive Entertainment Through the Long Winter Evenings.



NOW you can own the pick of the best-sellers in handsome, home library editions at exceptionally low prices.

By special arrangement with the publisher, we are able to offer you these famous editions at extraordinary savings. Many sold in their original editions for $2, $2.50, $3, $3.50, $5 and more. These are not second-hand books, remainders or "Publisher's Overstock." They are brand new, finely-printed editions of books you have always wanted to own. Every volume is complete and unabridged, beautifully printed from large, easily-read type on quality paper. Many are illustrated in both full color and black and white. They are all large library size, running up to 8¼ by 11¼ inches, handsomely bound in specially selected cloth or sturdy buckram stamped in gilt.

The tremendous savings offered here are made possible first, by the success of these books at their original prices; second, by the use of the plates from which the higher-priced editions were made; and third, by the manufacture of large quantities by the most modern printing and binding methods. The savings are passed on to you.

Check this list carefully and find the books you want at savings of one-third to three-quarters of the prices at which these books were originally published. Do not miss this rare opportunity for connoisseurs and collectors of fine editions. Come in, telephone or mail your order today.

WLW Attack May Widen FCC Purge

McNinch

nual application for renewal of its experimental license had been grante dwithout hearing on the ground that it was performing a public service in testing super-power. Recently, however, a dozen or more other broadcasting stations have applied for 500 kw. licenses and have complained of favoritism toward WLW.

Three members of the commission are believed to favor renewal of WLW's super-power license. They are Chairman McNinch, Eugene O. Sykes and Thad H. Brown, who is an Ohio Republican. Comcissioner Paul A. Walker is said to be undecided.

Pressure Put on Case

Political pressure is being applied, it is rumored, on Commissioner Case to line up with the proponents of WLW against Payne and Craven. His position is a delicate one in that he has been reappointed since the last Congress adjoured and will come up in January for Senate confirmation.

The names of George Porter and Ralph Walker, assistant counsel, were added to the rumored purge list yesterday when the WLW decision was reported as they acted as committee counsel in the hearing on the Cincinnati station.

McNinch denied that Porter was slated for immediate dismissal although he admitted that changes may be made in the legal division when William J. Dempsey, successor to Gary, has had time to study the situation.

Wisner May Be Next

There are 33 lawyers in the FCC legal division which McNinch has asked the Civil Service Commission to exempt from the merit system.

As FCC employes waited for the next axe to fall, a report was current that the present post of director of information, held by G. Franklin Wisner, a civil service employe, may be abolished in order to bring about Wisners dismissal. A new job then would be created, it was said, directly under supervision of the chairman.

Observers were watching with particular interest the expected purge of T. J. Slowie, commission secretary, because of his reported backing by James Roosevelt at the time of his appointment.

AP. Chief Says Future Papers Will Be Half Photos

Cleveland, Oct. 14 (AP).—Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, predicted today that newspapers of the future will be made up half of pictures and half of the written word.

Cooper addressed the annual meeting of the Associated Press Managing Editor's Association.

Technically, the news association's chief foresaw improved methods of transmission of pictures—a field in which A. P. wirephoto was a pioneer. He predicted papers would receive by wire, simultaneously with verbal reports, matrices of pictures, ready to be printed within a few minutes.

Lightning Rips Hole in Roof, Starting Blaze

Lightning in an early morning thunderstorm yesterday ripped a large hole in the roof and set fire to a house at 3100 Tenth street northwest, at the same time putting out the lights and telephone.

Mrs. Anna E. Shipley, who lives in the house, drove to the fire company to turn in the larm. Meantime, her 14-year-old son, John extinguished the small attic blaze before firemen arrived.

Yesterday's downpour accounted for .07 of an inch of the month's total of .08, the Weather Bureau said.

Mallorca Snags British-Italian Talks on Spain

London, Oct. 14 (AP).—talian control of the strategic island of Mallorca off Spain's northeast coast was reported tonight to be one of the principal snags in the current talks between Britain and Italy to "settle" the Spanish war and put into effect the long-dormant London-Rome pact.

Another snag was reported to be Italian insistence that Italy's withdrawal of 12,000 Fascist Black Shirts from the Spanish in surgent forces, now under way, should be followed by immediate recognition by Britain of belligerent rights for the insurgents.

The Earl of Perth, British ambassador to Rome, who conferred last night and again tonight with Foreign Minister Count Ciano, was understood to have conveyed a restatement of the British view that unless the Italians evacuate Mallorca, the British Parliament would not consider a Spanish "settlement" reached and would not approve the granting of belligerent rights.

Mother Finds Lost Boy Asleep at the Door

Apparently exhausted by aimless wandering, George Garrison, 10, son of John C. Garrison, theater manager, was found fast asleep in a corner at the Garrison apartment, 1860 California street northwest, yesterday morning by his mother.

Lost two nights ago when he set out to sell magazines after school, he found his way home after midnight, and slept in the corridor rather than disturb his parents.

V.P.I. Plays Cavaliers

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Oct. 14.—Eager to turn back Virginia's seventh bid for a victory in Miles Stadium, the Virginia Tech Gobblers will make a determined stand against Coach Franw Murray's pass-minded Cavaliers here tomorrow afternoon.

The tilt features the homecoming program.

The Gobbler scouts report that the Virginia team is a shade faster and considerably heavier than the Tech eleven. S othe Tech coaches have armed their boys with a more open style of attack and will seek to match the Cavaliers in speed, trickery and passing.

Ticket sales indicate that one of the largest crowds in Miles Stadium history will witness the game. Officials predict that it will perhaps equal the throngs that attend the dedication game with Virginia in 1926 and the thrilling clash with Kentucky in 1932.

An ankle fracture sustained by Archie Cameron, who appeared headed for stardom at right end, took from the line-up one of the team's ablest blockers and chief pass receivers. The coaches expect, however, that George Warriner, hard-hitting sophomore, will again be ready for duty at fullback, though he is not slated to start.

Colorful homecoming decorations and a spirited pep meeting tonight at which members of the coaching staff and team spoke to the corps, set the stage for tomorrow's battle—a clash which many believe will set a new high in entertainment and thrills in Miles Stadium, where Virginia has never won.

The probable Virginia Tech line-up:

Hierarchy Asserts War Peril Still Exists; Closes Meeting Here

above all things and our neighbor as ourselves. . . .

"We have known, we know now, of no effective remedy not founded on that sovereign remedy given to us all by Christ and taught through the centuries by the Church of His foundation. Hence with renewed and increased emphasis, as befits the perils of the times, we plead for its acceptance."

Refer to Pope

After viewing the scene in Europe and the social strife in this country, the bishops continued :

"Once again, therefore, we turn to our people and beg of them to study anew the practical implications of the law of love, and to enthrone that law in their hearts. We earnestly beseech them to examine carefully, and to apply conscientiously, the saving principles enunciated in the providential encyclicals of His Holiness, Pope Pius XI.

"And turning to our separated brethren, in the spirit of Christian charity and brotherly love, we ask them, too, to seek in these encyclicals the common remedy for the harsh conditions of the day.

"To Catholic labor leaders and unionists, as well as to Catholic employers, we express profound hope that they will bend their best energies to the realization of the Christian social order envisaged by the Holy Father, to the end that, achieving first a true industrial and social peace at home, we may thus contribute to a lasting peace among all nations."

80 Attend Meeting.

The meeting of the hierarchy was attended by 80 archbishops and bishops. Cardinal Dougherty, of Philadelphia, presided over the first session Wednesday, which sent a cablegram to Pope Pius XI promising to emphasize the teaching of Christian democracy in America's 10,000 Catholic schools, and Archbishop McNicholas, of Cincinnati, presided Thursday and yesterday.

In the final session, the hierarchy authorized the extension of the Catholic Youth Movement to every diocese in the United States and took steps to place the campaign against salacious literature on a National basis. Bishops Edmund F. Gibbons of Albany, Urban J. Vehr of Denver and Bernard J. Sheil of Chicago were appointed to a committee to study methods of making the campaign against filthy literature effective.

Welfare Board Named

The following were named as members of the administrative board of the National Catholic Welfare Conference for the year ahead:

Archbishops Edward Money of Detroit, John Gregory Murray of St. Paul, Joseph F. Rummel of New Orleans, and Samuel A. Stritch of Milwaukee, and Bishops Hugh C. Boyle of Pittsburgh, John A. Duffy of Buffalo, John Mark Gannon, of Erie, Pa., Francis C Kelley of Oklahoma City, Edwin V O'Hara, of Great Falls, Mont., and John B. Peterson, of Manchester, N. H.

Archbishop Mooney was named chairman, Bishop Peterson vice chairman, Bishop Kelley treasurer, and Bishop Duffy secretary. Mgr. Michael J. Rwady was reappointed general secretary.

The episcopal committee on motion pictures was continued and it was announced that the Legion of Decency pledge will be renewed publicly in all the Catholic churches of the country on December 11.

The blessing and encouragement of Pope Pius XI was sent to the hierarchy in a cablegram from Mgr. Giovanni Montini, substitute secretary of state.

Austrian Plight Told

The Committee for Matholic Refugees, in its report to the hierarchy yesterday on Austria, said that Catholic schools and organizations have been dissolved, Catholic teachers and university professors have been dismissed and nuns have been forbidden to carry on their various activities.

Discussing the situation in Germany, the committee, headed by Archbishop Rummel, reported:

Party Takes Precedence

"People are not everywhere forbidden to attend their church services," the report said, "but it is made practically impossible for them by the fact that they have to attend party meetings which coincide with church activities.

"In other instances Catholics are directly accused of being too pious and thousands of civil employes have lost their positions on the basis that they could not be good National Socialists, since they were too pious. In some parts of Germany the Nazis have dared to go further and have demanded publicly that Catholics should step out of the church under threat of economic or social loss. Employes have lost their positions, laborers have been dismissed and Catholic students have been excluded from colleges and universities."

Quote Pope Pius

The committee, which includes Archbishop Stritch of Milwaukee, Bishop Noll of Fort Wayne and Bishop Donahue, administrator of the archdiocese of New York, said:

"We urgently suggest that the recommendations of Pope Pius XI be carried out. These recommendations imply a positive campaign against the excesses of anti-Semitism as ungodly, uncharitable and un-Christian and against the natural and divine law, as well as a warning against an overemphasis on nationalism to the detriment of the true brotherhood of man, which is the very basis of Catholic ideology."

The committee for Catholic refugees handled 1,279 cases from January, 1937, to October, 1938. The committee made it plain that all refugees aided by it are not brought to this country.

Sen. Wheeler Probably Won't Run in 1940

Wheeler

President's objectives? They're fine. They're perfect.

"But the New Dealers don't know how to write a bill. They can't make things work."

The man who led the coalition of forces that defeated the President's court reorganization bill, and who contributed heavily to the defeat of the Government's reorganization measure, noted he was in "a perfect position as an independent" at the coming session.

"I Have No Strings"

"They used to call me a wild radical," he smiled. "Now I'm a reactionary, they say.

"I have no strings, no alliances. I can pick and choose.

"The Administration has completely stripped me of patronage. All Montana jobs go through Representative Jerry O'Connell, except for a few he lets go to my colleague, Senator Murray. O'Connell controls the WPA in Montana completely.

"I don't mind that. I send jobseekers over to see Jerry and Jim. It relieves me of complaints. The Administration has been ruthless about it, but it relieves me of allegiance.

"On the other hand, I'm not tied down to the conservative crowd."

Is 1940 "Dark Horse

Wheeler, the 1940 "dark horse," said that he would not make a final decision on running for the Senate again for many months yet, but added:

"I've been elected three times. That's honor enough for any man."

With congressional responsibility for the vast tangle of the railroad problem resting chiefly on his shoulders, Wheeler said he saw no definite answer to that as coming from the next Congress.

Passing to the question of politics in relief, he said he would demand a specific law banning Federal relief officials from political activity. He based this on widespread reports from many States of such activities, as reported to the Senate Campaign Expenditures Committee.

Washington observers last night were uncertain as to the effect of Wheeler's unprecedented frankness on congressional alignments next winter. But his declaration of absolute independence was believed to be the fore-runner of further such statements from those Senatoors the President's so-called "purge" was aimed—George ofo Georgia, Tydings of Maryland and Smith of South Carolina.

Worried Over Palestine, Brandeis Sees Roosevelt

State

a point to take no active part in public affairs, except court matters.

Headed Zionist Group

He was head of the Zionist organization of America, however, before becoming a Supreme Court member. When the movement to set up a Jewish homeland in Palestine was started, he considered leaving the court to head it. He has watched the movement with great interest.

Earlier in the day, following a conference between Secretary of State Hull and a delegation of Jewish leaders, the State Department announced it would follow the Palestine situation closely and would "take all necessary measures" for the protection of American rights and interests there.

The delegation urged Hull to intercede with Great Britain to prevent a radical change of policy in Palestine which would result in the doors being closed to Jewish immigration.

Must Consult U. S.

Henry Monsky, of Omaha, Nebr., president of the B'nai B'rith, read a memorandum stating that, under the 1924 mandate convention, no modification of the mandate would be made by Great Britain without the consent of the United States.

Explaining that the treaty was mandated territories, the Department said:

"None of these articles empower the Government of the United States to prevent the modification of the terms of any of the mandates. Under their provisions, however, this Government can decline to recognize the validity of the application of American interests of any modification unless such modification has been consented to by the United States."

Decision Delayed

The department said it understood the Palestine Partition Commission, appointed some months ago to make recommendations with respect to partition, would report to the British government at the end of this month, and that no decision would be reached by the British government on the question until the report had been considered.

This Government, the department explained, expects to have an opportunityu to submit its views to the British government before any changes affecting American rights are made in the Palestine mandate, under which the British govern the Holy Land.

These rights comprise non-discriminatory treatment of commerce, non-impairment of vested American property rights, permission for American natipns to establish and maintain educational, philanthropic and religious institutions in Palestine, safeguards with respect to the judiciary, and in general equality with other foreign nationals.

Hope for Homeland

The delegation, in its memorandum, said stoppage of Jewish immigration to Palestine in consequence of troubles with Arabs who resent the presence of the Jews would dash hopes for a homeland for Jewish refugees and would be "a strangeand inexplicable anti-climax" to the action of the administration in undertaking to rescue and resettle refugees.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, one of the leaders of the deelegaiton, told Hull at the conclusion of the interview that the group was convinced "our State Department will do what can be done."

By the Associated Press.

Jerusalem, Oct. 14.—British leaders here unofficially expressed concern today at the prospect of intervention by the United States in the three-cornered Palestine problem.

Between 8,000 and 9,000 American Jews in Palestine laid plans for a conference of all Jewish-American investors in the Holy Land to indicate to the British and United States governments their objection to any restrictions against Jewish immigration in Palestine.

Zionist leaders were greatly heartened by a flood of telegrams from all parts of the United States to Jewish leaders in Washington imploring the Government to intervene.

In the face of this, British leaders unofficially expressed the hope America would withhold final judgment until the British government definitely and finally decides what its new policy in Palestine is to be.

Disorders of the last 12 weeks were estimated unofficially to have caused 1,850 casualties. In isolated clashes occurring in the past 24 hours three Arabs were killed by troops and three soldiers were wounded.

[British air force fighting planes late today routed a large band of Arab rebels near the village of Attil, north of Tulkarm, and inflicted heavy casualties in a machine-gunning attack, the United Press reported in a dispatch delayed by the censor.—Editor's note.]

Four Arabs convicted of participation in the recent attack on Tiberias were sentenced to death by the Haifa military court after a four-day trial.

Market Bans Jews

Rome, Oct. 14 (AP).—Financial quarters disclosed tonight that Jews have been refused admission to Italian stock markets and all Jewish exchange brokers have given up their licenses at the order of syndical authorities.

The report followed widespread publicity connected with the arrest of a Jewish broker charged with participation in a plot to smuggle large amounts of Italian lire out of the country.

Lehman Spurns Red Indorsement

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 14 (AP).—Democratic Gov. Lehman, fourth term candidate, repudiated tonight the inferred support of the Communist arty after the latter had withdrawn all but one of its candidates for office.

Lehman and Charles Poletti, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, in telegrams to Israel Amter, previously designated Communist nominee for Governor, denounced communism and expressed themselves "unwilling to accept Communist votes."

Driver in Crash Ruled Liable on Assault Charge

Justice Adkins ruled yesterday that a motorist who has an accident and is convicted of reckless driving also may be tried for assaulting the victim with his automobile.

Justice Adkins overruled the claim of Walter A. Hopkins, 30, colored, that an assault trial in District Court would violate his constitutional guarantee against being placed twice in jeopardy for the same offense. Hopkins was sentenced, in Police Court on July 10 to 60 days in jail for reckless driving and six months for driving without a permit. He ran down Patrolman Thomas W. Shomette June 1. Now he faces trial for assault with a dangerous weapon and for assault with intent to kill.

Double Rites Set For B. E. Williams

Masonic and Christian Science services will be held today for Burrus Edward Williams, 56, native of Washington, who died Thursday at his home, 444 Irving street northwest.

J. Hall, reader of the Fourth Church of Christ, Scientist, will will conduct rites at 2 p. m. at W. W. Chambers' funeral home, 1400 Chapin street northwest. Masonic services will be held at Fort Lincoln Cemetery later.

An interior decorator, Mr. Williams had been ill for almost a year. He leaves his wife, Ruth; three children, Margaret, Burrus, jr., and Claude, and two sisters, Mrs. Louis Brooks, of Washington, and Mrs. Sadie Rynex, of Cherrydale, Va.

Requiem Monday For Mrs. Kearney

Requiem mass will be celebrated Monday at St. Anthony's Church, Brookland, for Mrs. Katherine Rosella Kearney, who died Thursday at 65. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

A native of Cincinnati, she came to Washington as a bride 40 years ago. Mrs. Kearney, who had been blind for a number of years, made her home with a niece, Mrs. M. H. Clokey, 2827 Fifth street northwest. She leaves, besides her niece, her husband, Leonard Kearney, organizer of the first Federal labor union here and a retired Argiculture Department employe; a brother, James Molloy, and a sister, Mrs. Margaret Hayzel.

British Ask Labor To Aid Rearming

London, Oct. 14 (AP).—War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha appealed to Britain's armament workers tonight "to exceed anticipations" in their part of the nation's vast rearmament program.

The war minister outlined a new scheme, announced earlier in the day, by which industrial workers between the ages of 38 and 50 would drop their tools and operate anti-aircraft guns to protect their plants in the event enemy raiders broke through general defenses.

He was also instrumental in procuring an intermediate railway station in Southwest Washington and was largely responsible for defeat of the effort of Theodore Roosevelt to have the motto "In God We Trust" stricken from United States coins.

He was a member of the Chevy Chase, Congressional and Racquet Clubs, a Thirty-second Degree Mason, past exalted ruler of the Elks and an Odd Fellow.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lillian B. Carlin; two sons, Charles C. Carlin, jr., publisher of the Alexandria Gazette, and Charles Keith Carlin, with the Maritime Commission, and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at noon Monday at the Southern Methodist Church, Alexandria. Burial will be in Ivy Hill Cemetery.

Thomas Reardon Rites Set Today

Funeral services for Thomas E. Reardon, 80, retired Anacostia hardware merchant, will be held in St. Teresa's Church, Thirteenth and V streets northeast, at 9 a. m. today. Rites will be conducted by the Rev. D. C. Keenan. Burial will be in Mount Olivet.

Mr. Reardon, who retired a year ago, died Wednesday. A native of Washington, he was a member of the Holy Name Society and a president of Anacostia Branch, Catholic Knights. He leaves his wife, a son, William F.; a daughter, Mrs. Charles W. McCullum; two grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

G. J. Hauf Rites At 3 P. M. Today

Services for George J. Hauf, native of Washington who operated a bakery business for 17 years, will be held at 3 p. m. today at the Hines funeral home, 2901 Fourteenth street northwest. Hauf died suddenly Wednesday at his home, 3666 New Hampshire avenue northwest. He was 42.

Rites will be conducted by the Rev. James D. Buehrer, pastor of First Reform Church, Thirteenth and Monroe streets northwest. Burial will be in Prospect Hill Cemetery.

A member of the consistory of the First Reform Church and of Arminius Lodge, Masonic Order, Mr. Hauf took over his father's baking business upon death of the latter. He leaves his wife, Edna; his mother, Mrs. Sophie Hauf; two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Bachman and Mrs. Frieda Irwin, and a brother, Carl.

2 Badly Burned In Md. Boat Blast

Crisfield, Md., Oct. 14 (AP).—Two men were burned seriously today and the powerboat belonging to Capt. Red Robinson was damaged in a gasoline explosion.

Marvey Gates and Paul Jones, who were working on the engine, suffered burns about the head and face when fire burst out near the starter and spread rapidly through the entire craft.

Mexican Pays $74,312, Settles Smuggling Case

By the Associated Press.

The Treasury announced yesterday that Miguel E. Abed, Mexican sportsman, paid $74,312 to settle charges of smuggling $100,000 of gold coin out of the country in September, 1933.

The Treasury assessed Abed for the amount of profit it would have made on the change in gold price in January, 1934, if Abed had turned in the metal as other gold holders were forced to do in 1933. In 1934, the President, in revaluing the dollar, raised the value of gold from $20.67 per ounce to $35 per ounce.

Treasury agents said Abed smuggled the gold out of the country in the empty gasoline tank of a racing automobile which he took to Mexico on the steamship Morro Castle.

Abed was arrested when he returned to the United States early this year.

Friedship House Needs an Icebox

An icebox is needed at the Friendship House, 619 D street southeast, in order that young people may make use of the kiln which they have for a pottery shop.

The house also would welcome radios for the club rooms and skates of all sizes. These will be collected if donors will call Lincoln 6202.

Czech Envoy Gives Hitler 'Vassal's Oath'

Pledges Nation's Loyalty Hungary Is Discussed Warning in Nazi Press

Special Cable to The Post.

Berlin, Oct. 14.—What may be regarded as a vassal's oath to Germany was pledged by the Prague government when Foreign Minister Dr. Frantisek Chvalkovsky called on Reichsfuehrer Hitler at Munich today.

In an official communique, it was significantly said the Czechoslovak foreign minister assured the Fuehrer of his country's "loyal" attitude toward Germany.

No less significant was another passage in the communique which said Hitler had expressed regret no solution had yet been reached as to the Hungarian minority problem. Nazi Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop attended the conversation, which took place at the so-called Fuehrer's building where the "Munich peace" was concluded.

Sees Former Premier

The fact that later in the day Hitler received the Hungarian former prime minister, Koloman Daranyi, also in the presence of Von Ribbentrop, is interpreted by well informed circles here to indicate Hitler wished to persuade both Czechs and Hungarians to come to a peaceful understanding on the basis of a fair "divorce of the Czech and Hungarian national groups."

This was the term used by the Diplomatische Politische Korrespondenz, organ of the Wilhelmstrasse, in advocating further political and economic co-operation between the two countries. In this connection, the Korrespondenz warns Czechoslovakia her foreign policy must not result in a situation which might be harmful to Germany. "Attempts towards such a policy would only result in a new tension—besides being condemned in advance to failure," said the paper.

Press Warns Czechs

Commenting on the situation, the Essen National Zeitung said: "Don't protest too much." Warning the Czechs against anti-German tendencies, this paper said Germany might remind them of the principles of her policy. These principles "are not at all meant as a dictation, but are the result of a situation created during the recent weeks," this organ declared.

A group of Czech industrialists and businessmen will arrive here next week to conduct negotiations for an extensive trade between the two countries. The question of a preferred customs and tariff law will figure prominently in the conversations, it is understood.

Meanwhile, the expansion of Germany's trade relations with the southeastern European countries is steadily continuing. Speaking at Sofia today, the German minister of economics, Dr. Walther Funk, announced trade between his country and Bulgaria will be stimulated on a broad basis. Mutual commercial treaties and contracts to this effect would be concluded and would be current for several years, he said.

New Offer Expected

Rome (Saturday), Oct. 15 (U.P.).—Conversations between Reichsfuehrer Hitler and the Czech foreign minister have resulted in an agreement that Czechoslovakia will make new offers to Hungary in their territorial dispute, it was said here authoritatively today.

A diplomat said that during conversations between Premier Mussolini, Count Galeazzo Ciano and Count Csakey, Hungary's "chef du cabinet," it at first was proposed to call a four-power conference to solve the controversy but eventually it was decided that direct conversations between the Hungarian and Czechs should be resumed as soon as possible.

The German officials were indicted with 15 others, but this country's extradition treaty with Germany did not authorize their being brought here for trial.

Miss Hofmann, a shy, smiling girl with red-gold hair and blue eyes, is accused by Federal agents of acting as message bearer and payoff agent of the ring.

Her two fellow defendants are Otto Hermann Voss, 36, a naturalized German, formerly employed at the Seversky airplane factory at Farmingdale, Long Island, where secret new 300 miles per hour pursuit planes are under construction for the Army; and Erich Glaser, 28, another naturalized German, United States Army private attached to the Eighteenth Reconnaissance Squadron, Eastern Air Forces, General Headquarters, at Mitchel Field, Long Island.

The four defendants have been held in a total bail of $100,000.

Spain's Premier Bars Mediation To End Conflict

Barcelona, Oct. 14 (AP).—The Spanish government's opposition to any proposals for ending the civil war by mediation was set forth by Premier Juan Negrin today in an international broadcast which was interrupted twice by insurgent air raids, which injured three people.

"If any apostle or envoy of peace calls at our door with propositions of mediation or division our reply will be a courteous but dry and firm dismissal," Negrin declared.

The insurgent regime at Burgos also has expressed opposition to mediation which might set up two states in Spain.

"In a few months, perhaps in a few weeks, peace will surge up spontaneously," Negrin concluded.

Hungary

Hungary, having broken the shackles of the post-war Trianon Treaty, was restoring compulsory military training and rearmament. The Little Entente on August 23, meeting in Bled, Yugoslavia, scrapped the Trianon Treaty's provisions which bound Hungary not to rearm, providing Hungary entered into nonaggression pacts.

Although the inference of Hungary's mobilization was that she was ready to fight, if necessary, in support of her territorial demands against the Czechs, many foreign diplomats doubted armed action would occur.

Reports that Reichsfuehrer Hitler, unlike Premier Mussolini, is cool to many features of Hungary's demands contributed to this belief.

Many of these diplomats believed the mobilization was designed to strengthen Hungary's pressure on the big powers, urging them to force the Czechs to come to terms.

Hungary has appealed to the four Munich powers — Britain, France, Germany and Italy—to impose a territorial settlement, just as they did in amputating the Czech Sudetenland and delivering it to Germany.

Fascists Being Held

Among the 304 Magyar prisoners taken in Ruthenia in the military roundup were many doctors, lawyers and prominent intellectuals belonging to the Fascist "Turul Mowe" (Arrowed Cross), Czech dispatches said.

A Czech communique denied reports of a popular uprising in either Ruthenia or Slovakia and said all the terrorism had been provoked by active or reserve Hungarian army officers "especially armed and instructed for this purpose."

The Czechs estimated between 600 and 1,000 Hungarian "provocateurs" were at work in sub-Carpathian Russia (Ruthenia) and said the hotbed of the terrorism was at Kisvarda, where a training camp for terrorism had been established. From this camp, according to the purported confessions of those arrested, 1,500 to 3,000 men are being sent into Ruthenia and Slovakia to provoke disorders.

General Staff Accused

"Documents falling into the hands of Czech authorities indicate that this terrorist action is directed by persons belonging to the general staff of the Hungarian army," the announcement said.

In this connection, diplomats recalled that after the assassination of King Alexander, the Little Entente nations—Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania—denounced Hungary before the League of Nations for allegedly maintaining training camps for terrorists. The League Council asked Hungary to disband such camps.

There was no official estimate of the number of Hungarian troops massed along the frontier, which stretches for nearly 300 miles, but their strength has been variously estimated at between 25,000 and 40,000.

Hungary's warning that severe measures may be necessary to obtain an "early solution" of the territorial demands was understood to have been sent not only to the "Big Four" of Munich—Great Britain, Germany, Italy and France—but to Poland as well.

Poland has supported Hungary's demands and has asked that Czechoslovakian Ruthenia be surrendered to the Hungarians to form a common Polish-Hungarian frontier and barricade any Soviet penetration westward.

Rivalry Provides Hope

Prague, Oct. 14 (AP).—Czechoslovakia tonight looked upon rivalry among their nation's neighbors to check Hungarian demands.

Supposed German opposition to any junction of Polish and Hungarian frontiers at the cost of Hungarian annexation of the greater part of eastern Czechoslovakia was perhaps the principal hope of hard-pressed Czechoslovak patriots.

An official explanation to the Czechoslovak public of the breakdown in the Hungarian negotiations said:

"Hungary asked territory in which live 430,000 Slovaks and 80,000 Carpathian Ruthenians.

"There are already 300,000 Slavs in Hungary, so were this demand to be met, there would be in Hungary more than 800,000 Slovaks and Carpathian Ruthenians, or approximately 9 per cent of the Hungarian population.

"Czechoslovakia countered with an offer of territory with 400,000 population, of whom 330,000 are Hungarians.

"That was turned down.

"Now it is indicated Italy is supporting Hungary and France and England are supporting Czechoslovakia, with Germany probably in the role of mediator."

Mexican Envoy Bringing Plan To Pay for Land

Oil Seizure Not Covered Will Be Here Monday Settlement to Follow

Arrangements for payment by Mexico for expropriated agrarian lands will be announced here after the return to Washington Monday of Dr. Francisco Castillo Najera, Mexican Ambassador to the United States, informed sources indicated late last night.

Optimism was expressed over the possibility of settling the issue before convening of the International Conference of American States at Lima, Peru, on December 9, at which Secretary of State Hull is expected to head the United States delegation.

The Mexican land distribution program, subject of sharp exchanges between the two governments, involves 1,000,000 acres of American-owned lands taken over by Mexico since 1927—generally estimated to be valued at $10,000,000.

The lands are considered in a separate category from the properties of American oil companies expropriated by Mexico earlier this year.

A 'Counter Proposition'

Marquis W. Childs, correspondent of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch in Mexico City, wrote in a copyrighted dispatch yesterday that President Lazaro Cardenas had agreed to pay for the expropriated agrarian lands, Najera, it was understood here, took a proposition from Secretary of State Cordell Hull directly to Cardenas. He now is believed to have Cardenas' counterproposition and expectations here are that terms of settlement will be quickly decided upon, with the major issues out of the way.

Mexican officials have repeatedly contended that American land owners could not be given preferential treatment over Mexican owners in operation of the Mexican government's land distribution program.

Cardenas told Childs Mexico was willing now "to make sacrifices" to preserve friendship of this country.

Exchange Ended September 3

Ambassador Najera said on October 7, after his first conference with Cardenas, that settlement was a matter of "a very few days."

Cardenas often has said that Mexico has never denied its obligations and would pay for the lands as soon as possible.

No further exchange of notes had ensued since September 3 when Mexico abruptly rejected Secretary Hull's suggestion that Mexico pay for lands taken, set aside funds for payment or stop further seizures until the money had been set aside.

The European crisis sidetracked negotiations for several weeks. Then Najera began a series of conferences with Hull, at which it was understood, this country's proposition was fully outlined.

Carol Names New War Minister to Arm Rumania

Bucharest, Oct. 14 (AP).—King Carol today accepted the resignation of Rumania's minister of war and quickly appointed a successor in what was said to be a move to speed up modernization of the nation's armed forces.

The King, said to be displeased with the slowness of rearmament, appointed Gen. Nicholai Ziuperza to the war ministry from which Gen. Alexander Argesanu resigned. Carol also was understood to have created a new ministry for armament and army procurement.

Settlement With Mexico

For some weeks there have been encouraging rumors of a forthcoming agreement between the United States and Mexico on the subject of the American properties expropriated by the latter government. In the exclusive interview with President Cardenas sent by Marquis Childs to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch is found welcome confirmation of the trend toward a mutually satisfactory settlement.

While details of the pending agreement are lacking, and while the negotiations are not yet complete, it is clear that the Mexican government is prepared to withdraw from the position which Secretary Hull, in a firm yet friendly manner, has so clearly shown to be untenable. There is no doubt that this attitude will make it easier for Washington to make every reasonable concession to the Mexican viewpoint.

A conciliatory attitude on both sides is the more important because of the approach of the Eighth International Conference of American States, which will be convened in Lima on December 9. It would be in the highest degree unfortunate if this Pan-American Congress, designed to forward cultural and economic relations between the nations of the New World, should open with the United States and Mexico at loggerheads. By the same token a prior settlement of the existing issues would launch the discussions in Peru under the happiest of auspices.

Recent events in Europe have clearly demonstrated the importance of strengthening the bonds, and removing the irritations, which exist among the republics of the Western Hemisphere. A definite impetus to the cultural and commercial influence of Nazi Germany in Latin-America is to be expected as a result of its recent triumphs. The United States would be exceedingly short-sighted in its foreign policy if this probability were not given advance recognition, and if it were not effectively countered in the interests of peace and democracy.

For that reason alone no news in the international field could at this juncture be more welcome than official confirmation of reports that the altercation with Mexico is giving way to a friendly solution, meeting the higher interests of both countries.

Recurrent Lynchings

Those who led the fight against the Federal anti-lynching bill in the last session of Congress have every reason to be sickened by each fresh outbreak of mob violence. For the position which they took is seriously weakened whenever a gang of hoodlums proceeds to murder an individual accused of crime.

The lynching at Ruston, La., was just as barbarous as the crime of which the victim was accused. In some respects it was far more disgusting, since it involved murderous action on the part of a large number of citizens acting in lawless conspiracy. The alleged depravity of the victim in no way excuses such uncivilized conduct.

Congress did not postpone the anti-lynching bill because any legislator indorses mob violence, but solely because of the very serious objections raised against Federal invasion of State functions. That criticism was able to prevail, however, only because of the substantial progress the States themselves have made in curbing lynchings. The position of those who opposed the bill was greatly strengthened by the fact that no such outrage occurred while it was under consideration. Indeed, the first six months of this year passed without a single instance of mob violence of this sort.

Since Congress adjourned, however, three persons have been lynched—one in Mississippi, one in Georgia and one in Louisiana. Compared with previous years, this represents improvement. Yet it was hoped that widespread discussion of the subject last winter, plus the real threat of a Federal anti-lynching law, would completely wipe out this filthy blot on American civilization. From that viewpoint the record is keenly disappointing.

States which continue to tolerate this utterly degenerate practice must realize that they are encouraging the certain revival of legislation repugnant to the American system of government as well as to themselves. There will be a Federal anti-lynching law, and soon, unless all lynchers are brought to speedy, stern and effective justice by local authorities.

Housing Subsidies

In his thoughtful address to the National Association of Housing Officials Charles P. Taft came to grips with a number of basic problems in slum clearance. Delegates to the conference here must have been especially interested in his response to the query: "How much subsidy can we afford?"

By way of clarifying issues Mr. Taft pointed out that tax exemption for low-rental projects is equivalent to a subsidy. As a member of Cincinnati's city council, he would prefer to collect taxes from these projects and then appropriate an equal amount for the reduction of rentals so that the people would more clearly understand the cost of housing. But regardless of what bookkeeping arrangements may be made, tax exemption for projects of this sort should be recognized as a community contribution for better housing.

Mr. Taft concludes that present subsidies are too high. Taking as an example Laurel Homes, PWA project in Cincinnati, he calculates the subsidy at $210 per apartment per year for the Federal Government and $91 for local agencies. Both national and municipal subsidies in England from 1919 to 1934 were estimated at less than $100 per year. Believing that his community "can't and won't pay $91 per apartment per year" and that the job of rehousing slum dwellers must nevertheless be done, Mr. Taft made a strong plea for economical construction. If the job is to be finished, he declared, "we can't afford to give any extras."

Like many other students of housing for slum dwellers, Mr. Taft is thinking in terms of a long-range program. He believes Cincinnati ought to build in the next 20 years at least 12,000 dwellings to rent for $25 per month or less. At the rate cited for Laurel Homes, that would mean local housing subsidies of more than $1,000,000 per year for Cincinnati. If subsidies for a few projects are granted on too liberal a scale, it is obvious that many slum dwellers will fail to obtain better living quarters.

There is sound reason, too, in Mr. Taft's argument that low-rental dwellings built to replace insanitary and obsolete hovels should be reserved for slum dwellers. But the latter is an elastic term. The USHA has made strenuous efforts to accommodate the lowest income group at Langston, the project built for Negroes in Washington by the PWA. It has completely written off the original cost. Rentals are designed to pay only operation, maintenance, insurance and replacement costs, with nothing for amortization. Yet the tenants thus housed have incomes ranging from $720 to $1,620 per year, the great majority nearer the lower figure.

A recent survey by the Washington Housing Association indicates that there are about 25,000 families in Washington with incomes ranging from $750 to $1,500. In addition relief cases number about 6,000 and approximately 12,000 local families are obtaining their livelihood from the WPA. For these large groups virtually no new housing has been built, except that provided by the Alley Dwelling Authority and the PWA. Moreover, the association found evidence of an acute need for better housing for the 75,000 families in the $1,500-$2,000 income range.

Because of the high rents here families with incomes that might be considered adequate in some parts of the country are nevertheless slum dwellers. Certainly no arbitrary income line can be drawn to separate slum dwellers entitled to subsidies from non-slum dwellers for whom no such benefits will be available. If a housing program results in demolition of slums and makes light, sanitary and adequate quarters available to families now improperly housed, it will serve a most useful social purpose. Aside from this, the chief consideration is that it shall not impose such a burden upon public finances as to threaten a breakdown while the slum clearance movement is still in its infancy.

A Change Of Temper

Re-elected for his fourteenth successive term as president of the A. F. of L., William Green, in his speech of acceptance, appealed to four big unions that have joined the insurgent C. I. O. to "come back home." He also promised that he would do everything possible to promote peace in the ranks of organized labor. Not only was the truculence which habitually marks Mr. Green's references to the C. I. O. noticeably absent, but he refrained from any personal attacks upon his rival, John L. Lewis.

This marked change of attitude strongly suggests that Mr. Green has sensed the growing sentiment among the rank and file of his followers in favor of a reconciliation with the C. I. O. It is highly probable that the positive stand taken by Daniel J. Tobin, head of the teamsters' union, has helped to soften the asperity of Mr. Green's utterances, and has turned his thoughts toward a peaceful solution of the prolonged factional struggle. Mr. Tobin threatened withdrawal from the A. F. of L. unless more conciliatory tactics were adopted, and called for an end to foolish vituperation. He also pointed out that a divided labor movement is a standing invitation to passage of legislation adverse to the interests of all organized labor.

Another development which doubtless accounts in part for Mr. Green's present conciliatory attitude is the offer of John L. Lewis to give up the leadership of the C. I. O. if Mr. Green will surrender his own executive position. Even if the Lewis offer was only a bluff, it has had a chastening effect upon Mr. Green. The latter can no longer maintain that the retention of Mr. Lewis as head of the C. I. O. constitutes an insuperable obstacle to rapprochement.

If the followers of the two chieftains make it clear that they do not intend to sacrifice the future of the organized labor movement to perpetuate the personal rivalries of their respective leaders, it should not be difficult to bring this senseless internecine warfare to a speedy and constructive end. A good deal of preliminary negotiation is to be expected, and it may be necessary to seek for a mediator outside the ranks of labor.

But, as Mr. Tobin says, the matters in dispute have now been thrown open for public discussion "so that somebody big enough, who has the confidence of both sides, can come along with a chance to use his influence and settle this struggle."

Japan Moves South

The action of Japan in landing troops at Bias Bay on the South China coast presages a military thrust in the direction of Canton. It also suggests that the Nipponese high command does not take too much stock in the theory, increasingly popular in Japan, that the fall of Hankow will be followed soon after by the collapse of Chinese resistance.

This theory rests on the assumption that once the Yangtze metropolis has been taken, the Japanese army in China will be able to rest on its oars and, by assuming a defensive position within the Shanghai-Hankow-Pieping-Tientsin quadrilateral, will consolidate the gains it has made in the 15 months of fighting. It is also assumed that, if and when Hankow falls, Chiang Kai-shek's army will crack up and what the Tokyo press calls "the multilateral disintegration of the Kuomintang government" will take place.

Apparently the Japanese high command does not subscribe to this optimistic view. While steady military pressure is being applied to bring about the speedy capture of Hankow already, as Tokyo sees it, overlong delayed, the Japanese generals are convinced that the war will not be over when that development takes place. And should Chiang establish a new base somewhere south of Hankow it would actually bring him nearer the entry points, such as Canton and French Indo-China, through which his forces receive essential supplies from the outside world. Even after the fall of Hankow, therefore, China would be in a position to continue the fighting.

With that situation in mind, it is not difficult to understand why the Japanese have decided to move in the direction of Canton. By cutting the Kowloon-Canton railway, Chiang's principal supply route would be blocked.

To be sure, the enterprise is not without considerable risk. It means, in the first place, the extension of Japan's already overextended lines in China, and in a region remote from the main Japanese military forces. And, secondly, it may get Japan into trouble with Great Britain. Already the London government has "reminded" Tokyo that any damage to British interests in South China may involve "risks for Anglo-Japanese relations."

It was to no small degree because of a fear of getting tangled up with Great Britain that Japan held up the South China expedition for so long, contenting itself with unceasing efforts to smash the Kowloon-Canton and the Canton-Hankow railways by aerial bombardments.

These air raids, however, have had no permanent results. Now the dominant elements in the Japanese army apparently feel that the risk of involvement with Great Britain must be taken.

With Gen. Ugaki forced out as foreign minister, one obstacle in the way of the South China campaign was removed. And in view of the Anglo-French attitude toward Hitler at Munich, the Japanese militarists very likely feel that British opposition to any Japanese move in South China may now be discounted.

High Cost Of Textbooks

(From the Commentator Magazine.)

Making textbooks is an expensive process. Including editorial costs, the plates of a popular novel of 400 pages can be produced for from $1,200 to $2,500. A textbook the same length may cost from $5,000 to $15,000. The initial cost of a series of books like geographies or readers is enormous. Maps and colored pictures by good artists cost from $50 to $500 a page. The total cost for such a series may easily mount to from $100,000 to $250,000, exclusive of editorial expense.

When all this charge is met, the 400-page textbook is listed at $1 or less in contrast with the $2 or $2.50 of a popular novel. How can this be done?

The novel selling 20,000 copies is successful; one selling 100,000 is a big hit; the rare one selling 500,000 is the miraculous answer to a publisher's prayer. But a textbook that in its half dozen years of life sells 20,000 is a liability. The 100,000-copy textbook is just fair; the 500,000 textbook is good.

Married Women And Jobs

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am wondering if Miss Earlene White is trying to qualify as a humorist when she disputes the report of the results of the unemployment census and declares that employmen of women does not deny jobs to men.

This is one of the chief causes of our economic difficulties as hundreds of thousands of married women are working whose husbands also have jobs, while millions of able and worthy men, fathers of small children are unable to find any work at all.

If all the women were removed from remunerative employment and returned to the home and the work done by men at men's wages, the depression would be ended over night. This would result in no loss of efficiency as there is not a thing under the sun that women do, aside from being mothers and sweethearts, that men can not do better and the only reason so many women are employed is because they can be had for less pay.

If something is not done to halt this trend the time will come when there will be no homes and the children, if any, will be raised in public institutions. When that time comes the end of our civilization will be just around the corner

Irrefutable

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have read your editorial "Loe, The Poor Strachey," in which you oppose the exclusion of Strachey from this country not so much because the law under which he is barred was designed primarily to exclude terrorists, and anarchists, but because you consider him of little importance.

I have heard Strachey speak for an hour and a half in the most withering and unanswerable indictment of the profit system that I have ever heard. But if he is a Communist or advocate the overthrow of this government he gave absolutely no indication of it. He is just about the most brilliant, and compelling speaker and personality that I have heard on the public platform, and I would like to hear you, or any other person attempt to refute him in his exposé of the fallacies and unworkability of the profit system as a way out of our difficulties.

Better not try to dispose of him as a mere "harmless chappy."

Chadaieff Quoted

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A number of letters have lately appeared in The Post by German-Americans who are trying to defend Hitlerism. These people ought to be ashamed to abuse the freedom of their adopted country by such vile propaganda. I am sure that 99 per cent of the Germans in this country are loyal and true to the oath they took when they became citizens of the United States.

To modern Germany may be applied the words of the Russian writer, Chadaieff, quoted by Paleologue, French Ambassador to the late Czar. "The Russians belong to those nations who seem only to exist to give humanity terrible lessons. Surely these lessons are not lost. But who can foresee the trials which seem to be reserved for Russia before she will take the normal course of her destiny and her place in the bosom of humanity?"

These words fit modern Germany.

Suggestions On Safety

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In the extensive drive for safety, why not center our attention upon other important phases which, to all appearances, seem to have been neglected. Would it not add to the general well being and peace of mind if the impatient motorists would refrain from pounding horns in an uproarious honk-honk when a fellow driver is stalled in the line of traffic or for some good reason or other is unable to move as rapidly as the man in the car behind him thinks he should move. This nerve-racking noise only adds to the general hubbub and hinders rather than improves the traffic situation.

The roads are infested with reckless, careles sand unfit drivers. Why not begin at the root of the evil and eliminate. It would seem as if some of the difficulties would be solved if definite regulations could be made that no person should drive a car who does not hold a paid-up accident insurance policy and who is not of proper legal age. There may be laws regulating these difficulties but, if so, they do not appear to be enforced. If there could be a little more courtesy on the road and consideration of fellow motorists, our safety problem would be somewhat improved.

In this zeal for safety, please do not forget the pedestrian, as he scarcely finds a place to walk nowadays. He is buffeted from side to side by cars speeding hither and yon. Just as he plans to walk across the street comfortably with the green light, he finds a sudden honk at his heels and the car is almost upon him. The old saying "Haste makes waste" was never more truly spoken.

Chamberlain's Speech

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The first part of Chamberlain's speech to the House of Commons, October 6, concerning the horrors of war and the disaster sure to come to England as a result was touching and, I am sorry to say, true. But when he says that England ought only to fight when the "cause which transcends all ordinary human values, a cause to which you can point, if some day you win a victory, and say: 'That cause is sacred,'" he ought to remember that the war against Fascism is the cause of which he is speaking. I cannot think of any better cause.

Yet the speech does give us an inkling as to the reasons why Chamberlain followed his policy of concession with Hitler. Sir Neville said that "Our past experience has shown us only too clearly that weakness in armed strength means weakness in diplomacy." Here is explained the reason for Chamberlain's disastrous diplomacy, we have his reasons for making peace at any cost. Of course, he then stressed the need for more adequate defense measures in the event of another crisis.

The entire tenor of the speech is one of victory in spite of the opposition which was entirely justified. Chamberlain took every opportunity to strike back at his critics. He knew that this speech couldn't be debated so he took everything in his favor and elaborated. Even if he did avert a war and his name goes down in history for that splendid accomplishment, he will be blamed indirectly for the next conflict sure to come in a few years.

What Recovery?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The most potent argument yet heard in favor of railroad wage cuts at this time was offered yesterday by George Harrison, described as labor spokesman, in voicing his opposition to such cuts. Such cuts, he stated, were in direct opposition to the President's "recovery program."

The cynical may ask at this stage, what recovery program? Aside from brief splurges from the bottom resulting from expenditure of vast sums of borrowed money, there has been no recovery, nothing remotely resembling prosperity.

Programs, I won't deny, there have been in nauseating abundance, each frantically urged as a universal solution. But the vast reservoirs of unemployed flow over; worklessness becomes chronic; various forces—never the political!—are blamed. Those now in high paid jobs strive for more while others equally deserving exist in raggedness and privation, except for the insult of relief.

What prosperity or recovery has been created by the wage increase granted at the start of the Roosevelt depression? What has been witnessed except increased unemployment of "rails" due to this cause?

Why cite Roosevelt's opinion? Would the head of the greatest vote trust in political history offend several millions of the labor vote? What is the bankruptcy of a half dozen more railroads against such a contingency. Financial aid is even to be denied them for opposing a condition that is producing their bankruptcy!

What is needed is an immediate 15 to 12 per cent wage cut, with automatic provision for restoration for 8 to 10 per cent of the cut in small gradual quarterly amounts. Spreading employment at liberal wages will do more toward producing a genuine comeback than specious nonsense to the effect that a cut in existing top-heavy wages will create depression.

"Old-Age Panacea"

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Idleness breeds crime among the young, but not among men and women over 50 or 55 years old. If President Roosevelt wants to know how to reduce crime to a minimum, the solution is as feasible as the science of mathematics. Were another Lincoln to stand forth, advocating the following thesis, the social life of America would be transformed within a few years.

It is proposed to have the work of the Nation performed by the younger element, retiring other toilers who have passed middle age. Few young men and women would become criminals if they were kept employed, and here is the strongest argument in favor of the Townsend Plan. Because there are about 12,000,000 persons 60 years of age or over, the Townsend movement is rapidly gathering momentum. To these suddenly has dawned the bright light of an old-age panacea, a panacea that not only will keep them in comfort, but also will bring greater prosperity to the remainder of the population. That is why the demand for this reform is daily growing more insistent.

Here is an advanced school which can establish a sustained purchasing power, that will guarantee prosperity and abolish depressions. Greater fluidity of the currency can do that. The basic idea is that Government expenditures can prevent violent cycles of ups and downs if applied opportunely.

Eventually the Nation will adopt this wise issue. That statesman who champions this thesis until it becomes part of the Government's functioning will live in history along with George Washington. Here is a new emancipation of man.

The Post Impressionist

Feud

I used to drop by The Home several times a week, whenever I had an odd moment. I loved the large, cool rooms, where the old ladies gathered to chat, crochet and listen to the radio. The Home was so restful, so full of serenity, that I always left my own little worries outside on the doorstep like a pair of rubbers. Often I did not remember to put them on again when I came out.

But lately a change has come over The Home. Gone is the peace, gone is the sense of a Time that has been neatly wrapped and laid away in lavender. Now the atmosphere is so tense it crackles like a piece of cellophane. And it all came about because Mrs. Que and Mrs. Wye have such adamantine natures; each points proudly to the fact that she never yields an inch.

All was well until these two old ladies met one afternoon in the room of gentle little Mrs. Zee. Mrs. Wye had come to return a book; Mrs. Que to borrow a pair of scissors. She is something of a seamstress and was, at the time, engaged in ripping apart two dresses; her object was to take the better parts of each and evolve therefrom one garment of pleasing design. Mrs. Wye, on the other hand, is literary. She attracts books like a magnet picking up nails. And next to reading, she likes to talk about books.

"Oh, Mrs. Que," she had exclaimed on this occasion, "you must read this one! It is so cleverly done, so original." She launched into an animated synopsis of a novel.

Mrs. Q. appeared to be lending her best attention. Then, when Mrs. Wye was forced to pause for breath, she said:

"I don't know whether to use tea or coffee to dye my lace." It was plain that already she was dipping the lace, mentally, in each, and viewing the result with her mind's eye.

"You weren't listening to a word I said," said Mrs. Wye, indignantly. "I think you are very rude. I was trying to tell you——" "I am trying to tell you about this story, and you——"

"But I think," Mrs. Que went right on thinking out loud, "I think that I shall use tea."

"Nobody cares which you use," cried Mrs. Wye.

"Indeed, I care; indeed. I have more important things to think about than trashy novels." Mrs. Que spoke with asperity and smarting pride.

Both had forgotten Mrs. Zee, who stood by like a bewildered dove, clasping her twilight hands and murmuring some ineffectual accompaniment to the crescendo mounting about her.

"Important?" Mrs. Wye cried on a rising note, "You don't know the meaning of important."

"Indeed, I do. It is you who have no sense of what is important. Indeed, and what could be more important than the things I think about?" Mrs. Que, true to her dressmaking instincts, trimmed all sentences with 'indeeds', tacking them like lace on a petticoat.

Then Mrs. Que picked up the scissors and walked out. Mrs. Wye laid down the book and walked out. At the door each paused to vow she would never speak to the other again. "Oh, dear, dear, dear," said little Mrs. Zee.

They have kept their word. Neither has spoken directly to the other. Each pretends a complete ignorance of the other's existence. Nevertheless each finds a way to fling verbal daggers at the other's head, which like that of the poet, is unbowed. The words are the words of the feudists, but the voices are those of neutrals. The adversaries have converted the other old ladies into catapults to hurl their wordy missiles.

Naturally the ladies are feeling the strain of this unnatural situation. No longer does one come upon them in cozy groups of twos and threes. Meals now are ordeals. Who can enjoy food when one is forced to relay some scathing remark with every other bite?

But not always do these verbal bullets take the form of personalities. Mrs. Que sometimes insists on conveying bits of neighborhood gossip to Mrs. Wye through the voice of someone else. Mrs. Wye vaunts her knowledge of current events to Mrs. Que through some other elderly mouthpiece. Thus it is to be noted that, far from avoiding, each seeks the other out.

And, as I said, one no longer finds the ladies lingering in the parlors, for they know that where two or more of them are gathered, there, also, will the feudists.

It is little Mrs. Zee who feels the strain worst of all. But, oddly enough, she is showing signs of revolt. Worms, as she hinted to Mrs. You yesterday, have been known to turn.

"The very next time one of them tries to use me as a—as a—graphaphone, I'll look her in the eye and say, 'If you want that said, say it yourself.' And then I'll flounce out!" These were her whispered words to Mrs. You.

I should very much like to be there to see frail, gray, little Mrs. Zee fling her ultimatum and then flounce—yes, flounce—right out of the room.

Lindbergh's Warning

IF CHARLES LINDBERGH warned the British that the mysterious Russian air force was no good he probably told the truth. Whatever the scientific worth of Lindbergh's experiments with a chicken heart in a tube of jelly, there can be no doubt that he does know planes and engines, and he certainly was in a position to make comparisons between the Russian and German material and the skill of their fliers.

Maj. Al Williams, who also knows the difference between a German bomber and a mechanical June bug, confirms the information which Lindbergh is said to have passed on to the British petticoat government at Cliveden. He says, in general effect, that a Russian still has no more feeling for a machine than a Spaniard has for a horse, and reports, in particular, his observation of one Russian ship which was their pride and joy, but to the expert and exacting eye of a first-class military flier seemed to be composed of old wash boilers, broken down egg-beaters and tin.

HE ALSO WAS impressed by the excellence of the German equipment and personnel, and no mere accusation of sympathy for the Nazis will suffice to answer his findings. That accusation probably will be made, because few people nowadays are willing to believe that any report of achievement, either in Russia or in the killer countries, is innocent of political bias one way or the other.

The Russians, though, have been acting in a manner to excite suspicion and by their mysteriousness have prepared people to believe that they are hiding weakness rather than strength.

The Germans invited the French general in command of aviation to look at such of their equipment as they cared to show him in return for similar courtesy to one of their generals, and it is not unlikely that he came home to report that, just on the basis of the preparations which he had been permitted to inspect, the Nazis were fixed to give France and Britain a terrible hammering at the start of the war and again compel the allies to come from far behind under the most punishing difficulty.

IT IS CERTAIN that they didn't show him any weakness, for they aren't weak, and it is not the practice of the strong to pretend to the flabby.

Nations strut their power, and the French are by nature so frugal, stingy and given to saving old bottles and bits of string that they doubtless are still flying a few old-spit-and-paper kites, powered with clockworks, left over from the World War. They just can't throw anything away.

Their orchid man, Georges Carpentier, once gave the suckers of this country a memorable lesson in mysterious preparation for a big fight. Georges was only a light heavyweight and over the hill, so he went into private training at Manhasset and announced that he was perfecting a secret punch—a morsel of information which dropped all the experts squawking on the grass in hysterics. They knew, as everybody should have known who wasn't silly on the subject, that all the punches of which the human fist is capable had been invented and used long ago.

YET, BECAUSE he was so bad, Carpentier barred press and public from his practice works, except on very formal occasions, when he would display his lithe, lean body in routine calisthenics and delicate sparring, concluding with an acrobatic nip-up, and there wasn't a single soul in the whole prize-fight profession who doubted for an instant that he imposed this secrecy because he was so bad.

Yet proof was lacking, so one afternoon a photographer stood away in the haymow of the old barn overlooking the practice ring and remained there when the crowd left, sighting his camera through a knothole, to await the private session in the evening, when the secret punch was to be worked over.

He had a long, difficult wait, but about dusk Carpentier took the ring and rewarded his patience with a magnificent sprawl, smack on the sole of his pants, when tapped on the face by the clumsy and bovine Paul Jorunee.

CONSTERNATION REIGNED, and at its height the photographer pictured Carpentier, horizontal, with the astonished and apologetic Journee standing over him, but Francois Descamps heard the camera click, and the mob went up the ladder to destroy the plate and damned near destroy the photographer in their panic.

The story was printed, though without the picture, and still the suckers clamored for tickets, but, after all, that was just a show not a war, and the life of their country wasn't staked on their gullible faith in some great mysterious power veiled in secrecy.

Dr. Judd Named To NYA Post

Dr. Charles Hubbard Judd, who retired recently from the chairmanship of the department of education, University of Chicago, has been appointed director of the National Youth Administration program of eductaion for out-of-school youth, Aubrey Williams, executive director, announced yesterday.

The NYA, Williams said, "now has over 200,000 young people employed on work projects throughout the Nation. It has become evident these youths need eductaion that will make them intelligent about the industrial and social conditions which surround them."

The Challenge

The rise of the Nazi pseudo-religion may well be feared; it has some power in itself and is infectious. Apart from its inevitable conflict with the religion to which the West owes its spiritual foundation—but which the West has for the most part formally deserted—this new creed threatens the secular forms by which we still live. And Hitler regards it as essential to his aims; in his own words: "Only in the struggle of two Weltanschauungen with one another is the weapon of brutal force, used persistently and ruthlessly, capable of bringing about a decision for the side it supports . . ."

Yet, if we have to fight, it will not be in the vain idea of proving a Weltanschauung false, for we know that Beelzebub never cast out Satan. Even if, by a historic disaster, the Nazi creed were to overcome the world, it could only be overcome in turn by the truth and not by violence, and the truth would be demonstrated, as it always and only is, by the sacrificial example of individuals.

The challenge that this new doctrine holds for us lies in the fact that its affirmations concerning the nature of man in society are not entirely false, and anyhow are affirmations. They contain more insight into social reality than the hollow negations of agnosticism and laissez faire into which we have suffered the sacred individualism of Christendom to degenerate; and the higher and freer community of human beings, which democracy is still supposed to represent, will not be found without a return to intellectual and spiritual origins which we share with Germany, but of which we, as a people, have become almost as ignorant as we are of the Nazi metaphysicians.

The Federal Diary

By Scott Hart

IF YOU eat a fish that comes to the platter wearing a pair of eyeglasses the owner is Merle Sager, of the Interior Department. He was flying across the bay last week-end and thrust his head from the plane's window to get a better angle on a camera shot. He got the shot, but lost the glasses—value, $20 . . . Who ever would have thought that Commissioner Frank McNinch, the mildest of men, personally, would ever have brought himself to such public eye? A frequent speaker at Confederate gatherings, the chairman's voice trembles so on Lee's farewell address that he would seem incapable of purging anyone from the Commission's staff.

Labor Department Dido: All the Immigration and Naturalization people who were shunted to Fourteenth and Church streets (where they voted against going) are there. And it is said their morale is bad. And it's all so ironical, they point out, explaining: the move was made to give the Wage-Hour Division Immigration's old stand on the fifth floor; now, it has proved that Wage-Hour overflowed the fifth floor and has to be split up itself, some of it being in the American Securities Building. So the net result has been that cohesion was lost all around.

IT ISN'T much use in getting excited over the committee to extend Federal retirements to all workers currently excluded. They've started off all right, but the applause can be withheld until the findings are made. For wasn't there, once on a time, a committee that studied the possibilities of a five-day week? . . . Word comes that the A. F. of L. convention has promised its muscular shoulder behind achievement of a $1,500 minimum wage for Federal workers; extension of the merit system and the Classification Act to Government employes outside Washington, to place salaries on a basis of equal pay for equal work, and, in fact, behind all the other objectives of its son, the A. F. G. E.

And in their activities, the employes in the prison service could very well be remembered in something other than sentiment. They handle the dangerous inmates from 60 to 70 hours every week; and there's occasional talk about how the inmates are faring, but very little on how the guards are getting along.

THE FUNNY part is that the Bureau of Prisons wants very much to do something about the situation. And every time Congress provides more personnel to relieve the condition, the new men are placed on new jobs, which, obviously, does nothing to help the hard-pressed employes who already were there. It looks like institutional heads might be to blame.

You've forgotten by now all about the recent New England storm. News, big news, has a way of being forgotten very soon. But the Forest Service hasn't forgotten it. Charles Randall related yesterday how some of the service's aces are up there now, struggling with 4,000,000,000 feet of timber that the wind blew down—blew, almost literally, into the Forest Service's lap.

THAT'S A lot of timber to be wrestled with by such a small group as Axel G. Lindh, E. W. Tinker, G. D. Cook, R. F. Hammatt, Fred Schoder, J. W. Gerald, Payson Irwin, Howard Hopkins, and L. S. Gross. Four billion feet of timber on the ground is enough to make a larger crowd start the salvage work somewhat discouraged — and particularly since there isn't the man-power to handle the load, and even if it were handled, immediately placed on the market, what would happen to timber's economic balance? It's a tough assignment. And to make the problem greater, or deeper, if the timber is salvaged by next summer, at the latest, it will be ruined.

Chest Drive Message

By the Associated Press.

Following is the text of President Roosevelt's address last night on hte Community Chest drvie.

In troubled days when the nerves of men and women have been strained almost to the breaking point we have been in danger of losing sight of one very important fact — the all-pervading human kindness of men and women. This human kindness cannot be created artificially out of speeches and appeals—it is part of life itself.

In accordance with this thought, I am not this year making a speech or an appeal in behalf of the 1938 mobilization for human needs, but I am calling your attention to the past and present generosity of the people of America. That generosity never has failed and please God it never will fail. In full faith and confidence, therefore, I present to you the news that local Community Chest drives will shortly be undertaken in all parts of the country.

There are some persons who say that the need for voluntary private agencies has decreased. They say that the Government—Federal, State and local—has moved in and taken over part of the jurisdiction of the private agencies. Such persons talk as if the scope of voluntary action and of mutual aid had been limited, or even eliminated.

Private community effort is not contradictory in principle to Government effort, whether local, State or national. All of these are needed to make up the partnership upon which our Nation is founded. The scope of voluntary action cannot be limited, because the very desire to help the less fortunate is a basic and spontaneous human urge that knows no boundary lines. It is an urge that advances civilization. I like to think it is a national characteristic.

Let me give you an example of successful working together. One section of our country, New England, has recently been devastated by hurricane and tidal wave. Hundreds of lives were lost and millions of dollars worth of property were destroyed. This was indeed a tragedy. But there was one consolation in this New England tragedy. Hardly had the hurricane subsided when all the forces of government, assisting and co-operating with private agencies, were rushed to the aid of the injured, the sick and the homeless. How many lives were saved because of these efforts no one can say. The extent to which human suffering was alleviated is beyond all estimate. And we can say that no effort was spared to aid the victims of this disaster.

The rehabilitation work is still going on. The Red Cross, the WPA, the CCC, the NYA, the Army engineers and other Federal agencies are working with the local agencies, both private and public, to rehabilitate those stricken areas and to assist those who are in need. Certainly, there has been no conflict between Government and private agencies—there has been more than enough work for both. And there is more than enough work for both in our national effort to lift up the lower one-third of our Nation to a standard of living which will conform with decency and comfort and self-respect.

It is true that our Government has assumed increased responsibilities for social welfare. We are giving work to more than 3,000,000 men and women, unemployed through no fault of their own, on our PWA program. Through our social security program we are aiding the States in caring for the aged, for widows and children and for the blind. We are providing new opportunities for more than a half million boys and girls through our CCC and NYA programs; and in many other ways the Federal Government, in co-operation with the State and local governments, is aiding our underprivileged citizens.

But you may well ask if the need for community action is as great as before, now that our Government has provided a national program of social security. I would answer that the need is just as great as before, because Government help was intended, and is intended, to improve the old conditions, and if local help and private help decrease today we will nullify the improvement and return to just where we were before. Very definitely we need the effort of the pioneer agencies, the local volunteer agencies, because it is expended on concrete problems which must be met if our whole program is to go forward with the co-ordination that is its basic aim.

Community leaders have met the challenge of changing conditions. They are not looking backward with resentment against the Government. They have welcomed the acts of their Government as a liberation of their efforts, as an opportunity to move forward on the front of social progress.

It is these men and women whom I salute. They are the shock troops of the social conscience. I call upon the American people to fall in behind such leadership and to widen the social horizon. I am thoroughly convinced that no matter how much the Government does, the private agencies of America still have much to do before any of us can rest on our oars or on our laurels. I am thoroughly convinced that the American people want to participate on a voluntary and individual basis in the endeavor to make this country the best possible place in which to live. I feel confident that this year's Community Chest drive will be successful, as it has been successful in the past and as it will continue to be successful for long years to come.

Britain at Bay

IT IS UNFORTUNATELY not a coincidence that the Munich accord has been followed by the Arab rebellion in Palestine and by the Japanese invasion of southern China. For once it had been demonstrated that Great Britain and Russia could be intimidated, it was naive to suppose that they would be allowed to enjoy even a very short period of peace in which to catch their breath. When an army is retreating, it must not expect to be granted a truce during which it can reform and reorganize its lines. On the contrary, it must expect the pressure to be redoubled with a view to turning an orderly retreat into a disorderly rout.

Now though the Munich settlement was a bloodless affair, it was in every other respect the equivalent of a major military disaster. Not only did it involve the destruction of one of the great strategic fortresses of Europe, the virtual disarming of at least 25 divisions of excellent troops and of an air force of very considerable striking power, but it showed that for the time being neither the Russians on their side nor the British and French on theirs were morally prepared to defend their supposedly vital interests. That being demonstrated, it was inevitable and certain that the attack on their vital interests would promptly be extended and pressed with all energy.

NO TIME HAS BEEN lost in making the most of the opportunity which Munich provided. While the Russians are denouncing Col. Lindbergh and Lady Astor as a consolation to themselves for not having resisted Hitler, while Mr. Chamberlain is catching salmon in Scotland and resting on his laurels, the Japanese have launched a campaign aimed at the final destruction of the British and Russian position in China, and the Arabs have started an insurrection which threatens the position of Britain in the Mediterranean, the Near East, and on the road to India.

The situation which British imperial statesmen have always dreaded the most is so nearly the actual situation today that its gravity cannot be concealed. The British Empire lies along a line which extends from northwestern Europe through the Mediterranean to India, Singapore, Hongkong and southern China, Shanghai and the valley of the Yangtze. This line has three vital strategic areas which must be held if the British Empire is to survive.

THE FIRST is in western Europe, in Belgium along the Franco-German frontier, and in the waters around the British Isles. Though much damage could be done by air raids, though the loss of the Czech army and the Russian contribution in the East makes the defense much more costly, this area is still held securely by the French army and the British navy.

The second area of vital defense is in the Mediterranean from Gibraltar to Suez, and here the British position is gravely impaired by Italy, by Gen. Franco, and by the Arabs who are quite clearly, in fact openly, in some sort of connection with the Rome-Berlin axis.

The third area of vital defense is in the Far East, and there the British are in danger of being driven out of China altogether and of being faced as a result with a thrust by the Japanese toward the south against the Dutch East Indies and the Singapore base.

The British have always known that these were the vulnerable spots of their position as a world power, and the nightmare of British statesmen has always been a concerted attack on the three positions. That concerted attack has now materialized, and if it develops in full force, it may be said without exaggeration that the fate of the British Empire is at stake.

THE MOST IMPORTANT question in the whole world is whether the British Empire is to survive this concerted attack on its vital centers.

The British imperial system means much more than the agglomeration of about one-quarter of the human race owning allegiance to King George VI. It involves much more than the territory under the British crown. For the ultimate defense of these empires is dependent upon British naval supremacy. It involves also the independence of all the small democracies of Europe, the Scandinavian countries, Belgium, the Netherlands and Switzerland. For the freedom of small European nations depends and has always depended upon the capacity of the British to maintain a balance of power in Europe. It involves, too, the Monroe Doctrine as we have known it. For the first line of defense against European aggression in this hemisphere has in the past been the European balance of power and British maritime supremacy.

THE DECLINE and fall of the British Empire would, therefore, be an event that would shake the whole world, not for a few weeks but for generations. It would not be easy to cry "The King is dead. Long live the King," and to suppose that the disintegration of this world-wide political system would be followed promptly by the construction of a new world order in its place. It would be followed on the contrary by a whole series of wars and rebellions fought over the division of the British power and the British possessions.

The fall of Austria-Hungary, though it was a merely localized empire in one region of one small continent, has kept Europe in turmoil since 1914, and the end, in some kind of tolerably stable substitute, is not even in sight. The fall of the British system would be incalculably greater, deeper, and longer in its consequences, and probably no child living today could hope to see the end of the trouble and the disorder.

RECOGNIZING the extreme gravity of the situation, is it necessary to conclude that the situation is desperate? The answer to that depends on whether or not the British people are willing and able to take promptly the full measure of the gravity of their position and act accordingly. They are confronted by a combination which is inferior in human and material resources but far superior in military and political morale, and the question is whether at some threatened point, it does not greatly matter which one, the British government will find the strength to speak once more with its ancient authority.

It has often been said that dictators need prestige in order to survive. That is true. But it is also true that democracies, and particularly democracies that govern empires, need prestige in order to impress their enemies and to unite and invigorate themselves. In the long ordeal which they have to face the British will need many things, an army, airplanes, allies. But what they need first, in order to get other things they will ultimately need, is a recovery of prestige which will impress upon their own people and upon the outer world their will to survive.

Chrysler Denies 32-Hour Week

Detroit, Oct. 14 (AP).—Controversy over whether Chrysler's announced intention to recall several thousand workers to jobs in its automobile plants indicated the corporation would adhere to a 32-hour work week arose today as efforts to settle two Chrysler plant labor disputes continued.

Herman L. Weckler, Chrysler vice president, branded as "not true" reports that the Chrysler Corporation will adopt a 32-hour policy next week.

Child Welfare Expert Says Field Never Changes

Child welfare is the only field in social work which does not change and which can be planned intelligently, Jacob Kepecs yesterday told the Child Welfare Committee of the Council of Social Agencies.

Kepecs, director of the Jewish Children's Bureau of Chicago, has arrived to complete a study of conditions under the Child Welfare Review Advisory Committee.

Force Wins, U. S. Learns

By Mark Sullivan

The Lesson Is Plain

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT at his press conference on October 11 said he thought he would have something to say about the budget at the next succeeding conference. The next conference came and Mr. Roosevelt was reminded of what he had said. He replied that his expectation of saying something about the budget must be deferred for the reason that new developments having to do with national defense have arisen. The necessity of additional expenditures on that account makes it necessary to revise preceding expectations about the budget.

The newspaper men pressed Mr. Roosevelt for details. Does the new situation mean a larger navy? A larger army? More airplanes? To all Mr. Roosevelt replied that he does not at this time wish to dwell on details because emphasis on one detail might give a distorted picture. He prefers to wait until a complete picture can be given covering all the elements involved in national defense and the changed conditions that make stronger defense necessary. This picture, Mr. Roosevelt expects, will be ready for presentation to the new Congress when it meets January 3.

MR. ROOSEVELT was asked questions also about just what are the new conditions in the world that call for change in America's provision for national defense. In replying to these questions Mr. Roosevelt was prudent, scrupulous about propriety. He mentioned no one recent event and no one new condition. Throughout the entire press conference Mr. Roosevelt did not mention the name of any nation. What is said in this dispatch from this point on does not come from Mr. Roosevelt; it is the idea of this writer.

The principal new condition in the world is not new at all. It is as old as the beginning of history. But it had been forgotten and it is now rediscovered. This new condition can be expressed in two words: force wins. The humane ideals and standards and practices which we in America have long taken for granted, we can no longer rely upon. Ideals and ideas, of whatever kind, are just as strong as the force that backs them.

FORCE WINS. Hitler and Nizilism got their way in Europe because they had the greater force, and the greater willingness to use it ruthlessly. Britain and France were obliged to yield because they were not strong enough to resist successfully, because they felt that if war came they would lose the first clash, and quite likely by losing the first clash would lose the war.

So, there is one new condition: Force wins. And because of that new condition there is another. Nazilism, the Nazi-Fascist conception of society and government, is on the march. The three important nations that have this concepiton—Germany, Italy and Japan—have the greater force and the greater willingness to use force ruthlessly. Nazi-Fascism is dominant in the world. Because it is dominant, smaller nations will look up to it. Small nations know their best safety lies in hugging the castle walls of whatever nation or whatever idea or governmental conception is most powerful. Nazi-Fascism will get recruits. The Nazi-Fascist conception will spread. Where it does not get adherents voluntarily, it can get them by conquest. Russia and communism can be overcome or absorbed. Communism can be turned into Nazi-Fascism overnight. For the setup of government in the two conceptions, the mechanism, the forms, including dictatorship at the top, are practically the same. Nazi-Facism is on the march.

FOR AMERICA the lesson is plain, and serious. Our form of society and government is on the defensive. The two great nations that share our conception, Britain and France, are by their recent submission reduced in rank and power and prestige. Britain is under what amounts to a promise to Hitler not to let her statesmen or her press criticize Nazi-Fascism. Britain and France will be fortunate if they can maintain their form of government and society.

For us, it means that we must maintain two superior navies, one in the Atlantic, one in the Pacific. We must maintain air forces in the same proportion. The threat to us may come directly across either or both oceans, or it may approach us by way of South America. For an early development will be attempt by the Nazi-Fascist group of nations—Germany, Italy and Japan—to dominate the territory south of us, if not by arms, then by propaganda and trade and infiltration. Already the process is under way. Unless we are vigorous, the Nazi-Fascist ideal can come to our Texas border.

FOR DEFENDING America externally, President Roosevelt is alert and energetic. One wishes he could see that the threat to us is not only external but internal. Our ideal of government and society can succumb through gradual growth within our own country of the authoritarian concept. This growth is under way.

Our great danger lies in the thoughtless adoption of one feature after another of authoritarian government—done to the accompaniment of assertions of loyalty to the American form of government, the American Constitution, the American tradition altogether.

Against imposition of authoritarian government by external arms we can protect ourselves, and President Roosevelt is about the task. One wishes he were equally vigilant to protect us against the same fate as it comes upon us internally.

They Ask For More

The Dictators Press Their Advantage

HITLER'S SPEECH at Saarbruecken on October 9 and Virginio Gayda's blast against the French press in the Giornale d'Italia on October 13 make it very clear what new price Great Britain and France are being called upon to pay so that amity between those nations and the Fascist dictatorships can be maintained. Put into plain language, this price is that the democracies cease to be democratic.

At Saarbruecken the German Fuehrer indicated his disbelief in the permanence of the modus vivendi established by Great Britain and the Third Reich a fortnight ago at Munich. While he had a word of commendation for Neville Chamberlain, the prime mover in the four-power settlement which involved the destruction of Czechoslovakia, he added that good relations between the Berlin and London governments would disappear were men of the type of Anthony Eden, Duff Cooper and Winston Churchill to come to power in Great Britain.

In effect, Hitler's remarks were in the nature of a warning that if the British valued his friendship they had better not entrust their government to men of whom he disapproved.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED. Thirty-three years ago the mere suspicion that Theophile Delcasse had been pushed out of the foreign ministry in France because the Kaiser's government had disapproved of him was enough to stir a violent wave of protest both in France and Great Britain.

Indeed, it was more than anything else the feeling that Premier Rouvier, who headed the French government at that time, had weakly submitted to Berlin's indirect dictates that ultimately drove that unfortunate French statesman into a political limbo from which he never escaped.

The Saarbruecken speech only produced a momentary flurry in London. It wasn't taken very seriously, the fact being forgotten that Anthony Eden's resignation from the British cabinet last February came only a few hours after a speech by Hitler denouncin the British stateman and was interpreted in Berlin as being the direct consequence of that speech. Nor can it be forgotten that the Saarbruecken speech followed close on the heels of Eduard Benes' resignation as President of Czechoslovakia, a development practically dictated by the Fuehrer.

THE HABIT of dictation grows in a dictator. Nor is it limited in its exercise to his own people and his own land. Having trampled upon freedom at home he sesents the continuonce of freedom abroad.

That is why the totalitarian dictators save their choicest epithets for the foreign press. It irks them that there are places in the world where men are free to write as they see fit, to report what they know instead of what they have been told to do, to hold the mirror of criticism and censure up to the dictatorships.

It is symptomatic, in this connection, that one of the first treaties signed by the Third Reich with any outside nation—the 1934 treaty with Poland—contained as one of its provisions a so-called press disarmament clause. The German government agreed to restrain its press from venting any criticism of Poland and its leaders and Poland agreed to do likewise with respect to Polish press discussions of the Third Reich and its Fuehrer. And some time ago Hitler, through his press chief, offered to make a similar arrangement with Great Britain.

IN HIS article of October 13 Virginio Gayda, Mussolini's principal mouthpiece on foreign affairs, said that talk of restoring Franco-Italian friendship was out of the question so long as the French press continued to throw mud at Italy, to question the valor of Italian soldiers and to criticize the Duce.

The clear implication is that if France wants to live at peace with its Fascist neighbor, Fascist principles of press control must be put into effect in the republic. Carried to its logical conclusion, this means that Franco-Italian friendship is possible only if France, too, becomes Fascist.

A year, or even six months, ago the idea would have been laughed out of court that Gayda was serious in what he said or that such a policy as he was urging upon France had any chance of adoption. Now one cannot be so sure. The events leading up to the Munich parley showed that there was almost no price the European democracies are not prepared to pay to preserve peace. The dictatorships have long suspected this and have acted accordingly. Now all doubts of the correctness of their suspicions have been removed. It is not surprising that the dictators are determined to press home their advantage.

"BUT IT IS not merely external pressures which threaten democratic institutions in France and Great Britain. They are not yet in the position of poor Czechoslovakia which, to exist even in its present truncated form, must conform to Hitler's wishes with respect to its foreign policy, its economic life, its leadership and its political institutions.

Great Britain and France are still strong enough to ignore the demands of Hitler and Mussolini that they curb their press or keep from office those deemed persona non grata to Berlin and Rome. But what the totalitarian dictators may alone fail to do, internal pressures may succeed in bringing about.

To offset the enormously weakened position in which they now find themselves as a result of the destruction of Czechoslovakia's independence and the accentuated power of Germany, Great Britain and France must accelerate their rearmament programs. As Germany has done, they may decide to subordinate all other considerations to the needs of defense. To preserve even the present ragged peace they may be compelled to tighten their political as well as their economic belts. In time of presumed peace they must now increasingly live, as do the dictatorships, in a state of war. Under such conditions democracy in those countries faces an eclipse.

Diggers Seek 'Gold Cache' On Army Post

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 14 (U.P.).—Three men worke d with picks and shovels until late tonight, searching for the gold cache Frank Sheppard, colored, said he found on the Fort Sam Houston Military Reservation 21 years ago.

Rivera, Calif., Oct. 14 (AP).—Jeff, Bud and Marlene Schaefer, aged 4, 6 and 7, were digging dirt piles when their playful efforts turned up approximately $3,500 of silver and currency on the ranch of Lee Williams, it was learned today when the question of ownership arose.

Authorities expressed the belief the money, found in tin cans and glass jars, belonged to the former owner, John Cockrell, who died about four years ago.

State Parole Head Acts as Mediator, Settles Long Strike

Baltimore, Oct. 14 (AP).—Maryland's parole commissioner, J. Cookman Boyd, made his debut as a labor conciliator today, when, acting at the request of a union organizer on parole from the penitentiary, he settled a six-week-old strike of Baltimore transfer company drivers.

Boyd announced late today that the Truckers and Teamsters Union, represented by Harry Cohen, the parolee, and officials of the company had reached a "mutually satisfactory agreement" after hours of conference in the parole commissioner's office.

Cohen, who was serving a three-month penitentiary term for incitement to riot in connection with a taxi strike last year, asked Boyd to attempt a settlement yesterday, Boyd said. An official of the company conferred with Cohen and Boyd, and a compromise agreement finally was reached today, the commissioner said.

Dionne Quins Excel Selves In New Film

"FIVE OF A KIND." Twentieth Century-Fox picturization of a screen play by John Patrick and Lou Breslow, starring the Dionne quintuplets, with Claire Trevor, Cesar Romero, Slim Summerville, John Qualen, Joan Hershott, Inez Courtney, Jane Darwell, Pauline Moore, John Russell, Andrew Tombs, Davis Torrence and Spencer Charters. Directed by Herbert I. Leeds. Reviewed Friday afternoon by Mary Harris. At Loew's Capitol Theater.

Making a picture may be hard work for some people, but for the 11'l Dionnes, it was just another lark. You can see that they didn't even sense the presence of a camera, let alone have any of the coaching that shows too plainly in average movie children.

The Dionne girlies (for they are real little girls now, with just a trace of babyhood) tweak off the good doctor's spectacles and try them on, bathe and dress their dolls, dance and sing artlessly, even indulge in a little scrapping. But it's all as natural and unself-conscious as the doings in any nursery. The whole business in its perfect reflection of the gayety, mischief and funny quirks of little girls, is enough to tempt one to pronounce that directors should never be permitted to drill small children in acting—if one wants children to act like children, that is.

Anyone who knows kids will get great fun out of the way the Dionnes do the unexpected—just as children always do. Thus, each is presented with a cute spaniel puppy, the first living pets they've ever received. But did they rush forward and coo over the dear little pupsies in the approved stage child manner? Not a bit of it. They took one look and retreated hastily and en masse back up the porch steps. It took a little of the doctor's easy-going explanation to convince them that the puppies were really okay.

A Bit of Rascality

But even more startling is the fact that these tiny girls really kid their numbers. We're not quite sure, but we think it's Yvonne who's responsible for most of this rascality. Anyway, she makes funny faces, and does it on purpose. Their dancing and singing is not finished, of course. It would not be appealing if it was. It is the sort of thing small girls love to do—a dance that's a cross between a minuet and a ring-around-a-rose, a simple little lullaby. The lullaby was a panic since two of the Dionnes put their little hands up to their cheeks in the proper manner to denote sleep-a-bye, two were inclined to make a bit of a punching match out of it and the other one devoted her attention to investigating the mike.

While the Dionnes are the center and reason for the picture, it also has a good, swiftly paced adult story to lend proper setting and additional movement.

Jean Hersholt again plays Dr. DaFoe and even better, if that is possible, than in previous Dionne pictures. John Qualen is again the Dionnes' papa and "Slim" Summerville the town constable.

New blood is introduced into the new story in the persons of Claire Trevor and Cesar Romero, as a couple of roving radio reporters, who deal out double double-crosses to each other and wind up by falling in love. Henry Wilcoxon plays a fine young doctor who threatens to become a love interest. Inez Courtney is more or less of a femme clown, as Claire's assistant.

If it weren't for the Dionnes, "Five of a Kind" would be just another flashy film about the newspaper and radio clan. But with the little Dionnes,—it is an imperishable record of natural childhood, one of the best—perhaps the best—of the Dionne series.

Cuban Music on Stage

Cuba itself is brought to the Capitol stage by Ciro Rimac and his Rhumbaland Muchachos. But even better than their rhumbas is "La Conga," that lesser known and more subtle Cuban dance, full of cruel and soaring rhythms. Ciro, a mite of a brown-skinned fellow, besides being quite the director, is one of the best dancers ever to appear at the Capitol. His dancing is no matter of trick steps and fancy whirls, but of pure rhythm and that male vitality peculiar to dances out of the Spanish.

The oddly named Charley Boy, starred with the Rimac orchestra, is another Latin dancing marvel, showing boundless agility and endurance in one of those Cuban numbers that have some undeclared relation to the Russian dance.

Gale and Carson are the Capitol clowns this week, and very good ones. The three handsome midgets who appear with Fredric Sylvester offer acrobatics worthy of giants.

Columbia

Besides the unfailing charm of the fancy figure which Sonja Henie cuts with her silver skates, "My Lucky Star" has enough supporting players in intriguing bits to make it worth seeing.

To Gordon & Revel and Victor Herbert music, the star performs some poetic tricks on the ice; Miss Henie wears some sporting ensembles guaranteed to make women able to face icicles with more fortitude; Cesar Romero dashes about in impeccable evening clothes; Buddy Ebsen and Joan Davis team up with quite wondrous results; Billy Gilbert gurgles through another of his incomparable waiter arts.

And a new star is given to the public. Young Richard Greene, who sympathetically supports the Henie, is a combination of Taylor and Gable, thus he does not need also a tinge of Muni or Tracy. The boy will do nicely, so far as feminine fans are concerned.

The story has to do with how a bundle-wrapper in a New York store is sent to a Northern university to advertise the store's sports clothes while she poses as a student. Creaking a bit from the strain placed upon it, the fragile plot survives only because of the gayety of its cast.

Lew Lehr attains a larger spot with a comedy about what every girl should know. If you like Lehr, you will laugh yourself into the aisles. Personally, we countenance no leers at Lehr.

Dick Tracy surmounts all obstacles in another episode of the serial. The news clips have shots of the signing of that recent historic document and the subsequent surrender of the Czech border territory. S. S.

"TOO HOT TO HANDLE." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of a story by Len Hammond, adapted to the screen by Laurence Stallings and John Lee Mahin, costarring Clark Gable and Myrna Loy, with Walter Pidgeon, Walter Connolly, Leo Carrillo, Johnny Hines, Virginia Weidler, Betty Ross Clarke, Henry Kolker, Marjorie Main, Gregory Gaye, Al Shean, Willie Fung, Lillie Mei and Patsy O'Connor. Directed by Jack Conway. Previewed Tuesday, October 11. At Loew's Palace Theater.

Next to a detail in the front line trenches, or working in a nitroglycerine plant, the newsreel cameraman's job would seem to be the shortest cut to eternity known to the human race. The lads are in the thick of things, whether it happens to be the bombardment of Shanghai, a burning munitions ship at sea, rounding up a two-gun bandit in The Bronx, or outsmarting the voodoo savages in the depths of the South American jungles. Nice work, if you don't have to get it!

BELL.

Just how all this works out for purposes of explosive screen entertainment is divulged with enough red fire to make a sunset in "Too Hot to Handle," the bit of celluloid dynamite now on view at Loew's Palace Theater, with Clark Gable and Myrna Loy racing around the globe in an enthusiastic effort to break their necks, scoop their competitors and frazzle the nerves of the audience. They succeed in accomplishing everything but the first objective, and they come so close to that so often that the constant inclination is to put in a call for the ambulance and a private room in the nearest hospital.

Begins in Shanghai

The mad chase starts in China, while Shanghai is being blown to smithereens by cozy little Nipponese bombs weighing only a few tons apiece, and Chris Hunter and Bill Dennis are trying to devise ways and means—fair or foul—of outscooping each other. The newsreel boys, it seems, are not always ethical, even if they are always energetic. They perpetuate some of the most unholy hoaxes in the name of authentic news that ever hit a projection booth. One of them involves a bit of serum flying by the world's greatest aviatrix, one Alma Harding, who comes through crashes and burning planes with nothing worse than a dirty face and a bad case of love.

The skullduggery in this bit of footage provides much of the motivation for the later developments of the picture, because the heads of the rival newsreel companies, back in New York, are as perpetually at each other's throats as their lads out in the field half way around the world. This compound antagonism carries on through the sensational events already alluded to in these dispatches, ending with the jungle savagery business that may not get too hot to handle, but does emphatically get a little too thick to swallow.

This entire lark in the upper reaches of melodramatic hokum is geared so high and gets so frequently out of any rational hand that anything goes. So in addition to the thrills there are many laughs, much disturbed romance, an abundance of exciting photography and a general Fourth of July spirit that whips the thing over with such a rush and so loud a bang that it doesn't much matter whether it all makes sense or not. As a matter of fact, most of it does make sense until the action moves into South America, where all concerned—except the bloodthirsty natives—are intent upon rescuing Alma's aviator brother from being roasted on a spit as part of a Voodoo Christmas, or something. This sequence, as I have said, is a little hard to take—except that it gives Clark Gable a chance to clown in a rooster suit and pretend that he is a heap big medicine man, thus revealing a new and unsuspected facet of his artistry.

Cast Travels in High

Gable and Myrna Loy, at a conservative estimate, multiply the dynamics of their work in "Test Pilot" by ten in "Too Hot to Handle." They plunge through their nerve-jangling stunts with complete and amazing enthusiasm. As Bill Dennis, chief nemesis of Mr. Gable's breezy Chris Hunter, Walter Pidgeon matches the star's performance within the limitations of his role It is perhaps the best job Mr. Pidgeon has done to date. Walter Connolly, as head of the biggest of the newsreel agencies, also contributes a suitably apoplectic portrayal of an executive having himself a very tough time, both professionally and domestically, and Henry Kolker is competent as his chief adversary. Leo Carrillo is along in an effective dialect role and all the others in the cast catch the fire-cracker spirit of the picture.

The supplementary subjects on the new bill are in nice contrast to the feature and handsome items on their own accounts. Foremost is Truman Talley's "Fashion Forecaste," in superb Technicolor, in which the most famous models in the country are all bogged down with rich raiment, costly furs and fabulous jewels. Pete Smith offers a sop to the sports fans in "Gridiron Rules," tracing the development of the game of modern football, and the "News of the Day" adds the finishing touch to a bill that is apt to add the finishing touch to you, unless you take along the smelling salts and a few aspirin tablets.

Hollywood, Calif., Oct. 14.—The auction sale of the house and furnishings belonging to Fay Wray was like the passing of a friend. That sweet, peaceful English cottage could be called "Tragedy House." After she married John Monk Saunders, they bought it. Susan, their daughter, was born there. Now Fay and Johnnie have drifted apart. Sometimes I wonder if certain locations attract tragedy.

HEDDA HOPPER

When Chester Morris opened at the Strand in New York, Harry Houdini's widow was his guest of honor. Chester, like Harry, is cleaning up on magic, and has graduated from B and A pictures. Goes into "Pacific Liner" with Victor McLaglen.

Dolly Connolly, hostess with Bob Murphy at House of Murphy, where you'll find all the stars, used to press agent Junior League girls in New York. You didn't think they needed one. They sometimes work overtime getting their names in the paper.

Garbo's favorite cameraman, Bill Daniels, is photographing the 16 beauties in "Dramatic School." They call him papa and, to prove they mean it, plant kisses on his face. His wife presented him with a box of cleaning tissues, saying: "Use these and save wear and tear on your Christmas handkerchiefs."

Vincent Price came out to Universal to make "Service De Luxe" on a six months' contract. They've torn it up and given him a new one. He's taken a home in Beverly and all set for Dannielle Darrieux's next picture. Incidentally, his father is one of the richest men in our country.

Before Judy Garland's last party, one of her friends called Judy's mother, asking if she might bring an old man. Mrs. Garland relied: "Yes, how old is he?"

Gertir Lawrence is trying out her new play in Chicago with same cast and scenery she uses in "Susan and God," but makes a little speech before curtain, telling the audience that the cast and scenery may not be suitable but she wants them to tell her if the play is. Something new in frankness. Wonder if Paul Smith, San Francisco's youngest managing editor, followed her on to Chicago?

While Eleanor Powell was dancing and funning at Ocean Park, a young man came up to her and said: "I've been watching you. Won't you please do this Jitterbug contest with me—I need the money so badly."

Eleanor said: "Sure."

Of course, they won the prize. After which the boy said: "I can't understand why you never won a contest before. You sure can dance."

When we heard Helena Rubenstein was coming to town, whispers went about: "Who's face is going to be lifted this time?" As though she did! Helena arrived with a new husband, Prince—don't ask me to spell his name—on a business honeymoon. Her cocktail party was a great success. They're now en route to Melbourne, Australia, where she started her beauty business 30 years ago.

A stunt woman's life should make an interesting picture. I think the public would go for it. Ione Reed, top motion picture stunt girl, who broke her heel a few months ago, has used her brain instead and written a novel about her life, naming it "Stunt Girl." Hope she cleans up so she can give up stunting.

When Eddie Ludwig was casting "The Last Gangster" at Metro, he saw a test of John Garfield and wanted him for a part in the picture. They said: "Oh, what's that guy got?" Now they know. Eddie's the salesman's delight. Went out to buy a Ford—came home with a Dusenberg.

Laykin's jewels will get screen credit. Columbia's duplicating their shop and using all their jewels in "There's That Woman Again," with Virginia Bruce and Melvyn Douglas. And I can hear you men groaning: "There's that menace tempting out women again."

Which reminds me—I was trying to look at a glamour girl's clip, when she said: "Oh, don't look at this . . . it's last year's jewelry."

Now I ask you!

Metropolitan

Frank Capra's wittily caparisoned film version of the capricious Sycamore family, "You Can't Take It With You," is again on view downtown this week at the Metropolitan. No wonder this, for Mr. Capra, in the manner of his own Mr. Deeds, has really gone to town in his cinemazation of the George S. Kaufman-Moss Hart smash stage success.

Part of our local landscope seems the living room where playwriting Penny employs a lively kitten as a paperweight for her voluminous manuscripts; there's the kitchen where chocolate Rheba entertains her boy friend, a slow-spoken lad reluctant to leave the city for fear that elsewhere there be no relief rolls. Below is the cellar, home of Poppins Masks and Sycamore fireworks, which go off at the most unexpected times. More history than news are the adventures of this family, wose motton is "Do what you want to do, when you want to do it" and whose head is amiable Grandpa Vanderhof.

There are some differences from the play. More stressed are the empty, though more gaudy, lives of the banking Kirbys, whose young son wants to marry the Sycamore girl. There is no drunken actress to be whoozy of grandpa's snakes, which have likewise gone with the wind. Also absent is the Grand Duchess Olga, whose appearance in the Sycamore household served to convince the Kirbys that there must be something to these people, since they were so friendly with royalty. In this instance, the screen version employs a more obvious, too coincidental, addition to the plot. Albeit, this lobby listener, employing all the powers of a deep-drummed lobby listener, failed to detect the slightest squawk from any of the huge Y.C.T.W.Y. crowds during the last two weeks.

To Lionel Barrymore and Spring Byington, huzzahs for fine work in two of the more vital roles. Mischa Auer, Jean Arthur, Edward Arnold, Donald Meek and James Stewart are others in the unusually fine cast of a picture you will long be taking with you. R. L. C.

Hat Drives Star Out of Her Bed

The troublesome combination of a high coiffure and a doll-sized hat caused Marie Wilson to sleep standing up.

Marie had to leave for Santa Barbara early one morning to have Sunday breakfast with friends. She had bought one of those new, small hats and wanted to wear it. She also wanted to have her hair in the latest style. But she found she couldn't put the hat on herself.

So Saturday afternoon she went to the studio and had makeup artist Perc Westmore fix her hair and put the hat on for her. That night she slept sitting up in an arm chair.

"I AM THE LAW." Columbia Pictures filmization of a story by Fred Allhoff, adapted to the screen by Jo Swerling, starring Edward G. Robinson, with Wendy Barrie, Otto Kruger, John Beal, Barbara O'Neil, Marc Lawrence, Douglas Wood, Robert Middlemass, Ivan Miller, Charles Halton, Louis Jean Heydt and Fay Helm. Directed by Alexander Hall. Reviewed Friday afternoon. At the Earle Theater.

"I Am the Law" is Columbia's addition to the growing cycle of racket-smashing film plays frankly and obviously inspired by the career of New York's Republican gubernatorial nominee, Thomas E. Dewey. If it suffers at all, it is because it is the latest, instead of the first, of the films all cut to an identical pattern.

The titular figure in the current picture is a college law professor, John Lindsay, who cancels a year's Sabbatical holiday trip to Europe to stay home and undertake a purge of his city's racketeers. Launching his crusade with the ostensibly full support of the municipal and State administrations, he soon finds his efforts curbed at every turn by sinister influences within his own organization. His star witnesses are afraid to testify because of inevitable gang reprisals; his plans are disclosed to his enemies before they can be put into operation; some of his most important aides are murdered in cold blood. Finally, the city refuses to bear further expenses of the campaign because it has shown no tangible results within the period stipulated for its successful conclusion. So Prof. Lindsay goes ahead on his own and by clever deductions, planted motion picture cameras and dictagraphs and the valuable assistance of an amateur staff, rounds up all of the hoodlums, convicts his chief deputy's father as the mainspring of the despotism of crime and then goes back to his classroom.

Beats Up the Mobsters

This is the usual formula for this sort of currently pat drama, but in the instant case it has been embellished with a few deft touches that lend it new interest through an effective "girl angle," logical opportunities for the introduction of comedy and a few new sidelights on the craven characters of the human jackals who dare be brave only when traveling in gangs and heavily armed. Mr. Lindsay demonstrates the saffron tint of all the rats by disarming three of them and beating their heads off with his bare and untrained hands.

Edward G. Robinson proves as able an advocate of the law as he previously has shown himself to be a terrifying menace of the underworld. He injects genuine power into his appeals for support of law and order and meets the thugs on their own level when he has to. It is a meaty role that he has and hilt. There is practically no mem- tilt. There is practically no member of the supporting cast who fails to do the same thing. Otto Kruger, as the arch-enemy of respectable society—although he lives on a pleasant street in a palatial home—"plays down" to a fine tone of believability and has the good grace to save the State an expensive execution in the last few feet of the film. Wendy Barrie has never before been seen in quite the sort of character she impersonates as the richly caparisoned "stool pigeon," who attempts to play both ends against the middle with the usual results, and John Beal, as the friend of the prosecutor and son of the crook, is better than he has been in his last several pictures. Barbara O'Neil, as Mrs. Lindsay, acquits herself with the expected finesse of a splendid actress and all of the gangster types are particularly well cast.

The round-up of criminals at the home of the professor and their "sweating," of course, never could come off as it is made to do so successfully on the screen, but it provides a colorful climax just the same.

Garber Gang Scores

Jan Garber and His Orchestra, providing the stage portion of the Earle's bill this week, doles out entertainment in generous doses. The band numbers are executed in the efficient and tuneful manner characteristic of this veteran organization and the specialists are especially competent in their respective fields.

Patricia Norman, songstress, stopped the first show cold yesterday afternoon with a selection of songs that hit the jitterbugs right where they lived—"Old Man Mose," "You Made Me Love You," "Small Fry," and the like. Another young woman whose name was indistinguishable and doesn't appear on the billing—Vivian Newell, it sounded as much like as anything—proved to be an exceptionally clever tap and acrobatic dancer, and Lorraine and Rognan offered a comedy and dance skit that clicked in the higher brackets. Out of the band come Rudy Rudisill and Fritz Heilborn to score emphatically.

It remained for that wizard of juggling and equilibrium, Serge Flash, however, to prove himself the gamest showman of them all. He accomplished unbelievable feats of dexterity and balance in the face of audience handicaps that would have stumped any average performer not so completely the artist. Something ought to be done about these jitterbugs.

The Paramount News completes an excellent program that lacks only the element of novelty in the picture to round out a 100 per cent rating.

The New Yorker

By Leonard Lyons

New York, Oct. 14.

GOV. LEHMAN: District Attorney Dewey is planning to indict another Tammany leader, in connection with a perjury charge. It's scheduled to break near the end of the campaign . . . American Medical Association: Gov. Frank Murphy has completed a district set-up for socialized medicine in Michigan. It will be a compromise, however, in that any patient may have a free diagnosis, but no treatment . . . Elsa Maxwell: Lucius Beebe attended a recent premiere wearing his customary attire, but minus the diamond gardenia he once displayed. "Nevertheless, Lucius," a friend consoled, admiringly, "you're the Marie Antoinette of the next revolution."

WILL HAYS: Greta Garbo visited Tony's, on W. 52d St., Monday night. Tony sat at her table, and they discussed Yogi and the philosophy of giving. "It's a better balance," said Tony, "if one gives more than one receives" . . . "True," sighed Garbo. "I always have given more than I've received. You see?" . . . . "I knew just what you mean," Tony assured, walked to the center of the room, turned upside down, stood on his head and sang Toselli's "Serenade"!

HELEN HAYES: George Zucco, whose last Broadway appearance was the role of Disraeli in your "Victoria Regina;" appears in the movie "Suez." He portrays Lord Palmerston—Disraeli's bitter opponent . . . Equity: Last night's report was that Serge Lifar, who opened with the Monte Carlo Ballet yesterday, may resign—because he took too many bows which weren't called for by the score.

HAROLD ROME: Louis B. Mayer, the movie official, has registered objection to his being satirized in your hit revue, "Sing Out the News" . . . Eddie Leonard: Ted Lewis will employ you to appear in his new traveling unit, opening in Philadelphia.

CLIFFORD ODETS: Luise Rainer will return to N. Y. next month . . . In Hollywood last week she exhibited her new home to a visitor . . . "Isn't the house beautiful?" she asked . . . The visitor nodded . . . "Aren't the grounds beautiful?" Luise continued . . . The visitor nodded . . . "Isn't everything here beautiful?" Luise asked . . . "Yes, everything here is beautiful," the visitor agreed . . "Well," said Miss Rainer, "I HATE Hollywood."

JOHN ROOSEVELT: Your sister-in-law, Sally Clark, is quitting her singing career only because her mother objects. Sally is a minor and her mother has signed all her contracts—but insisted she'll sign no more. Sally will honeymoon in Honolulu and then Nahant, Mass. . . . Helen Wills: At the Frisco Fair Helen Jacobs will be one of the speakers on Writers' Day. Her subject will be "Tennis and Poetry" . . . Walter Wanger: Jack White and Pat Harrington, both of the 18 Club—and who appeared in your movie "52nd Street"—clashed on a nearby parking lot a few nights ago. Their dispute finally was settled.

SAM HARRIS: One of the billboards in your production of Moss Hart's and George S. Kaufman's "The Fabulous Invalid" advertised a show called "The Open Secret," by a "Robert Arnold Conrad" . . . As a matter of fact, local producers once were offered plays by a Robert Arnold Conrad. That was a pseudonym. Conrad really was Moss Hart.

THOMAS E. DEWEY: Your first campaign blast concerned the poll conditions in Albany County. Atty. Gen. Bennett delivered to you a report about some poll frauds in New York County—and that you merely shelved it? . . . BERT KALMAR: Your sing-writing partner, Harry Ruby, suffered a relapse after an appendectomy because a ball player brought him a bag of peanuts and he ate them all . . .

JOE WEBER: The new Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers picture will be a dramatization of the career of Irene and Vernon Castle . . . Your old partner, Lew Fields, was one of the first to employ the Castles—and that episode will be included in the story . . . Yesterday RKO screen-tested Lew Fields to decide whether he has the qualities required to portray himself.

Methodists To Celebrate Laymen's Day

All Churches Plan Rites Originator to Speak To Be at Woodside

Acting on the recommendation of D. Stewart Patterson, past president of the Lay Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, tomorrow has been designated as laymen's Sunday in Methodist churches throughout this area.

Patterson, father of the idea, will speak at the 8 p. m. service tomorrow in Woodside Church. This service will be in charge of laymen.

At 11 a. m. the Rev. Ralph Dela Smith, D. D., pastor, will preach on "Vital Things in Life," before Silver Spring Chapter, No. 66, Order of the Eastern Star, which will attend in a body.

O. O. Thomen, lay member of the Baltimore Conference, will speak at the morning service at Douglas Memorial and preside at evening rites. At the latter service two other laymen, Charles H. Gray, chairman of the committee on evangelism of the Baltimore Conference and of the Methodist Union of the District of Columbia, and Walter J. Snellings, general superintendent of the Douglas Sunday School, will speak.

The Douglas Memorial pastor, the Rev. C. H. Corkran, will preach at both services.

At Dumbarton Avenue Church, E. H. DeGroot will be guest speaker, on "Sunday School Advance." John A. Balenger will lead the congregation in part of the prayers, John B. Nutter will lead the responsive reading and James Bissett will offer the remaining prayer, as J. M. Shertzer, lay delegate to the Baltimore Conference, presides.

Dr. C. M. Wright, of the Lincoln Road Church Brotherhood, will speak at the 8 p. m. service tomorrow on "The Layman—the Activity of the Church," as part of these services. At the 11 a. m. service the pastor, the Rev. Raginald H. Stone, D. D., will preach on "Sowing and Reaping."

In observing layman's day at Ryland Church M. H. Fearnow and Sam McKenney will take part in the 11 a. m. service, along with the pastor, the Rev. Karl G. Newell. At 8 p. m. the Rev. Mr. Newell will speak on "What Demas Missed."

Christian Science Topic 'Atonement'

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The Golden Text is from I Thessalonians, 5:9, 10: "God hath not appointed us to wrath, but to obtain salvation by our Lord Jesus Christ, who died for us, that, whether we wake or sleep, we should live together with him."

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of hi mthat bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvataion; that saith unto Zion, Thy God reigneth" (Isaiah 52:7).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following pfiassage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus of Nazareth taught and demonstrated man's oneness with the Father ,and for this we owe him endless homage" (page 18).

Dr. Pierce to Discuss 'Divine Partnership'

In the third of a course of sermons on "The Things We Live By," the Rev. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, D. D., minister of All Souls' Church (Unitarian), will preach at 11 a. m. service on "The Divine Partnership." The adult classes in church school will have as their speakers, Stanwood Cobb, on "The Bahai Religion," and Gen. H. C. Newcomer, reviewing "Britain and the Dictators" by R. W. Seton-Watson.

Universalist National Memorial. Dr. Frederic W. Perkins will preach on "Learners and Doers" at 11 a. m. At the close of the sermon a simple service of installation and consecration of the staff of the church school will be held.

$3,000 Comes Fast at West Washington

$2,000 Already Raised for Auditorium Work To Be Ready in 1941

Anticipating its diamond jubilee celebration in 1941 in a newly renovated auditorium, the congregation of West Washington Baptist Church, Thirty-first and N street northwest, is now conducting a $3,000 drive, the committee on which convened Thursday night to discuss further plans.

MRS. TUCKER (over 50 years)

Headed by Louis Lucas, former president of the Columbia Baptist Young People's Union, this committee of 30 reports that more than $2,000 already has been raised.

Even back on October 12, 1868, at the cornerstone-laying services of the present edifice, the anniversary of which was celebrated last Sunday, the congregation of 41 members raised $3,000 in one day to complete the building. Two of the charter members are living. They are John H. Newman, 84, of 719 Thirty-fifth street northwest, and his sister, Mrs. Mary J. MacFadden, 83, of 4219 Thirty-ninth street northwest. Another old member is Mrs. Ella Tucker, 81, connected with the church for over 50 years.

Mrs. T. G. Wrenn, only surviving child of a charter member—the late James W. Haney—has served for 13 years as treasurer of the Woman's Missionary Society, which has not only pledged $500 toward the renovation project, but also has given liberally toward the expense of installing new heating equipment for the Sunday School department, re-carpeting the floors, and other enterprises.

Mrs. Burroughs Heads Gayles

President of this organization, the Gayle Circle of which will sponsor a broiled steak dinner next Wednesday night in the parish hall, is Mrs. Z. C. Hodges, sr., also teacher of the men's Bible class. Other units include No. 1, headed by Mrs. R. L. Haycock, wife of the assistant superintendent of public schools, also an active parishioner; King's Circle, led by Mrs. Fannie M. Meeks, and the Juliette Mather Circle, of which Mrs. Scott B. Ritchie is leader. Mrs. Lawrence H. Burroughs heads the Gayle group.

MR. HAYCOCK (heads choir)

This missionary group will play an important role in the quarterly meeting and the fiftieth anniversary celebration of the Women's Baptist Missionary Union, Tuesday and Wednesday at Cavalry Baptist Church. They also plan to participate this afternoon in the annual donation day of the Baptist Home for Children, Bethesda, Md. Additional units are the Young Women's Auxiliary, under Miss Thelma Hodges; Girl's Auxiliary, led by Mrs. Charles B. Austin, the pastor's wife, and the Sunbeams, supervised by Miss Annie Moats. Miss Evelyn Torreyson is counsellor of the young women's group.

Prof. Haycock Helps

According to the Rev. Mr. Austin, one of the joys of his 16 years at West Washington has been the splendid co-operation manifested by such men as Prof. Robert L. Haycock, general superintendent of the Sunday school and chairman of the Board of Deacons. He also organized and still directs the "White Christmas" pageant.

REV. AUSTIN (minister)

Other deacons include P. W. Masson, E. W. Ladson, E. L. Darcey, Welty C. Hospital, Z. C. Hodges, John W. Bean, G. F. Eubank and C. E. Moore. Bean heads the board of trustees, consisting of Emory H. Boagley and R. A. Dewey.

Also actively backing the minister is the Ladies' Aid Society, directed by Mrs. Betty Riley, a member of the congregation for almost 50 years. Other officers of the unit, which meets Wednesday evening at the home of its secretary, Mrs. F. L. Ormsbee, 3125 Ninth street North, Arlington, to elect new officers, are Mrs. John W. Bean, vice president, and Mrs. Lawrence H. Burroughs, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Boagley Heads Choir

The Sunday school department, led by Mrs. Raymond J. Thomas, Mrs. Hazel Iadson, Mrs. Scott B. Ritchie and Mrs. A. B. Falk; the B. Y. P. U., under W. Clyde Hospital; the F. I. Greene Bible class, taught by Miss Emma Stevens, which meets Monday night at the home of the treasurer, Mrs. John R. Harris, 1217 Seventeenth street northeast, and the T. E. L. class, taught by Miss Annie R. Hunter, with Mrs. Z. C. Hodges as president, all are organizations of which the minister is proud. He also likes to boast of the record of such workers as Mrs. Emory H. Boagley, for 20 years organist-director of the choir. Mr. Haycock is music chairman.

MRS. RILEY (Ladies Aid)

The Rev. Mr. Austin will preach tomorrow at 11 a. m. on "Thank God for the Church," and in the evening on "Acquaintance with God." Under Miss Kathleen Moore, service commission director, the Senior B. Y. P. U. will conduct a program at 7 p. m.

Metropolitan Presbyterian To Expand

To Alter Whole Church Open 5-Year Campaign Will Cost $25,000

Metropolitan Presbyterian Church tomorrow will launch a $25,000 expansion program, trustees announced last night.

Covering a five-year period, the plan, to be financed by the congregation, will include renovating and redecorating the entire church and Sunday school building. The rostrum and pulpit will be changed to conform to the colonial design of the church, and the tower will be illuminated with a neon sign announcing the name of the parish.

The plan also provides for the appointment of an assistant pastor, reorganization of the church offices and a five-year schedule of debt reduction.

Directing the program are the finance commitee, headed by Earl C. King; the administrative committee, under Arthur M. Robinson, and J. Lowrey Fendrich, the pastor.

Dr. Fendrich will address the morning service tomorrow on "Why I Believe in God." His 7:45 p. m. theme will be "Fast and Loose and Failure."

New York Avenue. At 11 a. m. the Rev. Dr. Peter Marshall will speak on "The Unknown Christ." At 8 p. m. his topic will be "How to Suffer."

Central. Dr. James H. Taylor, the pastor, will preach in the morning on "Some False Gods" and in the evening on "The Contribution of Disaster."

Chevy Chase. "The Most Powerful Man in the World Today" will be the subject of Dr. J. Hillman Hollister's sermon at 11 a. m.

Sherwood. Resuming the evening service, which was discontinued during the summer months, a special program will feature the 3 o'clock worship. The Rev. Thomas L. Coyle will preach on "Compensation."

The subject of the sermon at the two regular services at 9 a. m. and 11 a. m. will not be announced until the hour of worship.

Bethesda. The Rev. John L. Parkes' sermon for the morning is to be on "The Church." In the evening he will present the second of a series of sermons on the theme, "Can We Find God Today?"

Falls Church. The Rev. Dr. Alton B. Altfather will preach in the morning on "The New Christian."

The Woman's Missionary and Ladies' Aid societies will meet all day Thursday at the home of Mrs. Mary Ryer, with Mrs. H. E. Brown and Mrs. Siegfried as assistant hostesses.

Westminster. The Rev. Harry V. Porter will conduct worship at 11 a. m. and preach on "Working for Christ." In the evening he will conclude his series of sermons on faith with "What a Christian Believes About Eternal Life."

Covenant-First. Dr. A. T. McCartney will preach at the 11 o'clock service on "The Parable of the Barn Builders." The Junior Church will continue its meetings in the All Comers Chapel during the hour of the church service. This is a service particularly for children, and largely conducted by the children themselves.

Rev. A. P. Shirkey to Preach Last Sermons Here Tomrrow

Goes to Larger Church In San Antonio, Tex. Outstanding Evangelist

Tomorrow the Rev. Albert P. Shirkey, pastor of Francis Asbury Church, will preach his last sermons here. His theme at the 11 o'clock service will be "I Challenge You." At 8 p. m. his theme will be "Finally."

The Rev. Mr. Shirkey has been transferred to Travis Park M. E. Church South, San Antonio, Tex., one of the great Southern Methodist churches. It has 3,341 members and has been served by three bishops.

Mr. Shirkey has served Francis Asbury for three years, being transferred here from Pace Memorial Church, Richmond.

While in Washington he has been for two years chairman of the department of evangelism for the Washington Federation of Churches and has served during the past year as president of the United Methodist Preachers' Meeting, including the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church South and the Methodist Protestant Church.

For the eight years of his ministry, Mr. Shirkey has been interested in activities of young people, both of the Virginia and Baltimore Conferences. For three years he has been the vesper speaker of the Massanetta young people's assembly of the Baltimore Conference and for five years was vesper speaker of the Virginia Conference young people's assembly held at Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Lynchburg.

He has been much in demand as an evangelistic speaker and has held numerous meetings throughout the Virginia and Baltimore Conferences, just recently returning from a two-week meeting in Sumter, S. C.

During the past three years he has received 414 new members into Francis Asbury Church and the church has paid over $10,000 on the principal of the church endebtedness.

Mr. Shirkey and his family will leave Washington October 30 to be succeeded by a minister to be transferred from the West Texas Conference.

REV. MR. A. P. SHIRKEY

Mount Vernon Place. "Be Not Anxious" and "Is the Way of Jesus Easy?" will be Dr. John W. Rustin's topics for morning and evening services respectively, tomorrow.

Your Figure

Exercises Better Than Dieting

Slimming Is Easy
Suggestions Offered
Cut Your Waistline

By Ida Jean Kain.

SO YOU can't make up your mind about going on a diet? Well, maybe you shouldn't. It's just about as Ogden Nash says in his clever little poem, "Curl Up and Diet" . . .

"Some ladies smoke too much and some ladies drink too much and some ladies pray too much
But all ladies think they weigh too much.
No matter how low the figure the needle happens to touch.
They always claim it is at least 5 pounds too much.

Now, if it is only 5 pounds too much—or even 10—you shouldn't diet. Your figure is terrible? That isn't overweight. The whole trouble is that too high a percentage of your weight is centered on one or two measurements. Your weight might be normal and still you could have a thick waistline or hips that were heavily padded.

Too many people diet and not enough people exercise enough. The reason is that dieting sounds comparatively easy, but you could diet forever without slimming down your measurements as you would like them. Now, just to show how easy exercise can be here is one that requires very little effort, but which will take an inch off the hips in a week:

MOVEMENT: Swing the right leg up high in front and, holding it at the same height from the floor, circle around to the back. Then, without lowering the leg, circle again to the front. Repeat five times with the right leg, then with the left.

MOVEMENT: Keep the left hand where it is, bend at the waist to the right, and slide the right hand on down the leg, stretching and bending until the body forms an arc, with left elbow high in air. The feet are not moved, but the weight automatically shifts to the right foot. When the hand is down as far as possible, fling it overhead and bend at waist to the opposite side, transferring the weight to the left foot in the process. When you repeat the exercise begin with the right hand tucked under the armpit and bend first to the left side. Keep the hand under the armpit throughout. This is a natural stretching position and you will enjoy the unlimbering feeling it gives you.

You can slim down with exercise almost as accurately as if you were to take a pair of scissors to your silhouette and snip, snip here and there. You do not really need a diet unless you are more than 10 per cent overweight.

A Woman's New York

By Alice Hughes

New York, Oct. 14.

COME, take Aunt Alice by the paddy, and we shall mingle with the lower classes for a moment. We shall get it over quickly, and move on to happier things. The truth is, dears, that three of the really elegant evening show-cases of our fair city opened in one week. Imagine! Yes, duckies in the space of two evenings the season's reveals were started at the Persian Room of the Plaza, the Maisonette Russe of the St. Regis and the one and only El Morocco.

It was the greatest week for exhibitions this city has seen since the last Beaux Arts Ball. This trio of plush saloons forms the last word in night-spottery here. The Persian Room is a charming place, for all its strutting, and Mr. Eddie Duchin's Band plays there as though it went with the lease. The St. Regis spot is the happy home of that dear Sergei Obolensky, top charm boy of our village, and is high church when he feels unusually Russian. As for El Morocco, it is the prize pub of the supper clubs. Thousands of visitors are proud to be able to boast that they have been given the arrogant though genteel snub by its doorman and headwaiter. It is superbly sickening, but such joints only exist through snob appeal, and Morocco's does well.

A wild, large cafe in Greenwich Village has a mistress of ceremonies named Mary Jane Barlett, who was once a nurse in a psychopathic ward. She is reported to have said, "This place is very much like the other, except that here we have music." The crackpots I'll guarantee!

The latest name for a mother-in-law was just told me by Mrs. Jennie Miller, of Seattle, whose daughter Nancy married the fabulous Maharajah, of Indore. "He really is a darling," says Mrs. Miller. "He calls me Mamajen." Wonder what that means in just plain English?

Married Army Man Is Reported for Paying Attention To Young Girl; She Fears Scandal; Asks Advice

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a girl 16 years of age, and this year, after graduating as an honor student, I accepted a very promising position in an office. This necessitated my living away from home, and there was only one place where I could secure board—with a lady who operates a small store and restaurant combined. Now I am rather inexperienced, I guess, and I have never accepted dates with just anybody. My mother brought her daughters up to be ladies, and we don't drink or smoke.

One Sunday in July I met a crowd of seemingly very nice young men at a baseball game and after the game was over, they came in a group to the place where I stay. One of the youths, older than the others, asked me for a date. Several times after that I saw and talked with him and he seemed a perfect gentleman, so finally I gave him a date. That was the one and only date we ever had. I still say he was a perfect gentleman, but I learned that he is married. When I learned that fact, I sent him a letter telling him I never wanted to see him again, and I haven't, thank God!

But ever since then I have carried hate, fear, shame and humiliation in my heart. Here is the worst part of it. Someone reported the incident and since this man is an officer in the Army and supposed to set a good example, he may be brought into court. I have already given a written statement of the truth about the matter, but I may yet be implicated. Can a girl of 16 be brought into court? I'd live in shame forever if I thought I had come between a man and his wife. Anything before that!

Yet I didn't know he was married and I rue the fact that I went. On that date, I asked him if he were married and he said "no," and he seemed so innocent and true that I believed him. Do you think this is a case for the court and do you think more serious trouble could be prevented? Please believe me when I say I earnestly thought he was single. I have since moved. Thank you for any advice.

INEXPERIENCED.

Nothing to Fear

DEAR INEXPERIENCED: If your association with this man was as innocent on your part as is herewith represented (and I do not doubt it); if it consisted solely of a few conversational encounters which eventuated in a single "date," on which occasion you behaved with modest propriety, there isn't a ghost of a chance of your being scandalously "implicated" in whatever investigation of the man's conduct may now be in progress.

If it should be (as you seem to believe) that the Army is currently investigating a report that the man has behaved in a manner unbecoming to an officer and a gentleman, you may rest assured that the investigation will be conducted in such a way as to spare you every embarrassment. Indeed I have the word of a high-ranking authority to that effect. This authority said: "If the man is passing himself off as an unmarried man to girls of tender years, and the matter has been reported, it would be the man's conduct, and not the girl's, which would come under investigation." He was emphatic in his statement that no girl's name "would be brought into it."

On the other hand, the incident of the "date" may not have been brought to the Army's attention at all. It may be the man's wife who is interested in making a case against him. She may be trying, as we say in the vernacular, to "get something on him." It is reasonable to suppose that the wife of a philandering man might be jealous and suspicious, and interested either in allaying her suspicions or in obtaining evidence on which to base a suit for divorce. Even so, your naive and transient involvement with the man definitely does not warrant your being brought into a divorce action. If your innocence of willful misconduct alone did not protect you from such a painful denouement—which it does—the fact that you are a minor in the eyes of the law certainly would. The office of the district attorney gives me this assurance.

Because this is a plain case of your having been more sinned against than sinning, you are carrying remorse for a childish mistake in judgment to extravagant limits in feeling "hate, fear, shame and humiliation in (your) heart" for what happened. It is well that your mother brought her daughters up to be ladies, but it is regrettable that she didn't invest them with a more workable knowledge of human nature, and that she hasn't retained their close confidence to the extent that you might have felt free to turn to her with your problem.

Don't give another thought to the horrifying supposition that you have, or could be accused of having, "come between a man and his wife," in this instance. It is an absurd idea. As things have turned out, the worst that could be said of you is that you were a little too trustful of human nature in accepting the man at face value.

M. H.

Miss Haworth will be glad to help you in solving your problems. Write her in care of The Post Woman's Page.

The Gentler Sex

By Malvina Lindsay

'The Face Is Familiar'

The dread moment has come. You must open the big brown envelope. It is always such a shock . . . still maybe this time it's going to be different. After all, the photographer had seemed so enthusiastic . . . had kept saying "Fine! Fine!" . . . "That's it! That's it!" . . . Now hold it! That's lovely!"

A little weak in the stomach, you resolutely pull out the proofs. Well . . . You stare at the vague slightly familiar face before you. So . . . so that is you! And someway all this time you had been imagining . . . Oh well!

You go rapidly through the proofs. We-l-l, of course they could have been worse. After all, there is nothing really abnormal . . . still—well now why on earth did you sit with your shoulders sagged over that way? . . . And your hair! Why didn't you pull it out more at that side . . . pin down that funny wisp? Oh why DIDN'T you really fix yourself right in the dressing room before you ever left it?

You examine the proofs one by one. Well, this one isn't so bad—only . . . Oh, if you could only get at your hair! Especially that place over the ear! Now if it were just like this—you try to pull it in with your thumb—no, it's too late. Well maybe the retouch man . . .

Now take this one . . . your hair's a little better but your mouth droops. Say, you must watch that in yourself. Here's another . . . that silly grin. Trying to look so sprightly and pleasant. If only you had kept your mouth shut. Anyway you don't smile right. You had never realized it before. From now on you're going to quit smiling . . .

Well here's a sober one, but you look—well as if you had found some spoiled food in the refrigerator. As if you hated everybody. Why on earth do you have to go to such extremes? If you smile you look so fatuous. If you don't you look like a sourpuss.

Yes maybe it was a pretty good thing you had your picture taken after all. You've gotten next to yourself. From now on you will be more careful . . . comb your hair more carefully and brush it a lot more at night . . . and watch your mouth . . . and remember to hold your head back and your chin in . . . and watch your posture . . . and smile differently—if you smile at all. Oh you'll change yourself a lot. Still—it's pretty late. Well somebody ought to have told you about all those things earlier.

You look over the proofs again. Here's one that isn't so bad—oh if you could only get at your hair—and now that you're used to them well maybe they're about as good as you could do. After all they're probably the best you've ever had or ever will have and . . . well maybe you do look like that.

Another thing, they'll look a lot different after they're retouched. And besides any picture loses a lot . . . for instance your coloring . . . and your animation . . . and a lot of things that you have when you face people in real life.

Well, you might as well stop worrying about them . . . there's no use being so self-centered . . . and taking yourself so seriously. They're really pretty good, all things considered, and you'll take them back and have the best one finished up and . . . well maybe while you're down town you might as well stop in the bookstore and get "How to Win Friends and Influence People."

Sweet Smelling Gloves

Miriam Hopkins' favorite perfume trick, imported from the South, has to do with gloves and delicately scented hands. She keeps all her gloves in an air-tight box which she sprays lightly from time to time with her favorite misty perfume.

Care of Knives Is Important

The efficiency of kitchen knives depends not only on their quality but on the care taken of them and the method of storing. Knives with blades nicked and dulled by contact with other utensils slow kitchen routine. A space-saving wooden knife rack of the file type which adequately protects the blades has slots for five knives of varying sizes and may be hung on the wall or, if more convenient, stood on table or shelf. It is inexpensive, but attractively finished in ivory with green or red, or white with black or blue.

Jelly Test

Here is a good jelly test: Dip a tablespoon into the boiling jelly, hold it up and let the jelly drip from the side of the spoon. When two drops will hang next to each other, the jelly is done. Take the pan of jelly off the fire while testing it.

Father, Uncle Officiate as Miss Gray Becomes Bride of Ralph Starr Fowler

M. E. Church Is Scene Reception Follows On Wedding Trip

With her father and her uncle officiating at the 4 o'clock ceremony, Miss Elizabeth Gray, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph M. M. Gray, yesterday afternoon became the bride of Ralph Starr Fowler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Fowler.

The wedding, which was one of the outstanding events of the month, took place at the Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church. Dr. William D. McCurdy, the bride's uncle, and her father, who is chancellor of American University, performed the rites before an altar lighted with tall white tapers and banked with ferns and white chrysanthemums.

Prior to the ceremony, Harold Stewart Briggs, of Scranton, Pa., played two organ selections and Miss Helen Evans, of Kingston, Pa., sang.

Given in marriage by her brother, Joseph C. Gray, the bride was gowned in ivory satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice, and a full skirt. Seed pearls outlined the neck and trimmed the short puffed sleeves. A veil of heirloom lace from a coronet of orange blossoms fell over the two satin panels draped from each side and meeting in the back to form a train for the bride's dress. Her bouquet was of roses, orchids and lilies-of-the-valley.

Sister-in-Law Is Matron of Honor

Mrs. Joseph C. Gray, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a frock of ivory taffeta with a full skirt, and carrying a bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

Other attendants included Mrs. H. Eldred Wilson, Mrs. Craig Hall, of New Haven, Conn.; Miss Mirim Vogelman, of Baltimore, and Miss Mary Lesta Walkeman. Their frocks of ivory taffeta were made like that of the matron of honor and they carried bouquets similar to hers.

Rudolph L. Harrel was best man, and ushers included William E. Davis, Kenneth N. Parkinson, Donald S. Dawson and Richard P. Creyke.

Following the wedding, there was a small reception at the chancellor's residence, American University. The bride's mother, who stood with the wedding party to receive the guests, was gowned in blue brocaded chicon, worn with a dubonnet turban and accessories of the same shade. Mrs. Fowler, the bridegroom's mother, wore cherry chiffon velvet with cap sleeves and matching accessories.

To Make Home In Bethesda, Md.

Shortly after the reception, the couple left on their wedding trip. For her traveling costume the bride had chosen a three-piece suit of royal blue wool with a three-quarter length cape and navy accessories. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Fowler will make their home at 108 Glenwood road, Bethesda, Md.

Out of town guests at the wedding and reception included Miss Caroline V. Darling, Miss Emma Darling, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reed Van Dusen and Mrs. Alfred E. Connell, all of Scranton, Pa.; Mrs. Reginald Bradlee, of Boston, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Jammes Gray and Mr. and Mrs. L. Raymond Fowler, of New York; Miss Elizabeth Adams, of Welmington, Del.; Mr. and Mrs. T. Henry Ling, of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. William D. McCurdy, of Fort Washington, N. Y.

V. M. I. Assured $288,000 for New Library, Stables

Lexington, Va., Oct. 14.—According to information received here today, Virginia Military Institute has been assured of PWA funds for a new building program which will consist of a $250,000 library and $38,000 for new stables.

These funds have been made available by the Federal Government allotment covering 45 per cent of the cost and State appropriations covering 55 per cent.

Gen. Kilbourne, superintendent of V. M. I., also announced today that V. M. I. would be the recipient of a statue to be placed in the memorial garden in front of '94 Hall. The statue will be given by Mrs. W. H. Cocke, widow of the former superintendent of V. M. I.

Mitchell Couple. Wed in Rockville, To Live in N. Y. . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy B. Mitchell, who were married in Rockville, Md., early this month, are staying at the Skytop Club in the Pocono Mountains. Later, they will go to New York to make their home.

Mrs. Mitchell formerly was Mrs. Virginia Hancock Cassell, a native of Richmond, Va., and the niece of the late Gov. Pollard. She is well known here, where she has lived for a number of years. Her husband came here five years ago from Danbury, Conn., to take a position with the NRA. He is now with the National Youth Administration.

The marriage was performed October 1 by the Rev. J. W. Rosenberger at his home.

Helen Phillips Engaged To R. Alan Bradley

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Helen Elizabeth Phillips, of Washington, to R. Alan Bradley, also of this city, was made recently at a dinner party in honor of the couple given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Phillips, of Dahlgren, Va. The wedding will take place in the early spring.

Guests at the party included Mrs. Ida B. Aaron, of the Eastern Shore of Maryland; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Bollman, of Dahlgren; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph V. Graves, Mrs. H. E. Ockershausen, Miss Madie Delano, David C. Rittenhouse and Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Caron, all of Washington.

Miss Martha Vance Elleson, field representative from the American Red Cross headquarters, will speak at a meeting Tuesday at the opening of the Junior Red Cross membership campaign. Clyde C. Lamond, local chapter chairman, will introduce the speaker. Miss Marguerite Moncure is Junior Red Cross chairman.

Mrs. Robert A. Bowman, general chairman acting from the Alexandria Soroptimist Club, has announced that the amount received to date is $300 in excess of the collection at the same time last year, with complete returns to come in next week.

Mrs. J. A. Sims, president of the Alexandria Medical Society Auxiliary, has named Mrs. J. W. Love, Mrs. C. V. Amole and Mrs. C. E. Arnetie to serve in the various drug stores in connection with the roll call.

Little Theater Opens

The Little Theater, of Alexandria, opened its 1938-39 season last night with the presentation of two one-act plays for the membership only, while the first formal presentation will be around December first. The play selected is "The Distaff Side," and tryouts will be featured in the near future.

Officers of the group for the season are Harry B. Caton, president; Joseph H. Orendorff, vice president; Mary Whitton, secretary, and Isabel Bush, treasurer. Memberships will be received by the treasurer at 308 Prince street.

Miss Payne Dies

Miss Clara Eugenia Payne, 24, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Payne, formerly of Alexandria, but recently living in Salisbury, Md., died yesterday in the Alexandria Hospital. She had been teaching school in Arlington County.

Funeral services will be held at noon today at the Second Presbyterian Church, conducted by Dr. William B. McIlwaine. A second service will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church, Covington, Va., with burial in Cedar Hill Cemetery there.

Besides her parents she is survived by a sister, Miss Lelia Payne, a student at St. Agnes School, this city, and James A. Payne, of Staunton, Va.

DON'T LEARN ABOUT

Traffic Laws In Traffic Court

Violating a traffic law and pleading ignorance of the law doesn't excuse you. So why wait until you're hailed into court to learn about Washington's traffic laws, problems and regulations? Many individual motorists and large commercial organizations have joined the Washington Post-Jr. Board of Commerce Safety Institute—to have a better understanding of Washington's unique traffic problems . . . and how these problems can be solved through safe-driving habits. Whether you're an experienced driver or one of the 6,200 beginners who will file for driving licenses this month, you are invited to attend the Traffic Safety Institute. This Institute is a non-profit organization; its function is a purely civic one—to help eliminate the automobile death toll in the District of Columbia.

It Costs You Nothing to

JOIN THE WASHINGTON POST-JR. BOARD OF COMMERCE TRAFFIC SAFETY INSTITUTE

You will not be questioned or examined about your ability to drive a car—or about the traffic laws in the District. These courses will start in a few weeks; they will be conducted by traffic control experts. There is nothing to buy; no restrictions; no solicitations of any kind; no donations will be asked or accepted. You have all to gain—what you learn may save your life. Attend.

3 Racers Hurt As Frederick Fair Closes

Motorcyclists Spill
140 F.F.A. Teams Vie
Winners Are Listed

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Frederick, Md., Oct. 14.—The Frederick Fair came to an end today with another attendance record broken and association officials forecasting the most profitable exhibition in a decade.

Motorcycle racers thrilled a large portion of the 15,000 crowd. Three riders were injured in smashups.

Vernon House, of Washington, was hurled from his speeding mount on a turn in the first race. He was admitted to the Frederick City Hospital with head and facial injuries. Robert Beatty, Wilkinsburg, Pa., national champion last year, and Richard Fox, Cumberland, Md., were slightly injured when their wheels locked during the 7-mile feature event.

One hundred and forty vocational agricultural teams from all sections of the State completed their dairy cattle, potato and corn judging contests late today. The first three team winners in each class were announced as follows:

Corn—Salisbury, first; Princess Anne, second; Boonsboro, third.

Dairy cattle—Denton, first; Lisbon, second; Damascus, third.

Potato—Clarksville, first; Oakland, second; Boonsboro, third.

Individual leaders in the several classes were:

Potato—Kenneth Kuefer, Emmitsburg, first; Lawrence Wheland, Clarksville, second; Edwin Oland, Poolesville, third.

Corn—John Aydolette, Salisbury; Paul Waters, Boonsboro; Bireley Dycon, Hurlbertville.

Dairy cattle—Donald Kubler, Denton, first; Everett Mullinix, Sparks, second; Arnie Holloway, Snow Hill, third.

At a meeting of the Future Farmers of America held in conjunction with the judging contests the following officers were named:

Stafford Wayside Shop Planned As Aid to Needy

Ferdericksburg, Va., Oct. 14 (AP).—Aubrey N. Daffan, Farm Security Administration supervisor for the Fredericksburg district, announced today that plans were being made to establish a wayside shop on route 1 in Stafford county, near here, where handicraft and home products made by low-income Virginia families would be sold.

The shop will be operated by the Old Dominion Home Industries Co-operative, which is now in process of incorporation. It will be one of the few enterprises of its kind. The sale of articles such as rugs, baskets, bedspreads and goods from all parts of Virginia is intended to supplement the earnings of low-income families.

Similar establishments will be created elsewhere in the State if there is sufficient demand, Daffan said.

Demagogues Girding in Va., Weaver Warns

Assembly Aspirants
Big 1939 Crop Seen
May Force Tax Boost

By the Associated Press.

Strasburg, Va., Oct. 14.—State Senator Aubrey G. Weaver, of Front Royal, predicted 1939 would produce the "largest crop of demagogic candidates" for the General Assembly that "has plagued the State in many years."

"We will have those who will advocate increases for everything, at the same time assuring the dear public that they are opposed to any increase in taxation, which, of course, is totally lacking in logic and utterly void of political honesty," Weaver said.

Speaking at a dinner meeting of the Strasburg Chamber of Commerce last night, Senator Weaver warned that if the State spends materially more in the next biennium than is now being spent, Virginians must pay higher taxes.

"We have prided ourselves in Virginia," he said, "on the efficiency of the State government and on our relatively low rates of taxation, both State and local. Our achievements in holding down expenses and taxation and in keeping the State budget balanced have been in all probability the most important factor in bringing to Virginia the new capital which has been invested in this State in recent years."

Senator Weaver said "we may continue this conservative policy" or, "on the other hand, we may embark on the spending program advocated by those who believe our progress depends on greatly increased appropriations for education, social security and other purposes.

"If this alternative is adopted we must be prepared to pay much higher taxes and sacrifice to a great extent the inducements which our present policy offers to development of our economic resources."

Senator Weaver is a member of five important Senate committees, including the powerful finance committee. He was also a member of the joint committee which framed the State's old-age assistance law.

Warns of 'Plague'

SEN. AUBREY G. WEAVER

State Revenue Rise Foreseen By Gov. Price

Status 'Encouraging'
1939 Surplus Predicted
'Cabinet' in Parley

By the Associated Press.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 14.—Gov. Price described the financial condition of the State today as "distinctly encouraging" after a "cabinet" meeting which he said was devoted principally to general discussions of money matters and office studies.

He said the general fund revenues for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1939, are now estimated at $22,394,632 and those for 1940 at $21,061,847, which represents an increase of $934,569 for the biennium over the estimate prepared last May.

The general fund, on the basis of these estimates, gave an unencumbered surplus on June 30, 1939, of $1,490,955 and a deficit on June 30, 1940, of $1,564,733, assuming that all appropriations, including conditional ones, are spent, the Governor said.

Gov. Price said it was decided to continue quarterly allotments as heretofore.

Bedtime Story

By Thornton W. Burgess.

The Verdict

Be sure that you possess all facts
Before you judge another's acts.
Sammy Jay.

"Sammy Jay is a thief," declared Sammy. "He stole that acorn from Chatterer the Red Squirrel."

"But he is no more a thief than is Chatterer, for Chatterer stole it from his cousin, Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel," said Sue.

"And neither one is a bit worse than Happy Jack, for had he had the chance he would have taken it from them," said the Old Naturalist. "You say that that acorn was stolen, but was it? According to our law it may have been, but according to the law among the little people of the Green Forest the only right recognized there is the right of possession. Had Sammy taken the acorn away from Chatterer he would have stolen it. The same would be true had Chatterer taken it away from Happy Jack. But the law of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows is that what one obtains is his only so long as he can retain it. That would be a very wrong, a very hard law indeed, for us, but I suspect that it is a wise and good law for the birds and animals. It keeps them always trying to outwit each other, and this means that only the smartest survive."

"I know a man who says that all Jays should be shot," said Sammy.

"Did he say why?" asked the Old Naturalist.

"He said they are bad; that they kill the babies of other birds that are really good for something while they themselves do no good," replied Sammy.

"It is true," replied the Old Naturalist, "that a Jay does sometimes steal the eggs and kill the young of other birds, and that is just too bad. But you can't really blame the bird if it is born with a desire for a little meat now and then. You and I like fried chicken and roast turkey and broiled steak, so why should we blame the furred and feathered folk who like meat? And don't make this mistake of thinking that because one Jay gets the habit of hunting for fresh meat all Jays do. There are bad men and women, bad boys and girls. Just so there are bad Jays and Crows. It is my guess that if the man you heard say all Jays should be killed is a hunter and I suspect that he is, he probably kills more birds in a season than the average Jay does in two seasons. If Sammy Jay cleans out a nest of young birds the chances are that the bereaved parents will nest again unless it happens to be late in the season, while the birds a man shoots are fully grown and cannot be replaced."

"I once knew a Jay to clean out a nest of newly hatched Robins," offered Tommy.

The Old Naturalist nodded. "I've seen that thing happen myself," said he. "And I have known that same pair of Robins to start in right away to nest again and then successfully raise a family. Even Robins do a lot of damage sometimes, especially to crops of small fruits. As for Sammy Jay doing no good, I have shown you how he plants trees by hiding acorns and nuts under dead leaves on the ground. He brings a touch of beautiful color to a dreary winter landscape and thus brings us pleasure. He is always ready to give the alarm for the benefit of others when he detects the presence of a common enemy, and thus saves many lives to offset those he may take. He eats some of man's worst insect foes, including the hairy caterpillars, which most birds refuse to touch. He like some others, often is condemned without knowledge of all the facts. There would be something sadly lacking in the Green Forest if Sammy Jay never was to be seen or heard there."

"I hope that day will never be," declared Sue.

"I hope so, too," said the Old Naturalist simply. "We don't punish all boys because one is bad, but punish that one. We should treat the birds and the animals in the same way. There are very few who do no good whatever even from Man's point of view. Learn all the facts before you pass judgment. Prejudice never does this. Then only will the verdict be a just one.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Falls Church 2088-M.

Citizens of Vienna have organized a community group, to be known as the Vienna Improvement Association. Its first work will be for the installation of municipal water and sewer systems.

Paul Stinger was named temporary chairman, with E. J. DeMuth secretary. Permanent officers are to be elected later. A committee composed of Joseph Cunningham, Mrs. E. J. DeMuth and Harry Dove was appointed to canvas the town to learn how many persons would connect their property with the water and sewer systems.

Another committee, consisting of F. A. Wilcox, town clerk; DeWitt Crickenberger and Dan Gaines, has been appointed to confer with Commonwealth's Attorney Paul E. Brown and County Clerk John M. Whalen on laws covering bond issue elections.

Engineers have estimated the two systems would cost a total of $186,396, of which sum $83.878 would be the PWA grant.

A mass meeting of citizens to discuss the bond issue election to raise the balance of $102,500 will be held Tuesday night in the town hall.

Night Classes

Division Superintendent of Schools W. T. Woodson has announced that night high school classes will open Monday at the five high school centers in Fairfax County.

Courses to be offered are typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, business English, American literature, English literature, business mathematics, algebra (elementary and advanced), plane geometry, solid geometry, plane trigonometry, chemistry, physics, biology, general science, civics, American history, French, Spanish, music appreciation, band, agriculture and general shop.

Classes will meet three times a week—Monday, Wednesday and Thursday. Tuition charges will be $18 a term. A student may take one, two or three subjects per term. Prospective students are asked to file applications with the principals at Herndon, Fairfax, Falls Church, Lee-Jackson and Franklin Sherman schools.

Dairy Herd Improvement Association No. 1 reports for the month of September there were 21 herds on test with 722 cows, 123 of them dry. Eight cows were sold for beef and five for dairy purposes.

The association averages were 700.5 pounds of milk and 28.2 pounds of butterfat. There were 12 herd averages above and 9 below the association average in milk production and 14 herd averages above and 7 below the association average in butterfat production. One hundred and eighty-two cows produced over 40 pounds of butterfat.

The five high herds in butterfat production were owned by S. P. Spalding, grade Holstein and Guernsey, 987 pounds of milk and 36.8 pounds butterfat; Marvin Perkins, grade Holstein, 930 pounds milk and 35 pounds butterfat; Dr. F. W. Huddleson, registered Holstein and Guernsey, 880 pounds milk and 34.9 pounds butterfat; Middleton Brothers, registered and grade Holstein, 906 pounds milk and 33.5 pounds butterfat; Hollywood Farm, mixed herd, 753 pounds milk and 33 pounds butterfat. H. R. Hawkins was tester.

Association No. 2

Dairy Herd Improvement Association No. 2, in its report for September, shows there were 23 herds on test with 697 cows, 148 of them dry. Twelve cows were sold for beef and 4 for dairy purposes.

The association averages were 617 pounds of milk and 24.9 pounds of butterfat. There were 13 herd averages above and 10 below the association average in butterfat production and 12 herd averages above and 11 below the average in milk production. One hundred and sixteen cows produced over 40 pounds of butterfat.

The three high herds in butterfat production were owned by B. F. Salsbury, registered Guernsey, 676 pounds milk, 33.0 pounds butterfat; Ravens worth Farm, registered Holstein, 1,000 pounds milk, 32.5 pounds butterfat; Mrs. Euterpe Economos, grade Holstein and Jersey, 825 pounds milk, 32.0 pounds butterfat.

The five high cows in butterfat production were in the following hands: Mrs. John Oliver, grade Holstein, 1,302 pounds milk, 67.7 pounds butterfat; Granville Berry, grade Holstein, 1,728 pounds milk, 63.6 pounds butterfat; T. G. Elgin, grade Holstein, 1,450 pounds milk, 65.2 pounds butterfat; Ravensworth Farm, registered Holstein, 1,415 pounds milk, 60.8 pounds butterfat; Mrs. Ethel M. Ulfelder, grade Holstein, 1,536 pounds milk, 59.9 pounds butterfat.

Tomorrow will be celebrated as Missionary Sunday in the Vienna and Oakton Methodist Episcopal churches. The Rev. Lowell M. Atkinson, pastor of the churches, will preach on "Prophets in Babylon."

A special service designed to honor missionaries of the Christian Church will be used in the Oakton Church service at 10:30 a. m., and in the United Methodist and Presbyterian service in Vienna at 11:30 a. m.

The Vienna Oakton Epworth League will hold a special out-of-doors service at the home of Gilbert V. Stewart at Oakton tomorrow evening. The service will be in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, and Miss Elizabeth Denison.

Ladies Aid Supper

The Ladies Aid Society of the Andrew Chapel Methodist Church will serve an oyster supper in the Chapel School House this evening beginning at 6 o'clock.

Richardson Pierce last night was elected a member of the board of the Vienna Library Association to succeed Arthur Harkness, who was killed in an automobile accident in September near South Boston. Mrs. Gilman Hall was elevated to president of the board to succeed Harkness and Mrs. Ed Berry succeeds Mrs. Hall as vice president.

It was decided to buy additional books and a new filing case and to contact WPA officials on the possibility of getting a paid librarian to supplement the work of the local volunteers. Dr. Moody was delegated to ascertain what Vienna would gain by uniting with other communities in a county library.

Bids Asked On Additions To U. of Md.

To Start by Nov. 10
Dining Room Included

Walter Goertz, chief resident PWA engineer, announced yesterday bids had been asked on additions to the dining hall and engineering building at the College Park branch of the University of Maryland. Construction will start by November 10.

The two projects, part of the university's $2,500,000 State and Federal building program, will cost approximately $364,000.

The dining hall addition will increase the capacity of the building from 445 to more than 1,000. The addition to the engineering building will provide for 34 extra classrooms and offices.

Plans for future development of the campus at College Park call for the construction of five new buildings. They include a 40-room administration and classroom building to cost approximately $210,000; a 24-room home economics building costing $186,000; a men's dormitory for 200 students costing $170,000; a poultry building to cost $127,000, and a general service building at a cost of $40,250.

In addition, the program includes construction of six additional greenhouses, remodeling of the interior of the dairy building.

They are: Harry Spicer, Baltimore, president; William Holbrook, College Park, vice president; Mary Downey, Baltimore, secretary; Robert Ayers, Baltimore, treasurer; Virginia Mercer, Baltimore, women's representative; Arthur Meade, Baltimore, men's representative; Larry McKensie, Silver Spring, sergeant at arms, and Mary Ann Griffith, Silver Spring, historian.

Tobacco Quota Vote May Be on Dec. 10

Flue-cured tobacco growers may vote December 10 on whether they want a 1939 marketing quota.

That is the date of the cotton control referendum, and William Collins, chief of the AAA tobacco section, said yesterday it was probable the tobacco poll would be held then because a dual election would facilitate the voting.

Over the Coffee

By Harlan Miller

Sir Willmott . . . on radio

Around the White House no one was surprised by the A. F. of L. demand that C. I. O.'s John L. Lewis resign, and by his retort that he'd resign if William Green resigns.

On Saturday an eminent brain truster meditated aloud that there could be no peace in labor with either Lewis or Green at either helm.

On Monday the demands for their resignations exploded. There was, of course, no connection; just a coincidence.

Last week Sir Willmott Lewis, the able, Machiavellian correspondent here of the London Times, began a series of radio broadcasts on a coffee program. As a sort of unofficial British ambassador, and a most effective one, his news comments could do England no harm . . . Two days later he had registered with the State Department as an "agent of a foreign government or organization."

• • • •

CAPITAL CAVIAR: While our diplomats frown at Mexico, our Army officers are hospitably entertaining the Mexican army horsemen here for the Inter-American horseshow next week-end . . . When the U. S. Government moved from New York to Philadelphia, the total cost of the migration, it's revealed by R. D. W. Connor, the national archivist, was just $2,243.15. Mostly by boat, with the Constitution and the Declaration in a trunk. . . . The Jimmy Roosevelts are moving a few things out of their Georgetown house, and are in a mood to sublet for a couple of months or so.

Spotlight on Scandinavia: At the White House Marquis Childs' new book "This Is Democracy" is being read with as much interest as was the report of the President's commission on English labor. The first book by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch's brilliant correspondent, "Sweden: the Middle Way," became a best seller when President Roosevelt mentioned it in a speech.

By one of those grimly comical oddities of politics, Senator Gillette, of Iowa, who was attacked by Democrats for opposing the President's court and reorganization plans, is now being attacked by Iowa Republicans for authoring "compromise" bills. These would have made it possible for two or three Justices to prevent a law from being declared unconstitutional.

Also, the Iowa Republicans claim, with a neat quibble, that his vote to recommit the bill was not a vote against the court bill; which, of course, it was.

As an example of an almost perfect quibble, you can cite two sentences written by Massachusetts' handsome young Senator Lodge to Doc Townsend:

"The most deep-seated and eternal aim of the human race is leisure and security for the aged and opportunity for the young. The Townsend movement is the embodiment of this aim, with which I am in complete accord." Never did a candidate duck more gracefully.

Does Senator Lodge's final clause, "with which I am in complete accord," modify "aim," or does it refer to "Townsend movement?" What would you think if you were 60 and poor?

To get a mental image of the austere dignity of many of our State Department officials, you must take a look at the most elegant floorwalker in the local department stores.

In other things than manners diplomats remind you of floorwalkers; they walk the floor nights as well as days, on occasion; and they direct armies of armed shoppers toward bargains in real estate and natural resources.

POTOMAC MEDLEY: Of the eight on the Supreme Bench, conservative Justice Butler seems to have aged most since last session . . . But Justice McReynolds, who absented himself from the eulogy of the dead Cardozo, seems as immature as ever . . . They taunt John Hamilton for appearing at Newport and other ritzy rendezvous; but he does maintain contacts which make him the best money-raiser the GOP has ever had . . . Capital astrologers are flabbergasted by news that Bob Taft is running ahead of New Dealer Bulkley for Senator from Ohio in the Columbus Dispatch's reliable poll. If Taft wins he may become 1940's Landon.

Nice Again Hits O'Conor Tax Stand

Talks in Frostburg Inconsistency Cited Backed Sales Levy

Frostburg, Md., Oct. 14.—Gov. Harry W. Nice carried his "stop-at-every-crossroads" re-election campaign into Allegany County today, halting his motorcade in Frostburg long enough to fire a new broadside at the tax program of his Democratic foe, Attorney General Herbert R. O'Conor.

Returning to an issue he raised in Hyattsville last Tuesday, the Republican standard-bearer asserted O'Conor had advocated sales and cigaret taxes a year ago and now was repudiating them with "no explanation of his inconsistency."

Frankness Urged

"Mr. O'Conor ought to be more frank and consistent about the situation," the Governor urged. "If the tax program to which Mr. O'Conor committed himself in 1937 was a mistake, let him say so, but do not let us have any evasions or attempts to cover it up."

The Governor said O'Conor advocated a sales tax, "and tried to get the Legislature to adopt it" in 1937, but a month ago "announced his opposition to a sales tax because * * * it was wrong in principle."

"In his primary campaign speech," he continued, "Mr. O'Conor made a studied effort to create the impression that his proposals for a general sales tax, a tax on cigarets, and an increase in real estate taxes were only of a temporary nature, and advanced only to meet a crisis.

Evasion Charged

"Now that is not true. That is evasion. Mr. O'Conor's proposals . . . were advanced as a permanent tax plan."

Gov. Nice's party, met by a motorcade of county leaders and State police, visited the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad shops in Cumberland earlier in the day, and visited Cresaptown, McCoole, Westernport, Barton, Lonaconing, Midland, Shaft, Mount Savage and Eckhart, returning tonight to Cumberland.

Tomorrow, the Republican bandwagon will move into Garrett County, winding up the one-day tour there with a mass meeting at Oakland tomorrow night.

10-Point School Plan Outlined By O'Conor

Pledges 'No Politics' Will Raise Standards Speaks at Bel Air

By the Associated Press.

Bel Air, Md., Oct. 14.—Attorney General Herbert R. O'Conor, Democratic candidate for Governor, amplified the plank in his campaign platform relating to public education tonight, expanding it to include ten specific recommendations covering various phases of public school programs.

In an address prepared for delivery before a Harford County rally here, O'Conor reiterated his pledge, if elected, to a "nonpartisan, nonpolitical, efficient and forward-looking school board."

"Great Strides" Made

He asserted a study of the State's school system since adoption of the so-called "Maryland plan of equalization" in 1922 showed "great strides have been made under the direction of the Hon. Albert S. Cook, State superintendent of schools."

"In planning for the future, our present minimum standards should be expanded in several respects," he continued. These, he said, included the following:

Increased transportation of pupils to high schools, more transportation for elementary school pupils to promote consolidations, more varied programs for high school students, occupational information and guidance advancement, care of the mentally and physically handicapped, expansion of the night school program, higher teacher-training standards, revision of county teachers' salary schedules, and equalization of salaries of white and colored school teachers.

Better Training Urged

An "upward trend in training standards" for teachers is desirable, he continued, "to insure a sufficient supply of teachers with more maturity and more training for the elementary schools than has been available in the past."

Necessity for teachers to keep abreastof new developments in educational fields, through summer school attendance and travel, and the status of the teacher in the community as a leader in social activities and maintenance of standards of living "point to the desirability of recognition of the need for salary revision," O'Conor asserted.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Brandy, Va., Oct. 14.—With the 1,600-acre Brandy Rock Farm as their laboratory, 4-H Club members from Culpeper, Albemarle, Loudoun and Orange counties met yesterday for judging competitions in seven classes. More than 400 attended the event.

Lewis L. Strauss, Brandy Rock owner, was host at the event, which expressed his interest in 4-H Club activities, and which will become an annual affair.

It was final achievement day for the boys and girls from Culpeper County, winding up their club activities for the year.

The Loudoun team, consisting of Buddy Persgrave, Jack Mayer and J. E. Paland, walked away with the silver cup for the best poultry-judging team. The livestock competition was so close the judges were unable to decide immediately, and the winning team will be announced later.

Winning Judges

Bronze emblems went to winners of first place in each of the individual competition classes. Second and third placers received ribbons.

Winning judges in these classes were:

Draft horses—F. W. Bennett, jr., first; Bertha Berry, second, and Audrey Boyd, third.

Swine—C. F. Clement, first; Henry Estes, second, and Bobby Payton, third.

Breeding cattle—Bertha Berry, first; Jean Meredith, second, and Carter Saunders, third.

Feeder calves—Albert Carter, first, Sam Brown, second, and Elizabeth Green, third.

Poultry, leghorn class—Julia Childress, first, Margaret Lee Colvin, second, and Bobby Hudson, third

Poultry, plymouth rock class—Frank Rosenberger, first; Mary Kibler, second, and Hamilton Hutchinson, third.

Many Officials Attend

County agents and farm leaders in charge of the various judging groups were J. C. Eller, Keith Oliver, and R. R. Tolbert, for Culpeper County; W. H. Cockerell, for Loudoun County; Roger Mansfield, for Orange County, and Keith Oliver, serving also for Fauquier County.

Business and official Culpeper County leaders present included C. T. Guinn, clerk; Roger Bickers, Commonwealth attorney; Giles H. Miller, cashier of the First National Bank and representative of the Lions Club; Turner Ratrie, Maj. J. R. Kerrick and John Walker, all members of the board of supervisors; Mrs. Berkley Calfee, of the Virginia Star; J. D. Trainum, representative of the Rotary Club, and T. W. Hendrick, superintendent of schools.

Dr. Conley To Support O'Conor

To Back Whole Slate County Party Head Breaks Long Silence

By the Associated Press.

Frederick, Md., Oct. 14.—Dr. Charles H. Conley Frederick County Democratic leader, broke a four-year political silence today by announcing his "wholehearted" indorsement of the party ticket led by Attorney General Herbert R. O'Conor.

Dr. Conley, who took no sides in the recent Democratic primary contests, polled some 9,000 votes when he opposed the late Gov. Albert C. Ritchie in the 1934 gubernatorial rimaries.

He telegraphed O'Conor:

"Knowing the general outlines of your platform, as well as your personal ideals for democracy, that your conduct in public office is above reproach, together with your conviction about rotation in high executive office, as expressed by you to me, I indorse you and the entire Democratic ticket wholeheartedly, without mental reservation or equivocation whatsoever . . ."

This declaration, plus the previous announcement for O'Conor by David C. Winebrenner 3d, who led opposing forces in the primary, was regarded by Democratic headquarters as assuring a big Democratic majority in Frederick County this year.

Republicans carried the county by 5,000 for Gov. Harry W. Nice in the 1934 general elections, assuring Gov. Ritchie's defeat.

Va. College Press Body to Meet at Fredericksburg

Fredericksburg, Va., Oct. 14 (AP).—Plans have been completed for the twelfth annual convention of the Virginia Intercollegiate Press Association to be held at Mary Washington College here October 28 and 29.

Miss Jane Sinclair, of Hampton, a senior at Mary Washington, will direct the program. She was named president last fall at the meeting held in Lexington.

Dr. Churchill Gibson, rector of St. James Episcopal Church, Richmond, will be the guest speaker at the annual banquet to be held on the night of October 28.

Officers of the association said they expected an attendance of about 200. Group discussions of problems of interest to editors and business managers furnish the main part of the program. An informal dance and the banquet will be the main social events.

Va. Magistrates Will Meet Oct. 28

By the Associated Press.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 14.—The Virginia Association of Trial Justices will hold its fourth annual convention at Charlottesville October 28-29, W. Francis Binford, of Prince George, secretary-treasurer, announced today.

Speakers will include Ashton Dovell, of Williamsburg, speaker of the House of Delegates; Judge Julien Gunn, of the Circuit Court of Richmond; State Senator Robert O. Norris, of Lively; Charles W. Crowder, of Richmond; J. Callaway Brown, of Bedford; R. Richards Glascock, of Fauquier; Catesby G. Jones, of Gloucester, and Emerson D. Baugh, of Brunswick.

State Maps Better Roads To New Span

Cost Seen $500,000 Traffic Rise Looms South Md. Affected

By the Associated Press.

Baltimore, Oct. 14.—Nathan L. Smith, chief engineer of the State Roads Commission, estimated today it would cost Maryland approximately $500,000 to prepare southern Maryland roads for Baltimore and Washington traffic expected to use the new Potomac River bridge near Morgantown.

Sith said the commission had not yet programmed details of the work, but pointed out the volume of traffic on the highways in vicinity of the bridge would increase considerably once the span is completed, and many improvements would be necessary.

Commission plans originally mapped the Morgantown Bridge as part of a by-pass system, which would enable traffic moving north and south to avoid Baltimore and Washington entirely. This plan was revised when efforts to obtain Federal aid for a by-pass bridge over the Patapsco River, at Baltimore, failed.

Smith said a new set of plans for the Potomac span were sent today to the War Department, which ordered certain modifications in the old set. These modifications, he said, included shifting the highest elevation of the bridge to a point above the ship channel on the Maryland side of the river.

W. B. Mason Named Dog Mart Auctioneer

Fredericksburg, Va., Oct. 14.—W. Barton Mason, well-known Orange businessman, today was named auctioneer for the annual dog mart to be held here October 20. N. B. Kinsey, local auctioneer, has presided in the past several years.

A fruit platter to be known as the Ulman trophy will be awarded the champion dog of the show. Another award of $5 will be donated by a local furniture company to the owner having the ugliest dog entered.

Man Sees With Rabbit Cornea; Blindness Return Predicted

By the Associated Press.

Hagerstown, Md., Oct. 14.—The rabbit cornea transplanted to Frank L. Hoffman's right eye has restored sight to a point where he may "be able to navigate under his own power by next week," Dr. Paul N. Fleming said tonight.

Blinded in both eyes by acids from a spraying machine last May, the 61-year-old laborer has been able to distinguish objects when bandages are changed.

"He is improving every day," said Dr. Fleming, who performed the transplantation on September 27. "We may be able to remove his bandages next week. Right now light hurts his eyes when bandages are removed, but I hope in another week he will be able to navigate under his own power."

If the operation is successful and vision is permanently restored to Hoffman's right eye, Dr. Fleming said last week he intends performing a similar transplanting to the patient's left eye.

An eye surgeon at Johns Hopkins Hospital predicted, however, that after vision is restored, the animal cornea will become opaque and blindness will return. He said experiments had been made with rabbit cornea during the early part of the century and that blindness "invariably" returned after several weeks of vision.

18 WASHINGTON: SATURDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1938 ★★★

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

Detroit, Oct. 14.—Take a good look now at the ten-team National Football League. Because next year it won't be such an eyeful. At least that is the word being bruited about league circles by influential club owners who want not a ten-team but an eight-team league.

POVICH.

The plan is to remodel the league as a close-knit circuit comprised of four teams in the East and four teams in the West. Instead of the current 11-game schedule for each team, a schedule on a home-and-home basis, with each club playing each other club twice, is being urged.

The league, as currently constituted, is being called unsatisfactory because of the fact that the exigencies of the schedule do not permit every team to play every other teach. Each club is forced to omit two rival clubs from its schedule. The Washington Redskins, for example, do not play the Chicago Cardinals nor Green Bay Packers at any time this season. Last season the champion Redskins did not play the Detroit Lions at any time.

The league is regarded as too unwieldly. An eight-club league would not only provide an equitable schedule, but would, in fact, call for 14 games per club if arranged on a home-and-home basis. And the more games, the more profits for the club owners. If the magnates do get around to cutting down the league the two clubs thta will be dropped are Cleveland in the West and Pittsburgh in the East. They are the weak members of the league—competitively and financially. Their passing would be moaned not at all by the league members.

Since joining the league last year Cleveland has represented a weak spot. When at home, the owners have been forced to go into their pockets to dig up the $5,000 guarantee which league rules provide for the visiting club. But that sum represents a loss to the visiting club. The Detroit Lions, for example took $5,000 out of Cleveland a few Sundays ago and still failed by $7,000 to pay the weekly expenses of the team.

If Pittsburgh quits the league, which it may do, the Pirates will be merely saving the league the trouble of tossing them out if a decision is made to reduce to eight clubs. Because Pittsburgh has been something of a blight on the league this season.

Quit on Pirates

Art Rooney, Pittsburgh owner, flush with race track winnings estimated at $200,000, brought Whizzer White, at the new high salary of $15,000 at the start of the 1938 season and apparently was bent on putting Pittsburgh into the championship race. But less than a month after the season began, Rooney seemingly quit on the Pirates. With White's salary representing a terrific drain on the treasury and the Pirates failing to win in their early games, Rooney began to sell and release his stars in an attempt to hedge on his payroll. The suspicion is that Rooney during the past year has lost back to the bookies most of his race track winnings and no longer is a financial power in the league.

More conservative club owners in the league have secretly hoped that Rooney would quit the league. They do not like his racing connections, and they do hot like the connections, either, of Tim Marr, owner of the New York Giants. While Rooney is a mere plunger, Mara is an out-and-out gambler, one of New York's most prominent race track bookies.

The plans for a change in the league set-up are not being inspired, however, by any general lack of financial success. Pro football, in fact, is witnessing its most profitable season. Attendance records have fallen in Washington and on Sunday at Detroit the Redskins-Lions crowd will hit a new high of 50,000 fans.

The National League, only this week, inherited a windfall. Enterprising league officials sold the league's radio privileges in a block to General Mills for $50,000. That money will be pro-rated among league clubs. But the value to the league will not stop at that point. The radio sponsors are prepared to spend hundreds of thousands to publicize professional football in the same manner that they have needled interest into big league baseball. Already in the process of being filmed is a pro football take-off on "play ball," the official moving picture of the big leagues. In theaters, schools and clubs the football films will be displayed, with league officials being told that the picture will have 27,000 outlets.

Pro football is doing very well for itself. But it visions a close-knit, soundly-backed eight-club league as its greatest guarantee of continued success.

'Whizzer' White Deal Is Spiked By Art Rooney

A telegram from Art Rooney, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, professional football team, to George Marshall yesterday, squelched all rumors that the Pirates are planning to dispose of WhizzerWhite, former Colorado University star, who, at a salary of $15,000 a year, is the higest paid player in the league.

WHITE

"I have refused al trades and sales on White. White is the greatest back ever to play professional football. Washington fans and all the Redskins will agree after they see him. ART ROONEY."

The Pirates play the Redskins here in the Washington team's final home game of the season on November 27. The Redskins visit Pittsburgh on November 6.

Short Pass Brings Lone Touchdown

Paul Dean Scores Gilmore Is Tosser Easterners Stopped At Central Stadium

A tenacious McKinley eleven clung to a lead through three and a half quarters of an inter-high game with Eastern yesterday in Central's bowl and finally won by a score of 6-0.

Catching the defending champion flat-footed about midway of the opening period, Tech scored the only points of the contest with a short, flat pass, Johnny Gilmore to Paul Dean, the latter being tackled as he took the ball a single yard inside pay-off territory.

The game opened with an exchange of punts in which Tech was easily the winner in yardage. Quarterback Dean took a kick on Eastern's 40 and moved up to the 22. On the next play, Dean hurled to Gilmore who was felled on the 14 for a first down. With four downs to reach their objective, Tech backs found it impossible to penetrate Eastern's line, and the ball changed hands on Eastern's 5-yard stripe.

Eastern Punt Blocked

Eastern tried one running play, a line buck which netted 2 yards, and then Halfback Hooe attempted to kick out of danger. The punt was blocked and Tech recovered on the 20. At that point it was Dean again who brought Tech within striking distance. He lugged the leather to within 5 yards of the goal, where he was forced out of bounds. Two line bucks by Fullback Bach and an aerial by Gilmore netted exactly nothing. On the fourth down Gilmore again tossed the ball over the goal, and Dean was there to receive it.

Throughout the remainder of the game it was Tech which held the upper hand. Eastern, quarterbacked by 115-pound Buddy Yokum, a District amateur boxing champion, was only able to perform in McKinley territory on three occasions in the final three periods, and that only briefly.

Until the last quarter, Tech was unable to make another serious scoring bid. The session started with Tech in possession of the ball and attempting a long pass, Bach to Gilmore. Substitute McAlwee rushed in to intercept and, finding himself bottled up, lateraled to Cohill. The play was stopped on Eastern's 17.

Loses Ball on Downs

Techmen began rushing the line viciously at that point and two line plays by Cohill and Yokum set the Easterners back 15 yards. Cohill, who was out of previous action of the team because of an injured ankle, yesterday furnished the spark plug of Eastern's indifferent attack, finally tried to kick, but was forced to run. He was downed on his own 10. Despite the nearness of another goal, Tech sagged and lost the ball on downs. Cohill stepped in and kicked out of danger.

Of outstanding value to the respectie teams were Johnny Peiri, McAlwee and Hooe, of Eastern, and Buddy Pope, Bill Miller, Alden Keefouver, Harold Berry and Jack Gilmore, of the winning squad. All played the game for all it was worth, both offensively and defensively. The teams were about equal in ground gaining, Tech chalking up four first downs and Eastern one less.

Georgetown Prep's stalwart gridders moved on Charlotte Hall, Maryland, yesterday and won a 13-0 victory from the Military Academy there. The two touchdowns came in the first and third periods.

Early in the game Marty Kuntz, fullback, accounted for the initial score after a 40-yard drive. Roger Becker's placement was good. Then in the third period, the little Hoyas again felt the scoring urge, this time Frank Boyer turning the trick.

Terps Face Ancient Foe

Maryland Stronger Renew Old Rivalry Terrors Untried

The thrice-beaten University of Maryland eleven will seek its first victory of the season this afternoon against undefeated Western Maryland in a renewal of one of the Old Line State's most colorful rivalries at Baltimore Stadium. The game is due to start at 2:30 o'clock.

The Terps, handicapped by the most unfortunate series of injuries that ever plagued a Maryland squad, will presetn one of its strongest line-ups of the season against the Green Terrors, but still will be a slight underdog.

The Terrors are somewhat of a question mark at this time, not yet having been seriously tested, but Dick Harlow's charges showed potential strength in defeating Washington College, 13 to 0, and Courtland Teachers, 21 to 7

Maryland is bolstered by the return of Quarterback Charlies Weidinger, Halfback Rip Hewitt atnd End Francis Beamer, all regulars, and may be primed for an upset. Hewitt, though not fully recovered from an injury, has been designated as captain for the game and will start and cbntinue to play as long as possible.

Even with the return of these players, Maryland will have its usual quota of injured on the side lines. Bob Brown, tackle, and Nick Budkoff, both injured in the Penn StaSte contest last week, will make the trip, but probably will not play unless it is absolutely necessary. Jim Meade, great halfback, who is out indefinitely with a broken ankle, will watch the game from the stands, but Pershing Mondorff, another dependable halfback, will get his reports at the university hospital, where he had his appendicitis removed.

Detroit, Oct. 14.—The Redskins will be a party to professional football's largest gate of the season when, on Sunday they move into Briggs Stadium to do battle with Detroit's Lions.

Fifty thousand spectators will be in stands at the opening whistle, or stadium officials, long trained in anticipating crowds, are being sadly misled.

This morning a desirable seat could be obtained only from the scalpers. Detroit Club officials were in a dither at the increasing demand for tickets. Ten thousand bleacher seats will be placed on sale early Sunday morning.

MALONE

Detroit, getting its first glimpse of Slingin' Sammy Baugh and his supporting cast, has gone mildly daffy about the game. The Lions recaptured fan interest here when they went to Green Bay last Sunday and pulled a 14-7 victory out of the final minutes.

The game Sunday thus will be a financial success for the Redskins, though the betting odds label it as a competitive failure. George Marshall, as owner of the Redskins, will take down 40 per cent of the gate, which is expected to gross more than $50,000.

Head Coach Ray Flaherty received one more setback today when it was learned that Charley Malone, rangy end, was suffering from a stiffened knee. Malone, hurt in the Giants' game, had been attempting to conceal his injury. But today he attended practice in civilian clothes and the possibility that he will play against the Lions is remote.

But despite this newest blow, Flaherty was pleased with the progress of his champions. "With Turk Edwards and Malone and Max Krause on the sidelines, we are hard hit, but I still believe that on Sunday we will be at our peak.

"We'll have Baugh physically fit for the first time this season and we'll have Riley Smith in our backfield when we need him," said Flaherty. "But what has impressed me most is the spirit of our club. They have bounced back from that Giant with more aggressivieness than they have shown all season. It might have been a blessing."

Flaherty indicated that Baugh would not be a member of the starting backfield. His present plans call for Jay Turner to quarterback the starting line-up, with Ed Justice and Bill Hartman at halfback and Andy Farkas at fullback.

Bob McChesney is expected to get the call over Bob Masterson as Malone's substitute at end, owing to his superior defensive ability. It is the running attack of the Lions which is Flaherty's chief concern. Even without Coach Dutch Clark, who is nursing an injured ankle, the Lions will have a powerful running game. With Ernie Caddell, Lloyd Cardwell, Bill Shepherd and Ace Gutoswky running the ball, the Lions loom as the power club of the league.

Young Girl Captures U. S. Mothboat Title

Elizabeth City, N. C., Oct. 14 (AP). Martha Stevenson, 14-year-old Elizabeth City girl, won the girls' national championship in the International Motorboat Regatta today. An almost dead calm prevailed as the sailing event got under way.

Miss Stevenson pushed her Toodle-oo across the finish line 1 minute and 55 seconds ahead of the Baby Duck, skippered by Doris Payne, also of Elizabeth City.

Field Trials Start Johnson Is Host Continue Today

By Bill Ackerman.

The twenty-sixth annual fall field trials of the National Capital Cluub got under way at the Germantown farm of Walter Johnson yesterday.

So keen was the competition in the Derby, the stakes for young dogs whelped since January, 1937, that the judges, Dr. W. H. Hopkins, of Annapolis, and Thomas H. Hunt, of Baltimore, found it necessary to call a second series to place the winners.

ACKERMAN.

With but six brace listed to run in the puppy stakes, five dogs were called back—Earhart, Long Island Jake, Airmans Miss Sola, Shores Carolina Jake and Shores Carolina Bill.

Judge R. H. L. Chichester's Airmans iss Sola, from Stafford, Va., deserved to take the stake with a reallly fine performance, while Long Island Jake, owned and handled by Leach Bonsall, jr., of Baltimore, placed second, and Doc Snider, owned by W. B. Snider, of Winchester, Va., but handled in the field by Elmer E. Huffer, president of the club, took the trophy for third place.

The first brace of the 11 entered in the all age, started shortly after noon, but there were still two to be run when darkness came. With the competition every bit as keen as is to be expected from these masters of upland field, yet the dogs were pointing but few birds, and it wasn't because there was a dearth of bib whites.

A happening that would get the best of men down was the lot of Ford E. Young, secretary of the club, when his grand Llewellyn setter, Valient Three Spot, failed to start.

Valient Three Spot took this stake twice in succession several years ago, and failed to place last year due to an injury. Needing but another win to get permanent possession of the Ford E. Young Trophy, it was heart-breaking to see this dog that need take a back seat for none, continue to return to the starting line, where he had scented a bird the photographers had been using to get pictures.

There is no way of knowing that he would have won, but it is certain that everyone in the gallery would have liked to see him have the chance, against Jackson, the pointer of Elmer E. Huffer, and the present holder of the all age stake; and other past winners of this event, such as Cashell's Rip, Martez Bill, Regina and Airman's Sir Jack.

The shooting dog stake will get under way about 10 a. m. this mornin and should finish sometime in the midafternoon. Entered are some of the finest dogs in this section.

Just Jim, the liver and white pointer of Frank Kidwell, the red setter Broadway Bill, Skipper of Carradoc, Ripsaw Lady, McCafferty's Dream and Umpire's Buddy B.

Beats Western, 13-6 Overcomes Lead French Goes Over

Hestern High fell behind in the scoring department yesterday in a game with Washington-Lee and lost a hard-fought contest to the Little Generals, 13-6.

Scoring the first points of the game early in the second quarter, Western saw the lead nullified before the period ended by a concerted drive on Washington-Lee's part, Alexander Anderson, star halfback furnishing the scoring punch. Through the third quarter the teams battled to no score, but in the final period the Arlington school clinched the tilt with another goal.

Western, hopeful that its club had started clicking after deliving a stunning defeat to Anacostia earlier in the week, lost to the Little Generals by the exact margain that it lost to Central several weeks ago. Central tied Washington-Lee last week. The defeat by the outside club does considerable to discount Yestern's chances in the inter-high series.

Gonzaga Prep Defeats Loyola High, 10 to 0

A two-point lead went on the books for Gonzaga in the first quarter when Ray Reed, tackle, fell on a blocked punt behind Loyola's goal. Before halftime the lead had been hoisted to 8 points by virtue of a touchdown scored by Joe Street. Street, substitute end, took a 10-yard heave from Bill Gardiner on the Loyola 30-yard stripe and galloped the rest of the distance to the goal.

Pirates Release Two; Sign Farrar, Totsouvas

Pittsburgh, Oct. 14 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates of the National Professional Football League released two more players today, Lindy Mayhew, veteran guard from Texas mines and Karl McDade, center, former Portland, (Ore.) University star.

The Pirates at the same time announced the signing of two Cincinnati Blade players, Vince Farrar, a guard, who played last year with the New York Giants, and Lou Totsouvas, former Stanford University center cut adrift by the Cleveland Rams.

St. Albans Beats Roosevelt, 7 to 0

St. Albans added another football victim to its list yesterday, beating Roosevelt High by a 7-to-0 margin at Roosevelt Stadium.

On almost even terms throughout the first two quarters of the game, St. Albans pulled away in the third to earn the points which eventually spelled victory. Taking the ball exactly at midfield, Fullback Alexander hurled it far out on the flats and saw Semms bring it down on Roosevelt's 35. It was the first long gain of a drive that stopped momentarily on the 1-yard line until Carter Hall tucked it under his arm and carried it over. Bob Hawley's placement for the extra point was successful.

Roosevelt, thought to have a strong scoring punch once it got going, proved as docile a victim as the private school could ask. It was a rare occurrence when the Riders were able to get up the St. Albans 40-yard marker, and they never got far over it.

Dick Metzler, on the throwing end of a pass combination—Metzler to Boothe—kept Roosevelt in the game with his stellar heaves and defensive play. The burden of St. Alban's backfield duties fell on Alexander and Hall. It was St. Alban's second victory in two weeks over the public schools, its last game being a 12-to-0 trimming of Woodrow Wilson's boys in green.

Baugh Finds Collegians Improving

By "Slingin' Sammy" Baugh,
Forward Passing Champion, National Football League.

SAMMY BAUGH.

Professional football coaches to whom I have talked during the last two seasons are agreed that the material graduating from college ranks into the pro league has been improving from year to year.

The pro coaches are grateful for that, of course. They believe the one big reason that better football players are graduating from the colleges is because of the tougher college schedules of recent years. Coaches are forced to play their best players—their regulars—for longer periods and thus hardier players are developed.

Virtually every phase of play in the colleges has improved. Linemen are smarter as the result of the more varied attacks and defenses designed to meet them. The kicking is better with more attention being paid to accuracy rather than distance.

Tackling Is Off

But the pro coaches, while admitting that college players generally are superior to the crop which graduated five or ten years ago, make one important reservation. They do not believe that the college tackling of the present era is as hard or effective as college tackling of a few years ago.

One coach has told me that teaching college graduates to tackle effectively is his greatest problem. But he doesn't blame the player for this deficiency and he doesn't blame the coach. The fault lies with the comparatively recent change in the college rules.

College players are taught that it isn't necessary to tackle a ball carrier and keep him down because the rule now reads that "the ball is dead when a player in possession of the ball is so held that his forward progress is stopped or when any portion of his person except his hands or feet touches the ground."

That rule doesn't apply to pro football, of course. In the pro game, a player who is knocked down can arise and run again. That means the tackler must make sure of his tackle. Simply spilling the ball carrier isn't enough. He's got to keep him down until the whistle blows.

So, as I say, the college players and coaches are not to blame for what the pro coaches say is "inferior" college tackling. But the pro coaches find that in a great percentage of cases of players coming up from college ranks, they must go back to teaching the rudiments of old-fashioned tackling.

To Protect Players

Coaches of pro teams a few years ago didn't have that problem. College tacklers then were keeping their man down, which meant making harder and better tackles, and there was no difference in the college and pro rules.

The reason the colleges changed their rule is acceptable enough. They did it to cut down on injuries and it has been a great help. A good percentage of the injuries in college football resulted from tacklers piling on a ball carrier after he had been thrown. The new rule which says that the ball is dead as soon as the ball carrier touches the ground did away with most of the piling on.

The next greatest problem of the pro coach who takes a college graduate in hand, particularly a backfield man, is pass defense. And there again, the college man is hardly to blame for any lack of ability.

Because he has been taught, among other things, that a pass can originate only from a point 5 yards or more back of the scrimmage line. There can be no pass in college football once a ball carrier is inside that area. But in the pro grame, he must always be on the watch for a pass. If not he is apt to be made to appear very stupid. And his pro coach won't like that.

Roanoke Wins Over Concord

Salem, Va., Oct. 14 (AP).—Roanoke College rammed through a stubborn Concord line to a touchdown midway in the first quarter here tonight after Snidow and Higgins had recovered a fumble by Scholl on the Concord Lions' 16-yard line.

Crumley and Hancock, Maroon backs, drove to the 5-yard line with two thrusts through the line and then Crumley struck twine more to go over. Higgins' kick for the point was good, making it 7 to 0, for the Maroons.

Shoots Record 77 Misses but 2 Shots Never Down in Play At Rodgers Forge

By Merrell W. Whittlesey,
A Staff Correspondent.

Towson, Md., Oct. 14.—A round that was undoubtedly the finest of her 20 youthful years, a course record 77, earned Marion Brown the title of queen of the Middle Atlantic women's golfing domain here today as she defeated Helen Dettweiler, 2 and 1, on the Rodgers Forge course.

The blonde Manor star, who defeated her golfing pal in the District title play by a 1-up margin, repeated the triumph today by a more decisive margin, not only by the score but the fact that she was never down and that she missed only two shots in the 17-hole match.

Both attired in blue slacks and with their blonde hair waving, the opponents looked enough alike to be twin sisters. They had been constant companions the entire week, both guests of Mrs. T. E. Schluderberg, who won the championship flight consolation.

Lost Last Year

The Manor youngster, protege of Professional Al Treder, who was in the gallery today, thus clinched the top-ranking position of women's golf in this sector. Miss Dettweiler won the Maryland State crown. Last year the champion lost to a perfectly executed stymie on the last hole to Mrs. Betty Meckley in the Middle Atlantic finals after winning the medal.

A large delegation of Washingtonians followed the match, expecting a duplicate of their fine performance in the District finals, and they were rewarded with an excellent shot-making demonstration by the girls who are apparently to dominate women's golf in this sector for a number of years.

The 77 by the new champion was two strokes lower than the 79 of Miss Dettweiller in the qualifying round, for a course mark. Miss Brown was out in 39 and played the shorter but more difficult second nine in 38, three over men's par.

Halved First 4 Holes

A six by the eventual winner on the long dog-leg par five fifteenth was the only hole either ventured over fives. Miss Dettweiler matched her medal winning score of 79, a score that anyone would have predicted well enough to win the match, but they failed to reckon with the sub-par stroking of the Manor Club champion.

They halved the first four holes, with Miss Brown's 4 foot putt on the third the only irregularity. Miss Dettweiler trapped her tee shot on five and lost the hole to a par three, and went on down. She squared the match with a 10 foot putt on the seventh, but three-putted the ninth green after losing a shot in the rough and went one down.

The Congressional representative missed an 18-inch putt on the tenth to go down and was three down on the next as she was over in two while the winner's second shot caromed off a bank within 20 feet of the cup, for a safe par.

Drops 10-Footer

Three down with four to play, Miss Dettweiler caused a ripple of excitement as she won the fifteenth with a par five when Miss Brown was short with a chip, and apparently had the edge on the next hole on the second shot, but Marion calmly dropped a 10-footer for a halve and dormie two margin.

Shooting first by virtue of winning the fifteenth, Miss Dettweiler was over with her tee shot but the District champ hooked her shot in a ditch. She played it out and was down in a safe four while the loser's 5-foot putt missed the cup on the right side, and a new champion was crowned.

"Call it a Draw"

The girls, both friends of Clark Griffith, Washington Baseball Club president, and Joe Cronin, Red Sox manager, received a wire preceding the match, saying "Come on, call it a draw, and report back to the big league immediately," signed Griff and Cronin.

600 Are Entered Alexandria Is Host New Test Is Held

By George Berner

The stage is set.

Last night the Foley Dog show organization moved into Alexandria and with the speed and dispatch of a circus, transformed the ball park into a typical circus grounds, "big top" and all.

BERNER.

Six hundred dogs arrived during the night, groomed and dressed their prettiest for the grand competition, the third annual dog show of the Old Dominion Kennel Club.

Dogs of every breed are here, representing 37 of the 48 States and they are not entirely for exhibition either. At most dog shows the dogs compete for conformation and remain on exhibition for the balance of the day bu the club has arranged for obedience test trials including the tracking test.

In these tests, the dogs do not compete against each other but are marked according to their performance against a perfect score of 100. They must perform several given tasks including retrieving a hidden object, jumping high hurdles and tracking or trailing a man for a considerable distance.

The old theory that a show dog is a senseless ornament is therefor exploded and the many different breeds competing on these trials prove that there is no one smartest breed of dog.

The obedience tests and tracking trials will go on throughout the day as well as the usual judging about five o'clock the winners of the various groups will enter the ring for the judge to select the "best in show," which is the highest award in dogdom.

The interest shown in this show and the arvance sale of tickets indicate that Washington dog lovers will turn out in large numbers to see the best dogs this country has to offer, in competition. There is ample free parking space and the size of the tents and grounds eliminates any chance of crowding.

The admission price has been Luncheon may be procured on the grounds, served by the ladies of the club and at nominal cost.

Navy Team Confident Of Victory Today in Grid Battle With Yale

Squad Holds Two Workouts Pond Also Puts Bulldogs Through Hardwick to Use Regular Line-Up

By Lewis F. Atchison.
A Staff Correspondent.

New Haven, Oct. 14.—Navy's gridiron dreadnaught cast anchor here tonight, calmly awaiting the kick-off in tomorrow's important game with Yale, and quietly confident of keeping its 1938 record unblemished.

The squad of 50 men, including coaches and trainers, arrived here early this morning, and went immediately to Cheshire Academy, about 10 miles from here, to shake the kinks out of its legs. This afternoon the Middies worked out in the bowl, doing nothing more than punting, passing and running through signals.

"Ducky" Pond put the Bulldogs through their paces later in the afternoon, and several new faces were in the starting line-up. Cape Burnham, a sophomore guard, and Bill Starbuck, a junior tackle, were named to start their first varsity game for the Blue. Pond also sent Capt. Bill Platt from center to tackle, his regular position, in an effort to bolster the team's defensive play, and indicated that Bill Snavely, a blocking back, will get a starting position tomorrow.

Lieut. Hank Hardwick, Navy's head coach, will stand pat on the line-up he announced Thursday, with the exception, of course, of Al Bergner, ace tackle, who was left at home nursing an ailing knee. Tom McGrath, a strapping 215-pounder, has been assigned Bergner's billet.

Capt. "Pete" Powell and Burke will start at ends; Hysong at the other tackle; Spector and Wolfe, guards, and Wallace, center; with Cooke, Whitehead, Gillette and McDaniel behind the line. "Bullet" Wood, Navy's triple-threat back, may not start because of a leg injury suffered in the Virginia game last week, but will be available for duty.

Yale's first eleven will be comprised of Brinkley and Haxton, ends; John and Platt, tackles; Burnham and C. Miller, guards; Willard, center; Humphrey, Collins, Snavely and Whiteman in the backfield.

New Haven was alive tonight with the vanguard of a throng of 50,000 expected to see the game. Football plainly was the topic of the evening with cafes, and hotels jammed with partisans of both schools. Two battalions of midshipmen are scheduled to arrive here tomorrow morning, and will parade on the gridiron starting at 1:15 o'clock.

This will be the fourth game in the series between the rivals, Yale having won all three previous games. Tonight's discussions drifted back to Larry Kelley's famous "boot" in the game at Baltimore two years ago, which put the ball in scoring position for Yale's winning touchdown, and eventually to a change in rules.

The well-known name of Clint Frank also was on the lips of many, and speculation was rife as to what would happen if he and Wood were pitted against one another tomorrow. And speaking of tomorrow, both teams are hoping for a dry field. Both depend on aerial games, bolstered by deceptive running attacks, and a damp field would decrease their efficiency at least 50 per cent.

Yale, with only a few days of actual field work behind it, suffered a crushing 21-0 defeat at Penn's hands last week, but still showed enough aerial power to throw a scare into the Navy scouts. The Elis didn't look as bad as the score idicates, and Hardwick and his assistants are afraid that the psychological reaction to that loss, and the one to Columbia the previous week, will put the Bulldog in a savage frame of mind.

This is considered Navy's first major test of the season, and the coaches approach it with a pessimistic outlook. Last year, it will be recalled, Navy stormed through its first three opponents, winning by outlandish scores, only to suffer a series of setbacks in its major games. This year it started in similar fashion, but Hardwick hopes it will keep rolling this time.

Episcopal Plays Hill

Game in Alexandria Tomorrow at 3 P. M. Hard Battle Likely

Alexandria, Va., Oct. 14.—Episcopal High School and The Hill School, of Pottstown, Pa., renew their intersectional football rivalry here tomorrow afternoon, clashing for the third successive year at Hoxton Field at 3 o'clock. The kickoff has been moved up a half-hour from the Maroons' customary starting time to enable the visitors to catch the 6 o'clock train back to Pottstown.

Although both previous clashes have been bitterly-fought affairs, the maroons hold a slight edge in the series, having copped the 1936 tilt by an 8-6 margin, while last year's game ended in a 6-6 deadlock.

Both last year and the year before, the Alexandrians went on to finish their seasons undefeated, and the current clash finds them again bidding for an unbeaten campaign. They have three straight wins to their credit, winning easily over Eastern, Tech and Randolph-Macon Academy, of Front Royal.

Hill will invade the local field boasting virtually the same team which battled the locals to a stalemate last season, and if anything, is stronger than was the case a year ago. Episcopal, on the other hand, is still something of an unknown quantity in view of the fact that none of their three past opponents have been sufficiently strong to offer a really severe test. However, the Maroons have looked good in their three wins, scoring a total of 68 points against one opposing touchdown, tallied against their second team.

If past games can be taken as any criterion, Episcopal will bank heavily on an aerial attack to overwhelm the Pennsylvanians. In all three current appearances they have scored with an effective overhead offensive, featured by the unerring heaves of Edley "Stumpy" Craighill, a flashy 145-pound quarterback who came to this year's varsity from the 1937 "B" squad. Eight of the 11 touchdowns tallied by the locals have been scored as the result of Craighill's passes.

In the backfield, Craighill will be teamed up with "Red" Bradfield, Stanley Woodward and Billy Goodwin, while the starting line will include Tom Todd and Ben Dulany, ends; Capt. Charlie Barrett and Porter, tackles; Buster Robertson and Bob Nichols, guards, and Billy Suhling.

Virginia Athletic Club gridmen will bid for their third win in as many starts this Sunday, when they play host to the strong Russell Motors eleven, of Washington, at the Municipal Stadium at 2:30. The visitors will present a line-up composed almost entirely of former District of Columbia scholastic stars, including several who gained All-High recognition.

The Virginians' junior eleven will travel to Ballston to meet the Ballston Cubs, a team composed of former Washington and Lee High School performers.

Georgetown Is Favorite to Defeat Randolph-Macon at Stadium

Kick-Off Set for 2:30 Hoya Line-Up Strong Daniels to Play

By Jack Munhall.

Georgetown University's undefeated, once-scored-on juggernaut will be a prohibitive choice to steamroller a Virginia rival for the third straight Saturday this afternoon when it meets Randolph-Macon at Griffith Stadium. The kick-off is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock.

For this final warmup contest before plunging into an arduous schedule which will send it against Manhattan, Temple, Bucknell, West Virginia and Maryland in as many weeks, Georgetown has available its strongest lineup yet. Only Halfback Lou Ghecas will be missing.

Joe Daniels, 195-pound sophomore end who was voted the most improved player in spring practice, has recovered from an ankle injury and will be seen at the right wing for the first time this season. Daniels, a triple-threater as ends go, because of his extraordinary ability to block, tackle and catch passes, is one of nine sophomores who will seek to duplicate the Hoyas' lop-sided victories over Hampden-Sydney and Roanoke.

Hoyas Are Strong

Joe Frank, senior tackle and Joe Mellendeck, junior left halfback are the only lettermen to crash the starting combination. The backfield, which has shown promise of being the greatest scoring machine Georgetown has boasted in some years, will be composed of Mellendeck and Jules Koshlap, at halves; Joe McFadden, at quarterback and Jim Castiglia at fullback.

On the accurate right arm of Koshlap, considered by many as one of the best first-year passers ever to come up at the Hilltop, rests Georgetown's main scoring punch. It was KoKshlap's disconcerting aerials that opened up the enemy's defense and allowed the fleet Mellendeck his scoring jaunts aginst the Tigers and the Maroons. The slender, streamlined Koshlap throws for both accuracy and distance and he should be at his best today because, for the first time this season, he will have the advantage of aiming his tosses at the tall Daniels.

May Resort to Passing

Randolph-Macon, conceding plenty of weight to Georgetown in the line and also in the backfield, is expected to take a cue from Roanoke and fill the air with passes in an attempt to crack hte Hoyas' rugged defense which has yielded only one touchdown. Roanoke scored on a pass last Saturday.

And the Jackets, improving steadily since a close defeat by strong Richmond, have in Al Palischak just the type of passer to annoy Georgetown. The big fullback, rated as one of the best passers in the school's history, was the keyman in the Jackets' attack which buried Delaware, 27-0, last week.

Former teammates will clash today when Augie Lio and Jim Castiglia, of Georgetown, have occasion to mix it with Al Gajewski and Bob Story, Randolph-Macon tackles. The four played together on the Passaic (N. JJ.) eleven.

MEET THE CHAMP

RUFF CREPE MEN'S SHOES

Meet the Champ . . . as rough and tough an hombre as you'll find this side of "Black Bottom" Gulch. But looks are deceiving, for there's a heart of gold 'neath those powerful looks. It's those "Ruff" Crepe Shoes we're talking about. They've the same tenacity for wear as the bulldog has for gripping.

Try to wear out a pair of "Ruff" Crepes. It's like trying to throw swivel-hipped Andy Farkas for a loss . . . it just can't be done. Not only rugged in character and smart in appearance, but mighty easy and comfortable to your feet. You can actually feel their floating power. Four smart styles for Campus and Classroom wear. Come in today and meet the "Ruff" champ . . . a knockout at five dollars.

*The Moccasin Type: One of the most popular styles with the smart young set. Tops are of fine elkskin; the soles are covered with four thick layers of "Ruff" crepe that make you bounce along.

Listed accordingto post positions.

With strings attached, as usual, C. S. Howard's Seabiscuit is scheduled to face the starter this afternoon at Laurel. If the weather man can arrange to keep rain from falling before post time, it's dollars to doughnuts that the son of Hard Tack will be a contestant in the $7,500 added Laurel All-Age mile, the feature race of one of the best programs offered in Maryland this year. Supporting the feature will be the eagerly-sought Maryland Futurity with a rollicking field of juveniles ready to accept the issue.

Tom Smith, trainer of Seabiscuit, looked over the track late yesterday. Although the running surface was dull, he said that he would race the Howard ace, providing the track crew could bring it to a fast stage. If the rain holds off, the course will be ready for best time.

What appeared to be something of a set-up for Seabiscuit a few weeks ago, now looms as an acid test for the horse scheduled to battle War Admiral at Pimlico two weeks hence. Instead of a handfull of entries The Laurel has drawn 16 opponents and Seabiscuit's stablemate, Kayak 2d, an Argentina-bred three-year-old with plenty of punch.

Idle Miss Ready

Frank Christmas' Idle Miss, four-time stake winner this year; his brother, Don's Accolade, winner over Aneroid and others at Laurel; D. A. Wood's surprising Busy K; the Brandywine Stable's Masked General who "almost beat War Admiral;" Maxwell Howard's brilliant The Chief; John A. Manfuso's great, when right, Aneroid and others were named in the overnight entries.

If the track is fast and Seabiscuit goes, it is believed a goodly portion of the field will scratch. Three entered for the Laurel are also eligible for the more obscure Bowling Brook Handicap, listed as the sixth race.

However, should the Biscuit be scratched the race would suddenly turn to an "open" affair and there probably would be a larger scramble for the main money. Trainer Smith is anxious to get this race, at a shorter route, under Seabiscuit's belt before the War Admiral clash and might stretch a point if the course is only a shade off fast.

Carries 126 Pounds

Seabiscout gets in action with 126 pounds, a real load, but the lightest he has carried since the same event last year in which he finished in a dead heat with Heelfly.

Kayak II was being whispered around as a formidable contender for the Howard forces yesterday. The South American speedster took a sprint the other day in fast time and clockers say he can go the mile without trouble.

Maryland breeders will flock to Laurel today. They will be the guests of the track at a luncheon and, of course, will stay to witness the Maryland Futurity, a test of six furlongs for juveniles foaled and bred in Maryland.

W. L. Brann's Challedon and A. G. Vanderbilt's Balkan War probably will draw the bulk of the wagering.

Our Guest Selector

Our Guset Selector for today is Murray Hagerty. He is a produce commission merchant by trade and as enthusiastic a turf fan as ever tore up a losing $2 show ticket by choice. Hagerty sells the greens in the morning and tries to collect the green in the afternoon. He keeps his transactions strictly within sporting limits and he's a "rain or shine" racing regular. He looks at all selections that come within eye range and listens to all tips that come within ear range but he plays only his own handicaps. Hagerty has agreed to let The Post's readers get in on his figures for today at Laurel. Here they are:

1—Chimney Top, Icy Wind, Dissembler.

Murray Team to Play In Fredericksburg

The Big Reds football team, of Fredericksburg, Va., will play host to the Murray Co. tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in Fredericksburg. The Murraymen will leave Sixteenth and Lamont streets at 11 a. m. tomorrow and will return that night.

Record Rock Fish Caught by 10-Year-Old

Deals Island, Md., Oct. 14 (AP).—The championship award for fish catching went to Earl Daniel today on two counts—size and age.

He went fishing with a tree branch, a hunk of cord and a borrowed fish hook. As he sat on shore meditating there came a nibble and huge bite. There was a tussle and Daniel pulled in a rock fish weighing 9 pounds and 4 ounces. Watermen said it was the largest specimen caught here this year.

As for age—the fisherman is 10 years old.

Regal Lily Gallops to Victory in Laurel Feature Race

Place Money Is Decided By Camera

Victor Pays $5.20 'Double Is $36.60 The Hour Winner Gilbert Is Booed

By Walter Haight.

A Staff Correspondent

Laurel, Md., Oct. 14.—Regal Lily, a daughter of Man o' War who finished ahead of Seabiscuit but behind Isolator at Belmont last month, carried the green and white stripes of Walter M. Jeffords to an easy victory in The Annapolis Purse, top spot on today's program.

With Jockey Nick Wall in the saddle, she approached the imaginary wire with speed in reserve while holding a margin of 2½ lengths over Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Alexandria and Mrs. T. Stevenson's Tempestuous. The camera had to be called on to separate this pair.

Trained by Preston Burch, of Wahington, Regal Lily was well respected by the crowd of 8,000 and paid a $5.20 mutuel in the favored role. Her time of 1:46 1-5 was only fair despite the fact that the track was labeled "good" by the chart maker.

Jockey Gilbert Razzed

A "raspberry" awaited Johnny Gilbert when he weighed in after the race. Gilbert rode nowhere in particular on Rex Flag which drew much of the public's money.

The few who had tickets on Tempestuous were thrilled. He was an 83-1 shot and flattered his backers by going to the front soon after the break. Sun Alexandria, a 3-year-old, kept dogging him but the veteran stuck to his guns. Regal Lily passed them but Tempestuous was fighting it out at the end.

An odds-on favorite and an $8.80 shot teamed to produce a $35.60 payoff in the daily double. Zenana, in the colors of R. H. Heighe, won the day's opener with ease while Cherachin completed the transaction in the third race by taking a thrilling photo finish from The Trout, a stablemate of the first winner.

Mad Policy, the favorite in the day's steeplechase, went lame and paved the way for The Hour's second victory. Paying $9.10, the gelding won by three lengths from Tommy Hitchcock's Farndale. Mad Policy managed to account for third pay.

Trained by Judy Johnson

Young T. T. Mott, jr., son of the owner, gave the winner an excellent front ride. The Hour is trained by Judy Johnson, one of the four women trainers licensed here.

Disciplinary action was taken against two jockeys by stewards. Apprentices D. West, who rode Teddy's Star in today's sixth race, was suspended for five days for rough riding. He cut across horses at the first turn. Jockey L. Hardy was fined $100 for hitting Jockey R. Merritt with his whip in yesterday's fourth race. Hardy rode The Serf and Merritt was on Chance Watch.

Third Degree Winner; May Run in Derby

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 14 (AP).—Third Degree, Mrs. Payne Whitney's 2-year-old son of Questionnaire, established himself as a potential 1939 Kentucky Derby threat and a favorite in the breeders Futurity today by romping home in a 6-furlong race at Keeneland.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ZENANA, $3.90, $3.30, $2.70; MIRIFIC, $10.20, $5.40; DINAMITA, $9.00.

ZENANA, sent to front at once, drew clear and won with speed in reserve. MIRIFIC, well placed from break, closed with good courage and was best of others. DINAMITA went closest to pace to stretch and tired gradually. BUD'S KING faltered after moving up menacingly. GOLDEN MAYNE made up some ground. PROSIT had early foot. The others were outrun.

SECOND RACE—About 2 miles. Purse, $1,000. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post 2:05½. Off 2:07½. Winner, T. T. Mott's br. g. (9), by Rockminster—Media Hora. Trained by Judy Johnson. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 3:52 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—THE HOUR, $9.10, $5.40, $2.60; FARNDALE, $4.40, $2.40; MAD POLICY (entry), $2.20.

THE HOUR, sent to front in opening half, shook off early challenges of TRADE while fencing well and drew out on FARNDALE in closing stages. FARNDALE was poorly handled, was taken up while racing on inside and was taken all over track in closing half mile. MAD POLICY was forward factor throughout, but weakened suddenly with three fences to go and pulled up lame. GAME RUNNER moved up to THE HOUR approaching tenth fence, but landed poorly and weakened thereafter. DRUDGERY lacked speed and jumping ability. CAUGHT fell at the fifth fence. TRADE fell at the seventh fence.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place same. Went to post 2:36½. Off 2:41. Winner, G. Ring's b. f. (2), by Stimulus—Chinchera. Trained by P. Da Lee Watts. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:14 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHERACHIN, $8.80, $5.90, $3.80; THE TROUT, $15.20, $9.20; ORCADES, $4.30.

CHERACHIN was rated while forcing pace, responded to drive through stretch and just got up in final strides. THE TROUT, tipped to front in opening furlong, fought it out gamely and barely failed to last. ORCADES lacked early speed, raced in pocket to stretch and cut over sharply to finish full of run on inside. STABLE, slow to find stride, gained steadily throughout and appears in winning form. BANNER GIRL went forwardly to stretch and weakened. STAR OF PADULA raced very wide. BLUE TINTS was well placed to stretch. The others were not prominent.

Daily Double, Zenana and Cherachin, Paid $35.60.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place same. Went to post 3:07½. Off 3:10½. Winner, Mrs. G. C. Brenton's c. g. (7), by Diaphon—Lespedesa II. Trained by G. C. Brenton. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:49.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DIAN, $8.20, $5.30, $4.10; ZINNIA, $12.80, $6.40; DONA DULCIN, $9.30.

DIAN, going in best form, was restrained within striking distance to backstretch, moved up gradually to challenge ZINNIA, took command and drew out gradually under drive. ZINNIA assumed a lead going to first turn, drew clear, saved ground and closed willingly, but was no match for winner. DONA DULCIN gained gradually from slow beginning to show good effort. GREEN MELON, off well, had no excuses. CLEVER GIRL went evenly. HELEN BAB was carried out at first turn. MISS EPE was through early.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place driving. Went to post 3:38½. Off 3:40½. Winner, Walter M. Jeffords' ch. f. (3), by Man o' War—Regal Lady. Trained by F. M. Burch. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:46 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—REGAL LILY, $5.20, $3.20, $3.00; SUN ALEXANDRIA, $3.60, $2.90; TEMPESTUOUS, $10.30.

REGAL LILY, kept on outside and out of trouble, came around leaders gradually, responded when shaken out entering stretch and won easily. SUN ALEXANDRIA forced the pace of TEMPESTUOUS and held on gamely. TEMPESTUOUS was sent to front at once and closed willingly. CHASAR hung in stretch after making up ground from a slow beginning. BROWN MOTH had speed for a half. REX FLAG was ridden on inside in heaviest going and Gilbert took up when in close quarters approaching stretch. HIGH VELOCITY could not keep up. BEWITCHED had early speed and stopped.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,100; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place same. Went to post 4:08½. Off 4:10. Winner, D. J. Sullivan's b. f. (4), by Sickle—Katrina. Trained by S. Hicks. Value to winner, $800; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:47 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TRINA, $8.00, $4.50, $3.00; DARK SUN, $5.80, $3.40; THE QUEEN, $3.20.

TRINA, sent wide at first turn, moved up steadily on outside along backstretch, took command under drive and was kept to pressure to end. DARK SUN, first away, set good pace and continued willingly when displaced. THE QUEEN closed with good courage. DOPLAY was taken up when crossed by TEDDY'S STAR at first turn. TEDDY'S STAR stopped after pressing early pace. THE BOXER was always outrun.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place same. Went to post 4:38. Off 4:39. Winner, Shandon Farms' br. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—THE RUNNER, $11.90, $5.10, $3.80; CAMARADERIE, $3.40, $2.90; ANGLO SAXON, $10.40.

THE RUNNER, forwardly placed from start, responded to driving tactics to take command and lasted while bearing out in final stretch. CAMARADERIE, slow to begin, worked way to contention between horses, caught winner, but hung right at end. ANGLO SAXON raced AMHURST into defeat to take command and held on willingly when displaced. LONG FACE showed a good effort.

Youngstown Steel at 55%

Youngstown, Ohio, Oct. 14 (AP).—Steel output in the Youngstown district today bounced back to 55 per cent and next week will reach a new high for the year at 57 per cent, due to the resumption of open hearth steel making by Republic Steel Corporation earlier than expected.

Five Republic open hearths resumed yesterday and the Blooming Mill, equipped with tight couplings, resumed rolling today, a day ahead of schedule. A fifth open hearth will be added tomorrow and a seventh next week.

The increase in steel output is also partly due to seven-day operation of the open hearth plant at the Ohio works of Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation. Another blast furnace will resume blast tomorrow and make iron for Monday.

Rising Trade Expected for Rest of Year

Executives Cautious
Foresee No Early Boom
Steel Outlook Good

New York, Oct. 14.—In its weekly summary of the general business situation, the Standard Statistics Co. said today:

"Tabulation and careful analysis of answers to a large number of questionnaires presented to corporation executives by the field staff of the Standard Statistics Co. create a picture very much different from that of the fall of 1937. Business in most lines is now beginning to revive, orders are coming in again, price structures are firming, and most of the heavy inventory situations have been corrected.

"For all this, business executives are not being carried away on clouds of hope into making predictions regarding the future. On the contrary, the average business man is taking a conservative view of the pick-up. He expects it to continue, but he looks for no early boom.

Autos and Steel

"For the curent quarter, better business is generally expected. From the standpoint of production, practically all executives expect modest expansions over third quarter levels. The automobile and parts makers, of course, are planning on a sharply higher output, and the steel industry for the fourth quarter operations to average appreciably above third quarter levels. The majority, however, expect their production volume to creep up rather slowly, but steadily.

Sears, Roebuck Sales 10.6% Under Last Year

Chicago, Oct. 14 (AP).—Sears, Roebuck & Co. today reported sales for the ninth period of the company's fiscal year, September 12 to October 8, totaled $49,814,815, a decrease of 9 per cent compared with the corresponding period a year ago. Eighth period sales totaled $37,524,471, or 6 per cent less than a year ago.

For the first nine periods of the year, beginning January 31, sales totaled $345,472,100, a decrease of 10.6 per cent from the corresponding periods of 1937.

New Financing Tops Year Ago

New York, Oct. 14 (AP).—New financing topped last year by a small margin during the week ended October 13, a survey today by Poor's Publishing Co. stated, although slumping sharply from the previous week.

Offerings totaled $10,576,150 this week, against $104,087,300 the week before and compared with $6,363,500 a year ago.

Wheat Firm With Exports From Canada

Million Bushels Sold
Drought in Australia
Decline at Liverpool

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Responsive to Canadian export purchases of 1,000,000 bushels, and to unfavorable crop advices from Australia, the Chicago wheat market averaged a little higher today. A handicap, however, was dearth of follow-up buying here on advances. Late setbacks of Liverpool quotations counted also as a weight on values in Chicago.

Urgent need of immediate general rain in Australia was reported as necessary to assure even ten bushels an acre yield throughout the country. Some Australian sections were already reporting outright crop failure, with others stated to be in a critical condition but with cool temperatures prolonging hope of recovery.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were unchanged to ¼ cent higher, December 65¼@65⅜, May 66¼; corn ⅛ off to ⅛ up, December 44⅜@44¼, May 48; oats unchanged to ⅛ advance; rye and provisions showing 2 to 12 cents decline.

Executors Sell 130,000 Crane

New York, Oct. 14 (AP).—Clark, Dodge & Co., through a group of dealers, today released an offering of 130,000 common shares of Crane Co. for the accounts of trustees and executors under the will of the late Richard T. Crane, at $39.50 a share. Crane was president of Crane Co., Chicago, from 1914 until his death in 1931.

It was erroneously stated in a news story yesterday that the shares would be offered for representatives of the estate of Richard Crane, former Minister to Czechoslovakia, who died in a hunting accident on his estate near Richmond, Va., on October 3 last. Richard Crane was a nephew of Richard T. Crane.

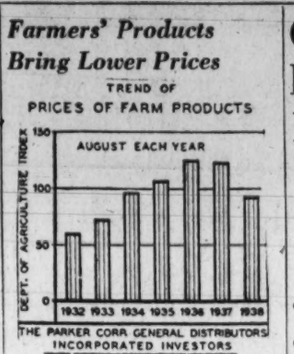
Farmers' Products Bring Lower Prices



Boston, Oct. 14.—The August prices received by farmers for their products took a tremendous drop from a year ago, falling off 25 per cent. This compares with a drop from a year ago of 5 per cent in wholesale commodity prices other than farm products. Grains declined the most, falling 48 per cent from a year ago.

Cotton Prices Are Irregular

New York, Oct. 14 (AP).—Cotton was irregular today. Early advances on steadier Liverpool cables and trade buying were lost under increasing hedge selling of distant positions but there were partial values on covering. December, which advanced from 8.28 to 8.32, eased to 8.23 and closed at 8.27 with final prices net unchanged to 7 points lower.

The market opened 3 points lower to 1 higher with October easier under last-minute liquidation and selling against 20 notices, while distant positions were sustained by moderate foreign buying on differencies. October went out unchanged at 8.28.

Martin McCarthy Plays Tommy Webb Today For Columbia Title

C. B. Hatch Is Beaten, 5 and 4

Harvey Johnson Bows in Semifinals

McCarthy Is Favored in Title Round

Martin F. McCarthy, "iron man" of local tournaments, and G-Man Tommy Webb will meet for the Columbia Country Club championship this afternoon, both having reached the title round yesterday with impressive victories.

McCarthy will be in the role of "iron man" the next two days as he faces Eddie Bean, in the 36-hole Beaver Dam final tomorrow. Medalist in the Columbia tourney, McCarthy has advanced without being extended, defeating C. B. Hatch yesterday 5 and 4, needing par 76 for a 75 in comparison with his two over par performances in previous rounds.

Webb, conquerer of Harvey Johnson, defending titleholder in the semifinals, took a four-hole lead at the eleventh against Capt. F. L. Parks and finally won on the seventeenth, 2 and 1.

Even at the seventh green, Webb won the next four holes, then lost two in a row with over par golf, dropped the fifteenth to a par as his lead was reduced to one hole, but he won the sixteenth by sinking a 5-footer and halved the seventeenth for victory.

McCarthy, finalist in the District Amateur last year over the same course, will be a slight favorite over Webb, who has played little competitive golf of late, in the title round. Both are newcomers to the club's final round ,that has been dominated by Johnson and Miller B. Stevinson the last three years.

Burke Sets Golf Record

Cards a 34-33—67 Hoyas Seek Berths Pettijohn Second

Setting a new competitive course record for the Capital Golf Club with an afternoon, 34-33—67, and adding another new mark with a 139 total for 36 holes. Intercollegiate and District Champion Johnny Burke easily led the Georgetown University team qualifications yesterday by an eight-stroke margin.

The fall tryouts, which will go a long way toward naming the team to represetn the Hoyas in the league matches, found the red-haired Rhode Island amateur and open champion rightfully ahead of the field with one of the lowest 36-hole totals recorded locally in years.

Charlie Pettijohn was second with 72, 75—147, with Ray Higgins adding a pair 70 to a morning 79 for the third spot. The final 18 holes will be played this morning.

Bill Shea, Congressional, took a stroke lead over Burke and Pettijohn in the initial round with a 71 but ran into trouble on the ninth hole in the afternoon, finishing with an eight and played the round in 78 for a 149 total. V. Powers with consistent 78, 77—155, and William Walsh, 77, 82, had temporary rights to the other team berths while J. McBride, 161 and Bob Effler, 162, were in line for the alternates posts in the trials conducted by host pro and Hoya golf coach, Tony Sylvester.

Fistic Fathers Suspend Farr

London, Oct. 14 (AP).—The British Boxing Board of Control today suspended the license of Tommy Farr, Welsh heavyweight, for failure to pay $3,750 to Promoter Sydney Hulls.

The board awarded Hulls this amount after Farr was charged with running out on a contract to meet Max Schmeling at Hulls' White City Stadium in September, 1937. Farr refused to pay and left for the United States.

Miss F. Folger Wins Golf Sweepstakes

Congressional Country Club's feminine golf sweepstakes yesterday was won by Miss F. Folger with a 103. From her grand total she subtracted a 30-stroke handicap to give her a 73. Second low net went to Mrs. J. S. Bowdell, with 84—7—77. In third place was Mrs. W. R. Bush, who scored 91. She subtracted 11 handicap for an 80 total.

Boston Wool Market

Boston, Oct. 14 (AP).—(U. S. Dept. of Agr.).—Buyers today continued to show an interest in domestic wools at prices that prevailed earlier in the week but they were reluctant to pay further advances that some houses had made in asking prices.

Good French combing lengths fine territory wools in original bags were quite firm at 67 to 68 cents, scoured basis, and some sales were being closed at this price level. Houses asking 70 cents, scoured basis, found demand very quiet. Combing ¾ and ¼-blood bright fleece wools were receiving some demand at 30 to 32 cents, in the grease, but these wools were not quite as active as last week.

Upperville Show Today

100 Horses Compete Program Unusual Record Crowd Seen

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Upperville, Va., Oct. 14.—More than 100 horses have been entered in the 12 classes on the program of the Trinity Church Horse Show, tomorrow, at the Upperville Show Grounds on the Grafton Farm estate of Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Randolpd. With the additional horses which will be entered on Saturday, the number is expected to reach 200. The show will attract society from this section, Washington and other nearby cities. If weather conditions are good, a record-breaking crowd is expected.

Mrs. John Hay Whitney has entered a string of hunters from her Langollen Stables. Other large exhibitors wil lbe Paul Mellon, Peach Brothers;; Mrs. G. P. Greenhalgh, of Clarke County; Mrs. R. C. Winmill, of Warrenton; Crompton Smith, Turner Wiltshire, Taylor Harin, Dr. A. C. Randolph and many others.

Sporting people are attracted to the pageant, which will portray "sports of the past." Indications point to this class being well-filled. Two gymkhana classes will immediately follow the pageant, and Secretary Cushman announces a number of entries coming in for this class.

A foxhound class is an added attraction. Six nearby hunts have made entries from their packs in this event. At noon hour there will be an auction of smal lanimals and rumor has it there will be a white skunk offered for sale. The selling class has 12 horses listed at this time.

A plate luncheon wil lbe on sale during the noon hour, and all proceeds from this and the show will be turned over to the Trinity Church.

TERMS OF SALE: Property will be sold subject to a prior deed of trust for $20,000.00 at 6% now past due; balance cash. A deposit of $500.00 required of purchaser at sale. Examination of title, conveyancing, recording, revenue stamps and notarial fees at cost of purchaser. Terms to be complied with within thirty days from day of sale, otherwise trustee reserves the right to resell property at risk and cost of defaulting purchaser, after five days advertisement of such resale in some newspaper published in Washington, D. C., or deposit may be forfeited, or without forfeiting deposit trustee may avail themselves of any legal or equitable rights against defaulting purchaser.

CHARLES E. MARSH, Surviving Trustee.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF THREE TWO-STORY AND BASEMENT BRICK DWELLING HOUSES, NOS. 433, 437 AND 439 G STREET NORTHWEST.

By virtue of a deed of trust recorded in Liber No. 6628 at folio 433, one of the Land Records for the District of Columbia, and at the request of the party secured thereby, the undersigned substituted trustee in Equity Cause No. 57689 will offer for sale at public auction in front of No. 435 G street northwest, in said District, on TUESDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1938, AT FOUR O'CLOCK P. M., the following described property in said District, viz.: Part of lot numbered twenty-six (26) in Patrick O'Donnoghue's subdivision of Lot three (3) in Square numbered five hundred and eighteen (518), as per plat recorded in the office of the Surveyor for the District of Columbia in Liber H. D. C. at folio 96, described as follows: Beginning for the same at the southeast corner of said Lot twenty-six (26), on the north line of north G street, and running thence north 100 feet to the rear line of said lot; thence west 50 feet; thence south 100 feet to said north line of said street, and thence east on said last mentioned line, 50 feet to the point of beginning.

TERMS OF SALE: One-fourth of purchase money to be paid in cash; balance to be paid in three (3) years with interest at five (5) per centum per annum, payable semi-annually from day of sale, secured by first deed of trust upon property sold, or all cash at option of purchaser. A deposit of $500.00 required of purchaser at sale. Examination of title, revenue stamps, conveyancing, notarial fees and recording at cost of purchaser. Terms to be complied with within 30 days from sale, otherwise the said trustee reserves the right to resell property at risk and cost of defaulting purchaser after five (5) days advertisement of such resale in some newspaper published in Washington, D. C.

SACRIFICE detached brick 5-room house, recreation room, large yard, garage. 119 Quackenbos st. Owner, RA. 0721.

THE PLACE COULD VERY WELL BE IN SHERWOOD FOREST OF ENGLAND. It's a quaint little house in its high setting with a sweeping view of autumn foliage in all its glory. Protecting branches of stately trees hang over the eaves. A rambling brook and a road are hard by. There's a spacious green lawn, landscaped with beautiful evergreens and flowers; within its sturdy walls the charm of beamed ceilings, hammered iron fixtures, winding stairways and huge stone fireplaces; this air of Colonial simplicity and years move swiftly backward to time-dimmed days. There is a living room opening onto a flagstone terrace, dining room, sunroom and kitchen on the first floor. Three bedrooms, child's room, two baths, cedar-lined closets on the second floor. A tavern room in the basement suggests good fellowship with its large open fireplace and encircling benches. Good fellowship to be toasted with stout and ale and good things to eat before a crackling fire, much as our forefathers would have done. The price? Call us up, we will gladly tell you. After all, we have a "home" for sale. J. WESLEY BUCHANAN, ME. 1143, until 6 p. m.

The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime

Bob Burns Says—

A lot of people wonder why I never play the market and I'm gonna tell you. Whenever the sale of stocks fall off a couple of million dollars in a day, those Wall Street fellas get panicky and say money is tight. They don't know what scarce money is.

One day I went into my uncle's store down home and I found him turnin' flip-flops and dancin' on his counter and swingin' on the chandelier and he kept it up until he fainted from exhaustion. When he finally "come to" he said, "After this I'm gonna try to control myself when somebody pays cash for somethin'."

JOE PALOOKA — See Why Little Max Likes School—In Sunday's Post — By Ham Fisher

I'M TERRIBLE SORRY.
IT DOESN'T MAKE SENSE.
SMELLS LIKE SOMEBODY'S IN THE WOOD-PILE.
HE MUST BE LOOKING FOR ME --- OH JOE DARLING-- WATCH OUT---
HE KEEPS LOOKING OUT AT THE AUDIENCE--
RODNEY CLINCHED AND PALOOKA SLAPPED HIM A FEW RIGHT HANDERS TO THE SIDE--WHY DIDN'T HE FINISH IT-- THERE GOES ANOTHER FOUL--AND IT WILL COST JOE THE ROUND---
YES SIR. DONOVAN WARNED HIM--- THERE'S THE BELL----CAN YOU IMAGINE LOSING THAT ROUND--- AFTER HAVING RODNEY ALMOST OUT-- IT SEEMED LIKE A DELIBERATE FOUL.
THERE ARE FAMOUS SPORT SCRIBES ---GRANTLAND RICE, LEWIN, WELSH, CORUM, HARRY SMITH, DAMON RUNYON QUENT REYNOLDS, JOE WILLIAMS, PARKER, WOOD, FLEISCHER, McCARTHY, WARD, BILL HENRY---THEY ALL SEEM PUZZLED AT JOE'S ACTIONS---

Foreign Markets

By the Associated Press.

London, Oct. 14.—The stock market was steady today following the strength in Wall street and an improved outlook for commodities. Aircraft, tobacco and armament shares were in good demand and copper issues continued their upward move along with other base metals. Home rails recovered somewhat in hopes of a settlement of labor troubles. Transatlantic securities sold higher and British gilt-edged stocks were firm. Foreign bonds closed heavy.

Paris—International and banking shares sold lower in an irregular stock market today. Bank of France shares declining almost 200 francs. French rentes closed 10 to 45 centimes down and Royal Dutch and Suez Canal were also lower.

Liverpool—Wheat futures today closed ½d lower to ¼d higher. Prices were steady early on reports of urgent need of rain in Australia, but eased later on liquidation and American selling. Cotton futures gained 2 to 4 points in sympathy with the strength in the dollar and firm Wall street stock prices. There was light profit taking and hedging in distant positions.

Baltimore Grain Prices

Baltimore, Oct. 14.—FLOUR—Receipts, 1,007 barrels. Market steady, 98-pound new cotton sacks, winter patent, 3.85@4.15; winter straight, 3.05@3.35; spring patent, 5.00@5.25; spring straight, 4.75@4.95; hard winter patent, 4.65@4.85; hard winter straight, 4.45@4.70; rye flour, dark to white, 3.40@4.30.

WHEAT—Receipts, 145 bushels. Shipments from elevators, 9,686 bushels. Stock in elevators, 1,288,170 bushels. Closing prices—No. 2 red winter garlicky, spot domestic, 65¾.

OATS—Receipts, 4,791 bushels. Shipments from elevators, 300 bushels. Stock in elevators, 4,330 bushels.

Note—On all sales of oats to the local trade, except to those on track, there is an additional charge of 1¾ cents per bushel for storage and elevation, which is paid by the buyer.

No. 2, white oats, 37½@42½.

RYE—No receipts. Shipments from elevators, 50 bushels. Stock in elevators, 18,349 bushels.

HAY—No receipts. General market dull. For good timothy, clover and mixed hay prices at 10.00@13.00 per ton. The poorer grades are hard to sell and the market is irregular on all grades below No. 3.

STRAW—No receipts. Market for straw quiet. Wheat straw, No. 2, per ton, 6.50@7.00, and oat straw, No. 2, per ton, 6.50@7.00.

MILL FEED—Receipts, 80 tons. Market easier for spot bran and middlings. Spring bran, per ton, 100-pound sacks, 23.00@24.00; standard middlings, 24.00@25.00.

BARLEY—No receipts or shipments from elevators. Stock in elevators, 1,423 bushels.

Chicago Livestock

Chicago, Oct. 14 (AP). (United States Department of Agriculture)—The steady, sharp drop of hog prices continued today as quotations fell another 15 to 25 cents. The supply was in line with expectations and smaller than a week ago, but considerably larger than a year ago. The cattle trade was quiet, with receipts small and prime kinds absent. Fat lambs were unchanged to 10 cents lower.

HOGS—Receipts, 12,000, including 4,500 direct; mostly 15 to 25 lower than Thursday's, averages; top, 7.70; bulk, good and choice, 200-270 lbs., 7.50@7.65; 170-190 lbs., largely 7.25@7.45; 140-160 lbs., 7.00@7.25; good light and medium-weight packing sows, 7.00@7.25; heavies, 6.75@7.00.

CATTLE—Receipts, 1,000; calves, 500; fed steers and yearlings in limited supply; choice and prime kinds absent; few loads, 9.00@10.50; sprinkling native grassers at 7.00@8.25; very few heifers in run; mostly odd lots natives at 6.00@7.50; few head fed heifers, 9.75 and better; fat cows slow, weak; cutter grades active; most cutters, 4.00@5.25; bulls and vealers fully steady at 6.50 and 11.50 down, respectively; feeders fairly well cleaned up for week; closing prices 25 higher.

SHEEP—Receipts, 7,000, including 3,000 direct; fat lambs slow, steady to 10 or more lower; natives, 8.00@8.10; good Westerns, 7.90@8.00; best held above 8.15; choice 97-lb. yearlings, 6.75; sheep firm; native ewes mostly 3.00; few 3.25; choice Westerns, 3.40@3.50 sparingly.
